Hoover's Shoes Real Issue at Stake.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—In this year of a national election a political contest fraught with far reaching consequences, and one which for that reason has preëminently attracted the attention of the country, is the affair in New York, which is not a national election at all.

That is, it is not involved in the national election of 1930, though it most conspicuously is involved in the national election of 1932. It is a contest between two wet candidates for the presidency, running for governor of New York.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is seeking reëlection, is the leading potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for President two years hence. If he should win a second term at Albany he would be recognized as New York's logical entry in the presidential contest and by virtue of that fact and of his outstanding ability he would become at once a formidable contender for the nomination of his party in 1932.

Owen Young Second Choice.

If Gov. Roosevelt should be defeated next Tuesday the tendency would be to regard him as eliminated from consideration for the presidency, the political rule prescribing the discard of a presidential aspirant who fails to carry his own state. In that event Owen D. Young would loom up as a Democratic New York favorite for 1932. Incidentally there are Roosevelt partisans who think that even if the governor should be defeated for reëlection he would by no means be eliminated from the presidential contest, their theory being that defeat by a wet Republican would be far from conclusive evidence that wet Mr. Roosevelt could not carry wet New York against President Hoover two years hence.

Former United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, who is the Republican candidate for governor, is for the moment at least a presidential possibility. He attained that distinction when he kicked the dry wing of the Republican party in the slats and came out for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Enshrined with Morrow.

Immediately Mr. Tuttle became the darling of the wet Republicans, or one of them, Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, who was the first Republican candidate of note to declare for prohibition repeal, being the other. If Mr. Tuttle should be elected next Tuesday he would acquire an immense amount of prestige from the fact of carrying a state which nowadays generally elects Democratic governors.

Likewise he would become the logical New York candidate for the Republican nomination for President if Mr. Hoover should not choose to run again, or should fail to modify his stand on prohibition acceptably to the wet leadership of the party in this state.

Drys Have a Candidate.

There is a third candidate in the contest for the governorship—Robert P. Carroll, a college professor, who is running as an independent with the backing of the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and other dry groups alienated when the hitherto dry Republican party of New York formally went wet. The mission of this entrant is to assure the defeat of Mr. Tuttle, and thereby convince the Republican party that it cannot win by going wet. By this means the drys aim to have the Republican party take on the dry reservation by 1932.

Hardly a day has passed during the campaign without some rumbling from the echo of the conflict of 1932 being heard. When President Hoover failed to hail the nomination of wet Mr. Tuttle with any of the ardor with which he greeted the nomination of wet Mr. Morrow there was a great hullabaloo. In vain did Mr. Hoover's apologists point out that Mr. Morrow is a Republican candidate for senator in the national election, with whose fate a Republican President appropriately may concern himself, and that Mr. Tuttle is a candidate in a state election in which it would be futile indicate for a President to interfere.

Tuttle Men Are Touchy.

Touchy Tuttle partisans preferred to believe, or pretended to believe, that the President was holding aloof in the case of Mr. Tuttle because Mr. Tuttle had not, like Mr. Morrow, voiced appearances that he would not be a candidate against Mr. Hoover in 1932. At last, however, a semblance of

ROBBERS KILL BUSINESS MAN IN SOUTH CHICAGO

Too Slow to Put Up Hands; Attacked.

In one of two major robbery crimes yesterday a banker was stabbed on the far south side. In the other, just north of the Wisconsin line, a loop jeweler was robbed of $40,000 in uninsured gems.

Courtney R. Merrill, 54 years old, vice president of the Union State bank of South Chicago, 3026 East 92d street, Hwas stabbed twice and fatally wounded last evening by one of two bandits who trapped him in a garage in the rear of the bank. He died shortly after 3 o'clock this morning in the South Chicago hospital.

One of the robbers fired two shots at the banker and for two hours police and physicians of the South Chicago hospital believed he had been and being unable to find them, surgshot. After probing for the bullets, coroner decided that Merrill had not been shot and that the wounds were caused by a thin bladed knife or by an ice pick.

Attack with Two Weapons.

The wounds probably were inflicted by the one bandit at the moment his accomplice was firing, according to police, thus causing confusion as to the nature of the wounds. Merrill himself, before becoming unconscious, told detectives he was shot.

Merrill, as was his nightly custom, drove his automobile into the alley to the rear of his bank preparatory to putting it in the garage which is provided for the accommodation of bank officials. He had opened the garage doors, and was about to reenter his car when two young men halted him. One held a pistol. Merrill did not observe the other's weapon.

Too Slow; Is Stabbed.

"Stick 'em up," commanded one of the outlaws. Merrill, startled, obeyed hestitantly. In one of his hands he held a ring of shining automobile keys. Either he was too slow in obeying the order, or the thieves mistook the key ring for a pistol, for one of them fired twice without further warning. Both men were close to the banker and it would have been possible for either one of them to stab him.

As Merrill fell, the robbers fled down the alley, almost bowling over Jack Kaplan, 14 years old, 8904 Houston avenue, a newsboy, who was taking a short cut through the alley to another street. Kaplan had seen the shooting.

"The men were running, and told me to get out of the way or they'd shoot me, too," related the newsboy.

Robbers Get No Cash.

South Chicago police took Merrill to the hospital, where he told of the attempted holdup. The bandits got no money, he said. He believed they had timed their robbery attempt in hopes of finding him with deposits which he collects weekly from merchants and others in the district.

Chief of Detectives John Norton and Deputy Commissioner Detectives Lawrence Rafferty were summoned away from a banquet at the Palmer House to Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court and made a quick investigation of the case.

Chief Norton accepted the reports that Merrill had been shot and expounded the theory that tho thieves had shot the banker when they mistook his keys for a pistol. Later, when informed the wounds were caused by a knife and not a pistol, Chief Norton assigned two special squads to the case "to make sure as to Merrill's injuries." As to the motive for the stabbing, Norton was certain it was robbery. He did not believe the men meant to kidnap Merrill. This also was the belief of Julius F. Smietanka, president of the bank, who offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the bandits.

Merrill is married, has one son, Wallace, and lives at 7321 Oglesby avenue.

$40,000 GEM HOLDUP

Max Pian, jeweler at 29 East Madison street, was robbed of $40,000 in uninsured diamonds yesterday by two gunmen who stopped him in his automobile on Sheridan road in Kenosha county, Wis., three miles north of Winthrop Harbor, Ill. Although he made no resistance, Pian was slugged by one of the robbers.

The holdup was reported to police of Winthrop Harbor and Zion City, and then to the Chicago detective bureau. Within a few minutes all north shore towns were notified, and police details were posted at various points along Sheridan road and Green Bay road. The bandits, according to Pian, headed southward, apparently for Chicago, after robbing him.

JUROR GETS EXCUSED TO REPAIR SHOES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

For that reason, Ludwig Johnson of that place was dismissed from the federal grand jury panel today by Judge Charles A. Dewey.

"I'm the only shoe repair man in the town where I live," Johnson told the court. "I have to be there to run the shop or the kids won't have shoes to wear to school."

"I suppose they are leaving bloody tracks in the snow," the judge said.

A few minutes later he excused Johnson and five others because there were six in excess of the number required for the jury session.

New York, Oct. 29 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—The captain of waiters and the assistant manager of Texas Guinan's Club Argonaut in West 54th street, where Miss Guinan is the chief entertainer, were arrested by detectives early today on charges of maintaining a public nuisance in a raid on the new night club. The charges were preferred after the detectives allegedly found patrons being served with "set ups" for mixed drinks.

Note Menaces Girls; $50,000 Is Demanded

Threats that his three young daughters will come to harm if he does not pay $50,000 to extortionists have been received by Carl Sundberg, vice president of the QRS-De Vry corporation, 333 North Michigan avenue. Reports to this effect were verified late yesterday by Mr. Sundberg.

The threat was contained in a note received two weeks ago at the Sundberg home, 284 Gage road, Riverside. It was a crude communication fashioned of letters clipped from newspapers which were pasted on a folder of cheap writing paper and inclosed in an ordinary envelope addressed in a similar manner.

Note Demands $50,000.

In effect, the note read: "Your daughters are in danger. Get $50,000 immediately. Instructions will follow."

The Sundberg's have three daughters: Dorothy, 15 years old; Alice, 10, and Betty, 5. Since the threat was received nothing has been heard from the writer or writers, the father said.

Mr. Sundberg is at a loss to account for a motive for the note, he said. "I haven't an enemy in the world," he added, "not one that I know of who would wish me harm."

Suspects Child's Prank.

One theory held by Mr. Sundberg is that the note was a childish prank, written by a neighborhood boy or girl for the thrill of frightening the family. Chief of Police Clarence Neuschafer of Riverside is inclined to the same belief. He had heard of the Sundberg note, he said, but had not been officially notified that it had been received.

"Last year we had a kidnaping scare here," said the chief, "and it turned out to be the work of a boy only 12 years old. I hope this one turns out the same way."

The Sundberg children are being carefully watched and it was reported that Mr. Sundberg has employed a private detective agency to trace the note and guard his daughters.

WHO OWNS 15 MILLION IN BRAZILIAN GOLD COMING IN ON LINER?

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The liner Western World, due to dock tomorrow, carries $15,000,000 in gold from Brazil and tonight there seemed to be some doubt as to who would obtain control of it when it arrives.

Augusto Amaral, New York head of the Brazilian revolutionary committee, has said at least $12,000,000 of the gold represents funds sent by the recently overthrown Brazilian government to buy arms and ammunition in the United States.

Since the revolutionary party, which apparently controls Brazil, has not been recognized by the United States, it was believed some difficulty may be encountered by the revolutionists in obtaining control of the fund.

Mr. Hines is 67 years old.

How Lodge Tried to Balk Wilson Told

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge tried to aid the allied delegates to the Paris peace conference in thwarting President Woodrow Wilson, according to Allan Nevins' biography, "Henry White—Thirty Years of American Diplomacy," published today.

Mr. White was an American diplomat of long experience. He was a Republican member of the United States peace commission and went to Paris with President Wilson. Before going, Mr. White consulted with Republican leaders, Mr. Nevins says. He had a conference late in November, 1918, with Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root in the Roosevelt hospital, where Roosevelt was confined. The gist of this discourse was that "the peace must be fair to all oppressed peoples," and that "above all, there must be an international organization to prevent future wars."

Lodge Writes Memo to Allies.

"Very different," says Mr. Nevins, "was the conversation which Mr. White had in Washington, in the hurried intervals of packing, with Senator Lodge."

"In the last hours before Mr. White sailed, Senator Lodge wrote out a nine page memorandum for Mr. White's guidance," Mr. Nevins says. "Confidentially asserting that this represented the views, not only of the Republican party, but of America in general. He proposed that White should show it in strict confidence to Balfour, Clemenceau and Nitti, all of whom Lodge knew personally.

"His motive in this Lodge stated to White with his usual candor. The memorandum should be shown to these European statesmen, he said, not as an attempt to enlighten them upon the terms of peace, but to inform them 'what I believe to be the real feeling of the people of the United States, and certainly of the senate of the United States. This knowledge may in certain contingencies be very important to them in strengthening their position.'

White Keeps Papers Secret.

"That is, Lodge believed that Wilson's ideas misrepresented the United States. He believed it so firmly that he wished to assist the European leaders in impeding and thwarting Wilson, White never thought of showing the paper to any representative of the allies and kept it secret."

In this memorandum, Mr. Nevins says, Senator Lodge laid "fierce emphasis" upon his leading premise that it was necessary in every way to cripple Germany to prevent future war.

"'Nothing would so protect us from war in the future,' Senator Lodge is quoted as saying, 'as the separation of the German empire into its chief component parts.'"

Said League Would Kill Treaty.

On the league Senator Lodge was equally emphatic. He is quoted as follows:

"The league of nations to preserve and enforce peace presents a conception which must appeal to every right-thinking man, but like many other general ideas, when we pass from theory to practice the terms and details are vital.

"It need only be said here that under no circumstances must provisions for such a league be made a part of the peace treaty which concludes the war with Germany. Any attempt to do this would not only delay the signature of the treaty of peace, which should not be unduly postponed, but it would make the adoption of the treaty, unamended by the senate of the United States and other ratifying bodies, extremely doubtful."

A feature of Senator Lodge's memorandum was his willingness "to make the United States a part-guarantor of many elements of the European settlement."

The biography shows that Mr. White rapidly became a warm supporter of all President Wilson's principal aims. He approved Mr. Wilson's going to Paris, and thought he made an able negotiator.

MRS. M'CORMICK CHARGES CRIME IS FIGHTING HER

Accuses Democrats of Hypocrisy.

The Republican and Democratic candidates for United States senator swung into full action yesterday in the city, Mrs. McCormick charged the Democrats with hypocrisy in their "new alliance with Thompson and the city hall gang." Col. Lewis in his speech charged that his opponent's election would put a stain upon the state of Illinois, claiming she would be refused her seat in the senate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Thompsonism and the "alliance between crime and politics" were stressed by Ruth Hanna McCormick yesterday as having surged into the senatorship battle as a fundamental issue. The Republican nominee for senator declared the city hall, through the police, is mobilizing gangland against her as a curtain raiser for the mayoralty fight next spring.

Mrs. McCormick spoke before packed houses at the Grand and Apollo theaters at noon, and last night she spoke over the radio and made three meetings, including one in Cicero. She carried the fight to the Democrats, charging them with "hypocrisy." She declared the Democrats had sought to make the voters believe she was the city hall choice while at the time the Democrats were in an "alliance" with Thompson.

Says Mayor Let Secret Out.

"They will probably regret for a long time," said Mrs. McCormick, "the action of Mayor Thompson in prematurely letting the cat out of the bag."

Mrs. McCormick likewise in her speeches asked Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, the independent Anti-Saloon league candidate, whether she is going to "retract her statements that Ruth Hanna McCormick was the spokesman of the Thompson gang."

She charged that James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee, spread "false statements" that Thompson was her political ally, while at the time "he knew Thompson and Tony Cermak were negotiating an alliance with the city hall gang."

The noonday rallies were filled with action. Hecklers were in the gallery, and Mrs. McCormick showed herself at home in the give and take. At the Grand and Apollo she finished an exchange of off the bat repartee by saying, "A vote for J. Ham Lewis is a vote for Thompson for mayor."

Thompson for Mayor? No!

"Throw him out," voices yelled from the gallery.

"Do you want Thompson for mayor next year?" continued Mrs. McCormick.

"No, no," roared the house.

"Then work to redeem the city from Thompsonism," she said.

"In some of the wards policemen in uniform," she continued, "are being sent out from police stations to warn gang leaders they must work for Lewis. I ask law abiding citizens to consider what this means. What can it mean except that the gangsters are thus warned that they need expect no interference in their activities if they go along with Big Bill and J. Ham? What a revelation of the alliance between crime and politics this is!"

Accuses Democratic Leaders.

"I charge," said Mrs. McCormick in her night utterances, "that certain Democratic leaders have not only known for years that Mayor Thompson was my political foe, but that they have deliberately assisted in spreading the falsehood that Mayor Thompson was my political ally. This has been done persistently for the purpose of injuring my candidacy.

"I charge that when J. Ham Lewis was making his recent tour of the state he gave utterance to that same false statement about my political association with Mayor Thompson, and that he knew at the time that Mayor Thompson was not in any political alliance with me.

"In breaking away from his party and making this vigorous fight against me, why did Mayor Thompson think it wise or expedient? The answer is, Big Bill is a practical politician. Whatever he does he expects to be rewarded for. If anybody thinks he is a philanthropist in his political deals, all I have to say is they do not know the man.

Charges Mayor-Cermak Alliance.

"The last time Thompson was elected he was successful only because he had the support of a group of Democratic wards. The mayor was not working so openly in those days, but it is now revealed he has drawn up a new contract with Tony Cermak,

It's a Good Time to Invest in Bonds

It all depends upon your intent, an authority tells us. It's speculation, if your purpose is to make a profit by selling for more than you paid in buying. It's an investment if you buy a security for its income. If that's the case, the worst cat-and-dog may be an investment if you bought it for its supposed income, not knowing any better. Or it would be speculation if you bought U. S. government bonds, expecting to sell them for more than you paid. Let's not argue. These are extremes, anyhow. Let Ringling have his freaks and let it go at that. A sound normal investment is one which will produce a regular and certain income. Some stocks are that way, but bonds are the typical investment securities. Buying good bonds when you have funds available is always sound practice. Occasionally there are unusual opportunities. Right now there are real bargains in the bond market. It's a good time to discuss your investments with a bank or bond house.

the county leader who ran for senator on the Democratic ticket two years ago.

"To the lasting credit of the Republican ward leaders of Chicago let it be said that nine out of ten of them have promptly repudiated any share in the $100,000 cash prize money offered by the mayor last Saturday to committeemen who would desert the Republican organization and mark for Lewis.

"Mayor Thompson has revealed how backroom bipartisan deals are worked in the sort of political game he prefers. By so doing he has not only exposed his own lack of political integrity, but he has thrown a great light on the character of the campaign waged against me."

Replies to a Heckler.

The campaigning took on a sparkle with the appearance of the hecklers at the noon meeting. At the Grand Mrs. McCormick was dwelling on the unemployment situation and the Republican program of relief, when a voice from the gallery shouted:

"What has Hoover done in two years? Things couldn't be worse.

"Let me ask the gentleman," answered Mrs. McCormick, "to come to the platform and tell us in what country conditions are as well off as in America. What other country has as high wages and standard of living?"

Crowd Applauds Her Sally.

"He'd better take it back or go on over there," said Mrs. McCormick. "The answer to you, my friend, is that ten million people in Europe are crazy to get into the United States, and any one of them would be glad to grab your place."

A burst of handclapping greeted this.

At the Apollo, when Mrs. McCormick said depression is worldwide and the United States of America is in better shape than other lands, groans were heard.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. McCormick, "let me ask you what nation in the world is as well off as America today, despite present economic conditions? You can't name a nation in the world where the workingman is paid as well as in America, and that came about through successive Republican administrations.

"Attaboy, Ruth," came from the audience.

"The wet and dry question is not a political issue," said Mrs. McCormick. Some in the audience laughed.

Her Attitude on Referendum.

"Is that a laugh or not?" asked Mrs. McCormick. "Liquor is a national social problem. Under the public policy act the referendum gives you opportunity to vote on whether you want the 18th amendment repealed, the Volstead act modified, the state search and seizure act repealed.

"I'm accused of straddling, but I'm not straddling this issue and never have straddled any issue. I simply do not set myself above the Republican party or the people of the state. Register your opinion on the referendum, and I as senator will cast my vote as directed by a mandate of a majority of the men and women who express themselves on the referendum."

LEWIS HITS G. O. P. RIVAL

James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for the United States senate, carried his campaign last night before an audience representative of Roseland, Kensington and Pullman, meeting at the Fenger high school auditorium.

It was his first address of the day, as he had misunderstood the arrangements of his managers for a noonday meeting in the loop and did not appear there as scheduled.

While Mr. Lewis has pictured Lottie Holman O'Neill as his chief opponent in previous addresses, he devoted his attack last night to Ruth Hanna McCormick, linking her case to the Lorimer and Smith scandals and asking whether Illinois was to bear again a "stain twice borne with shame."

Points to Pullman and Edison.

"I am in the town of the workshops of the world known Pullman car," he said. "George M. Pullman and Thomas A. Edison could never have risen to fame and position if riches had to buy their places. They and many of their kind were poor hand laborers.

"Their genius from heaven, their industry from their nature, won them their high place and worldwide fame. If we, who are of the working classes, sell Illinois to the millionaire buyers of seats in the senate, the poor young man or woman need not aspire for anything nor hope for anything of honor.

"Those who never worked an hour, but who may have inherited riches from families which wrung their wealth from the poor millions of toilers, can buy the places. Then those who have bought the honors will legislate only for their kind so the millionaire purchasers of their position may keep their places and own the government.

Predicts a People in Despair.

"No legislation to aid the state will ever come forth from such a state of affairs. The mass of our people will be without hope and, in despair of rising in the world, would soon turn and tear to pieces a bought government.

"We hear now of high officials in the state saying: 'The woman can never be seated. She will be thrown out at once; therefore, no harm is done should she slip through at this election.'

"We answer this to say how dare any man in Illinois ask the voters to put again on Illinois the stain already twice borne in shame—the blot borne for years. Illinois is the only state in the Union that has had to bear two disgraces before the world by being put out of the United States senate as a bribed and bought state unworthy to sit in the seats of the fathers.

"Now, is it the intention of officials of our state, in order to advance well laid plans to capture the seat for themselves, to put again upon Illinois the dishonor of another senator being thrown out as guilty and unworthy?

"Is our state to be advertised again all over the world as the one state in our Union that three times was denied the privilege of being fully represented with her sister states in the senate conference of the congress of the United States—because the purchaser of the place had conducted a campaign dishonorable to the senate, with insult to the senators and to the everlasting disgrace of Illinois?

"Let all Illinois go forth to cleanse the house and put Illinois again where once more—without hanging her head in shame—she may stand forth as the state of Abraham Lincoln."

BOND COMPANY'S INVESTORS FACE EXTENSIVE LOSS

Filing of schedules in the bankruptcy action against Robert S. Strauss & Co., a brokerage and real estate firm, in Federal court yesterday revealed that thousands of small investors face losses as a result of their purchase of securities of the company. The schedules filed by Attorney Avern B. Scolnik show liabilities of $1,385,098 with assets totaling $974,856. Cash on hand is listed as "none," and bank deposits as only $350. The assets are listed at the par value of the stock and securities and not at their present value.

Attorney Scolnik said he believed President Albert W. Cohn of the company, for whom a warrant charging operation of a confidence game was sworn out a few days ago by Albert W. Lewis, 7612 South Shore drive, will return shortly from New York to face the charges against him.

Paloma, Ill., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Methodist church here was burned down today with a loss of $10,000.

DEMOCRATS ARE URGED TO VOTE TICKET STRAIGHT

"Vote your ticket straight," was the theme yesterday of Democratic candidates who were introduced to the members of the Illinois Women's Democratic club at its regular meeting at the Hotel Sherman. A sample ballot was produced and the proper procedure was demonstrated by Miss Amelia Sears, Peter Kelly, and Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, all candidates for county commissioner. Miss Sears in a talk said:

"It seems to me that the Democratic party is the only one that not only anticipated this era of hard times but actually worked to make provision for it, especially through the workmen's compensation law."

Other candidates introduced included Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb.

FINAL WEEK OF CAMPAIGN BEGUN BY MRS. O'NEILL

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for senator, opened the final week of her campaign last night with a meeting at the Woodlawn Baptist church at which she was introduced by Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century.

"I'll go along with the Republican party when it is right and I'll quit it when it is wrong," said Mrs. O'Neill. "I am standing four square for the constitution with the 18th amendment, and I'm the only candidate of the three who could take the oath of office without mental reservation or evasion.

"The referendum promoted by the city hall politicians will probably go wet, but the real poll of the dry strength will be the vote given me."

BRUCEWOOD DRESSES

This special group looks like $40 and $45, but they're really $27.50

You'd think that they were $40 and $45 dresses because they look like $40 and $45, and if you'd shop around and look at $40 and $45 dresses about town then you'd be all the surer that these were worth that much. To be sure, they are tailored and styled to a new and finer standard, and the way we've priced them is rather sensational. Silks, cantons, light wools. All colors and sizes of 3 Dry Congressmen in Liquor Scandals.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Three dry congressmen have been involved in open liquor scandals during the last two years.

Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson of the Seventh Illinois district, who was defeated recently for renomination on the Republican ticket, was the only one of the three whose case ever came to trial.

While he was under indictment by a Florida federal grand jury on charges of having smuggled liquor into this country from Cuba, and before his trial and acquittal, Michaelson voted for the Jones 5 and 10 law, which carries a minimum penalty of five years' imprisonment for such offense.

Indorsed by Dry League.

Although a product of the old Lundin-Thompson political machine, Michaelson had the indorsement of the Anti-Saloon league in its preelection report of 1922, and was presumably carrying out the league's wishes when he voted for the Jones law, which has since been denounced by the Hoover law enforcement commission as being so severe that it defeats its own purposes.

There may be some connection between the support which Congressman Michaelson gave to the league program in the short session of 1928 and the long unexplained delay in his trial. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, an ardent supporter of the dry league, was then in charge of liquor law enforcement in the department of justice.

It was Jan. 3, 1928, when the liquor in this case was taken to Key West by the Michaelson party, which had been touring the West Indies. Michaelson was indicted in October of that year, and it was not until the following Jan. 11 that the papers were sent to his home in Chicago, and it was March 28, 1929, before the indictment was made public. He surrendered on April 2, and was acquitted on May 9 by a Key West jury. Part of this delay was explained by the fact that Mr. Michaelson as a member of congress was immune from arrest during the session.

Dispute Over Responsibility.

Washington and Chicago placed the blame for the delay in announcing the indictment on the Jacksonville [Fla.] office of the department of justice, without justification, according to two assistant United States attorneys at Jacksonville, who resigned during April, 1929, promising later to reveal facts that would "rock the nation." Nothing ever came of this.

Mr. Michaelson was indicted for possessing liquor which had been brought in from Cuba at Key West under free-entry of the port courtesy extended to him by request. The liquor, it developed, got as far inland as Jacksonville when it was seized.

George I. Pollock, baggageman on the Florida East Coast railway, testified at the trial that one of the Michaelson party trunks, which he identified from a way bill, was leaking before it reached the city, and at Jacksonville he notified the detective department.

Finds Liquor in Two Trunks.

C. M. Quattlebaum, the detective assigned to the case, testified that he investigated the leaking trunk. He found 10 or 12 bottles of whisky in one trunk and a 10 gallon keg of rum in another, he said. Also the trunks were tagged "Michaelson."

W. M. Daniels, prohibition agent of Jacksonville, said that he examined the trunks and found contraband. J. J. Coleman, city baggage man, testified that he saw the whisky and the trunk had a tag reading "Hotel Sevilla, Havana."

That fastened the liquor on the Michaelson party but not on the congressman himself, and here is where his defense was found.

The party consisted of the congressman and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gramm, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dean Gramm, a Chicago coal merchant, is a brother-in-law of Mr. Michaelson.

Trunks Claimed by Gramm.

The six trunks owned by this party came in under the congressional privilege. The two trunks in which liquor was found belonged to Mr. Gramm, he testified. Mr. Michaelson said he knew nothing of what was in them.

On the strength of this the jury voted acquittal for the congressman and the federal government immediately had Mr. Gramm indicted. He pleaded guilty in October before a Tampa court and was fined $1,000.

After the trial further details of the Michaelson party adventures began to leak out.

THE TRIBUNE printed a story the day after the Michaelson acquittal declaring that one of its correspondents had learned from official sources in Port Au Prince, Haiti, that it was the congressman himself who bought rum there and had it taken on board the steamship Cristobal, after an altercation with Haitian customs officers, who finally permitted him to take it out free of export duties.

He Declines to Discuss It.

Mr. Michaelson refused to discuss this.

"I don't want to hear any more about it," he said. "It is nobody's business where I went or what I did. I refuse to affirm, deny, or discuss it."

A department of justice agent was sent out, following the publication of this story, to retrace the route taken by the Michaelson party in an effort to find the source of the rum. What he discovered was never made public, but Attorney General William D. Mitchell announced last October that the government would take no further legal action against the congressman.

He had won his case but he lost his district in the next election.

The two other dry members who got into trouble over liquor were Representative Edward E. Denison of the 25th Illinois district, who was indicted and freed on a technical demurrer, and Representative William M. Morgan of Ohio, who got into trouble with New York customs officials over four bottles of Panama whisky. These cases will be reviewed in another story.

This is the 19th of a series of articles on prohibition. The next will appear tomorrow.

McGOORTY VOWS TO KEEP UP WAR ON GANGSTERS

3,000 Friends Honor Judge at Banquet.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court appeared before some 3,000 of his friends and associates in law enforcement at a testimonial banquet in the Palmer house last night and pledged his support to a continued war on gangsters, racketeers and gunmen. The banquet was originally sponsored by De La Salle council of the Knights of Columbus, but the various civic organizations interested in law enforcement later joined in the affair.

"The time has come when the manhood and womanhood of this city must forget partisan politics and join to fight the common enemy," said Judge McGoorty after he had listened for several hours to speeches praising him. "I have fought and will continue to fight against the elements which have sullied the good name of this city.

Refers to "Master Mind."

"It has been said that the so-called master mind [no mention was made by name, but it was evident to the audience that Al Capone was meant] and a small minority has ruled this community.

"I am sure that a city like Chicago, with all its resources, will not allow the master mind, whose career is even reported to be marked by the red line of murder, to scandalize the fair name of this city in the future as in the past.

"The law enforcing authorities of this community have been making a fight for several months past and I believe that we are making considerable progress against the gunmen and racketeers. I pledge my support to a continued war against this element and I am sure that the fight of the good citizens will be rewarded in the near future with a minimum of crime.

Praises Swanson, Alcock.

"I want to take this opportunity to give public expression to the fine cooperation which I, as chief justice of the Criminal court, have received from State's Attorney Swanson. I also wish to compliment Acting Commissioner of Police John Alcock for the splendid cooperation of his department. I want to thank the press for what it has been doing in crystallizing public sentiment against the hoodlums and racketeers."

State's Attorney Swanson and Acting Commissioner Alcock in short speeches thanked Judge McGoorty for the cooperation he has given since becoming chief justice last September. Judges Michael Feinberg, John J. Sullivan and D. J. Normoyle also were among the speakers, as was John D. Black, president of the Illinois Bar association.

BOY SHOT BY ACCIDENT.

George Polan, 16 years old, 2809 Highland avenue, Berwyn, was fatally wounded yesterday when a .22 caliber rifle with which he and Leroy Vatraska, 14 years old, 2824 Harvey avenue, Berwyn, were playing, was accidentally discharged. Vatraska told the police he was shooting at targets and that Polan got in the way. He was not held.

GALVA EXPECTS RANSOMED BANK HEAD HOME SOON

Wife Sticks to Refusal to Aid Authorities.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Galva, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Payment of ransom for Earl L. Yocum, millionaire bank president, who was kidnaped Saturday night at the entrance to his estate, was believed to have been completed tonight. Authorities expect the banker home soon.

County officials, nettled by public criticism of their lack of action in the case, spent the day in futile efforts to discover some clew to the abductors. They found themselves baffled by the unyielding attitude of Mrs. Mae Yocum, wife of the missing banker, who continued her refusal to assist the investigators in any manner and who moreover expressed resentment at the attempts to find her husband and his custodians.

Reports that a posse was seeking Yocum in an abandoned coal mine near Princeton, Ill., were learned to be unfounded last night. The "posse" turned out to be county agents in search of hidden stills.

Many Rumors Circulate.

A score of rumors were circulated throughout this town of 3,000. Yocum was reported to have been found at a nearby farm. The police were said to have surrounded a shack fifteen miles from here. The banker had been seen on a westbound train. Two local men had been arrested in connection with the kidnaping. Every story that the inventive genius of small town gossips could supply kept the citizens in a mental turmoil.

All these rumors, relayed to Mrs. Yocum, brought about merely a further compresion of her lips. She repeated that she was confident that her husband was well and would be returned home safely. She was anxious only when she asked newspaper men to be sure to publish the fact that she had given out no information.

"Who am I, a lone woman, against a crowd of gangsters?" she burst out against the importunities of those who asked her assistance in investigating the kidnaping.

Spurns Aid of Authorities.

"You needn't be alone. You can have the sheriff, the state's attorney, the police, and the federal government, as well as bankers' association operatives on your side, if you wish," she was told.

"I won't talk, and you cannot change my mind," she asserted firmly.

She declared there was no basis for the report that $50,000 was the ransom price. But when questioned, she admitted reluctantly that the figure was not an exaggeration.

The fact that no further messages were delivered today to the Yocum residence confirmed the authorities in their belief that the ransom had been paid and that the release of Yocum and his return home were imminent. If negotiations were not proceeding smoothly with the kidnaper another message containing threats would probably have been sent, it was reasoned.

Cashier Thought Go-between.

It is believed now that when Andrew E. Anderson, cashier of the Yocum bank, went to Chicago on an early morning train Monday he conversed on the train with a representative of the kidnapers and that arrangements were then made for payment of the money.

Anderson today went to the railroad station to meet the 1:35 train from Chicago. He refused to state whom he was expecting and returned to the bank after all passengers had alighted and the person he had expected to see apparently did not arrive.

DROPS DEAD ON TRAIN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rappler, 50 years old, of Boulder, Colo., fell dead of heart disease last night on board a New York bound train of the Pennsylvania railroad as it was leaving the Union station.

30 INDICTMENTS AT WASHINGTON UNDER JONES 5 AND 10 LAW

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Thirty persons were charged today with violating the Jones "five and ten" prohibition law in indictments returned by the District of Columbia grand jury.

This was the largest number of indictments ever returned under this law in the capital and local officials believed it was a record for the United States.

The Jones law provides a maximum penalty of 5 years in jail and a $1,000 fine.

TWO HENCHMEN OF CAPONE HELD AS GUN TOTERS

Tony Careno and Myer Sachs, alleged Capone gangsters who were seized on Oct. 7 in Cicero by detectives under the direction of Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, were held to the grand jury yesterday on charges of carrying concealed weapons. The hearing was held before Justice of the Peace Frank Synakiewicz in Blue Island, and both men were released on $5,000 real estate bonds.

SEIZE STILL AND KEEPER.

Seizure of a 75 gallon still at 5650 Massasoit avenue and the arrest of Salvator Morrano was made by prohibition agents yesterday. Seven hundred gallons of mash and a quantity of alcohol were confiscated.

ELLER AND HIS WARD MACHINE GO DEMOCRATIC

1st and 27th to Follow "Bloody 20th."

BY PARKE BROWN.

The first Republican ward organization to turn Democratic in this campaign, it was disclosed yesterday, was the one in the Twentieth ward headed by City Collector Morris Eller.

Without public announcement, Mayor Thompson went into that ward on Monday night and spoke for James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for United States senator. It is understood that he will follow up immediately by speaking in the First ward, controled by "Hinky Dink" Kenna, Democrat, but having City Sealer Dan Serritella as Republican committeeman. The next ward to follow, it is said, will be the twenty-seventh, the West Madison street ward bossed for years by Homer K. Galpin, former county chairman, which now has as its committeeman William M. Garrison, the city purchasing agent.

Other ward organizations, it is said, will follow the example of these three but, according to Republican leaders, the list up to this time consists of small wards that are more Democratic than Republican.

Negro Leader Leaves Meeting.

Eller's ward was labeled the "Bloody Twentieth" during the special grand jury investigation of the murder of Octavius Granady, a Negro, who ran against Eller for the committeeship two years ago. The ward has a large Negro vote and on Monday night when Mayor Thompson appeared at the Eller meeting the committeeman asked Negro speakers not to embarrass him by urging support of the straight Republican ticket. After this request one of those speakers, Roscoe Conklin Simmons, left the meeting.

When the mayor entered a singer on the platform was intoning plaintively, "I'm Dancing with Tears in My Eyes," but that mournful air was choked off on the mayor's orders and "Happy Days Are Here Again" was substituted.

The mayor's speech was a repetition of his attacks on THE TRIBUNE and had little to do with candidates for the United States senatorship.

Theater Is Commandeered.

That Thompson intends to speak at length on that subject was asserted by his friends, who announced that during the day he had commandeered a theater away from the regular Republican forces that are supporting Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick.

More than two weeks ago the Republican county committee engaged the Apollo theater for noonday speeches by Mrs. McCormick every day this week. Yesterday, however, the mayor sent word to the manager of the theater that he, personally, wanted the theater for Friday noon.

The result became known at the county committee headquarters immediately in the form of a cancellation notice from the theater for Friday noon. Thereupon search for another theater was begun and the indications were that the McCormick meeting would have to be shifted to the Harris theater despite its somewhat inconvenient location as a political meeting place.

Schmidt Makes a Denial.

Mayor Thompson's hand upon the McCormick meetings also appeared in another place when City Controller Schmidt issued a statement denying that he had sent to the county committee a letter refusing to act as chairman of a McCormick meeting tomorrow unless he could explain from the platform that although he is "100 per cent American like the mayor" he was opposed to Mrs. McCormick.

The letter was given out from Mayor Thompson's office on Monday, it was said, as one that Controller Schmidt had signed. Later it was reported that the communication was prepared at the mayor's orders for the controller to sign and that he refused to sign it. Schmidt's own typewritten statement on the subject follows:

"I am not planning to preside at the meeting to be held at the Apollo theater Thursday noon. I have taken the matter up with John J. Hoellen, chairman of speakers and halls, and other arrangements have been made.

"I have not written him nor have I written any letter on this subject."

Report Orders Going Out.

This news was supplemented by reports that the mayor has begun calling in members of the county committee who hold appointive positions in the city hall and ordering them to follow him into the Democratic camp. Among them are mentioned William S. Finucane, Eleventh ward, member of the board of local improvements; Felix Kucharski, 13th ward, superintendent of compensation; Ernest W. Withall, 15th ward, business manager for the school board; William J. Balmer, 17th ward, commissioner of public service; James Curran, 26th ward, superintendent of the bridewell; Edward F. Moore, 30th ward, deputy commissioner of public works; and James Vignola, 31st ward, member of the board of local improvements.

The mayor's friends said that three committeemen, Congressman Oscar De Priest, 3d ward; Ald. Louis B. Anderson, 2d ward, and John L. East, 5th ward, had called at the mayor's office and told him they would not follow him into the Democratic fold. Others are expected to follow suit before Saturday when Thompson has said he will distribute his anti-Ruth Hanna McCormick campaign fund of $100,000.

Given Wild Welcome by Boston Democrats.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Waving his famous brown derby, Al Smith, former Democratic presidential candidate, received a tumultuous reception from 15,000 in the Boston arena tonight.

On his arrival in Boston earlier in the day it required 700 police to clear a way for him from the station to his hotel, so great was the press of his admirers.

His appearance on the platform tonight was the signal for eight of ten minutes of riotous noise making, after which the former New York governor was introduced as the "vanquished but unconquered commoner."

Mr. Smith in his speech attacked the Hoover administration. He said that the present unemployment situation had grown out of the delay in the formation of the last Republican tariff. He added that one of the greatest factors in unemployment was the doubt and uncertainty among business men during the seventeen months in which the tariff was being drawn up.

Scoffs at "Limited Revision."

While the 1928 Republican platform called for "limited revision" of the tariff in the interest of certain industries that could not compete successfully with foreign enterprise, Mr. Smith said, congress had set out to make over the tariff completely.

"Did the average American workman get any benefit from the tariff?" he asked. "He did not. It didn't help the American farmer, because it increased the price of articles he has to buy from abroad. This tariff has cost the manufacturers of this country two billion dollars. It has provoked other countries to levy retaliatory tariffs."

Turns to "Prosperity."

Reverting to the "Republican prosperity" issue, he said:

"What's become of all those signs we saw on this platform a couple of years ago? Where are all those chickens that were to go into every pot in Boston? Just two years afterward the same men who made those promises admit that they are now in a 'critical and trying period' in which the Republican party needs all the support it can get."

The speaker turned to prohibition, and there was an outburst at his first mention of the topic.

After long years of experience with prohibition, he added, the Republican administration had resorted to the old subterfuge of referring the matter to a committee. Then, he continued, the administration transferred the task of enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice.

Problem Still Unsolved.

"That put the bootlegger at a disadvantage, because he had to get acquainted with the new enforcement officers," he told the audience. "But the change did not strike at the root of the problem.

"This problem can never be solved by the Republican party. They are compelled by force of circumstances to duck it and dodge it.

"Here's my idea of treating it. Here's the plank of the New York Democratic platform. It seems straight, honest, and direct. The Democratic party of New York state demands repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. We stand right there. When that is done, we want effective measures within the state to banish the saloon."

Refuses to Account for "Looking Up Nye."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Contributions amounting to $12,052 and expenditures of $10,842 were reported to the secretary of the senate today by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee in Illinois. Expenditures for detectives whose activities figured in the investigation of the Nye senatorial committee were not included, Mrs. McCormick explaining that she had been advised by her attorney that this item was not properly a campaign expense.

Contributions to Mrs. McCormick's campaign fund included $10,000 from Robert R. McCormick, $1,000 from J. M. Patterson, $1,000 from Mrs. G. F. Porter, $50 from Dinet and Delfosse, and $2 from Martha F. Christ.

$6,000 to State Committee.

Expenditures included $6,000 to C. J. Doyle, chairman of the Republican state committee, "for assessment of 10 per cent of term salary regularly levied upon candidates in Illinois," $2,625 to Frederick Smith for salary, $1,500 to James D. Snyder for salary, and $717.50 to Leroy M. Hardin for salary.

Mrs. McCormick said that her auditor has not assembled all information respecting expenditures which are not chargeable to the $10,000 maximum allowed under the corrupt practices act, but that a full statement of these items would be included in her final report. She said the total of these items to Oct. 24 would not exceed $6,000.

Outlay for Detectives.

"While it was intimated by Chairman Gerald P. Nye during the course of the hearings held at Chicago on Sept. 16, 1930, by the special committee of the United States senate investigating campaign expenditures of senatorial candidates," said Mrs. McCormick in referring to her outlay for detectives, "that I should account for my expenditures for private investigators engaged by me during the summer of 1930, I am not reporting such expenditures herein because of the fact and under the opinion of counsel that such expenditures were not made in aid or support of my candidacy for election, and, therefore, are not items required to be reported by the terms of the federal corrupt practices act, 1925."

STIMSON ASKS NEW YORK TO ELECT TUTTLE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—(AP)—New York's Republican nominee for governor was given support in a radio address last night by Secretary of State Stimson.

Speaking from his home here over a network of New York state broadcasting stations, Stimson assailed the Democratic governor, Roosevelt, and, terming the Republican Charles H. Tuttle a "strong, brave, energetic public official," asserted there was no doubt as to which of the two candidates "will best serve the public interest in the coming two years."

The cabinet member termed Roosevelt unfit "to deal with the great crisis now confronting New York state." He discussed the recent judicial scandals of New York City and criticized the governor for limiting the investigations of the grand jury into that subject.

Peacemaker in Penny Ante Poker Game Row Slain

Michael Draeger, 30 years old, 42[illegible] South Loomis street, was stabbed through the heart and almost instantly killed late last night when he undertook to act as peacemaker in a quarrel over a penny ante poker game in his home. Des Plaines street police were told that Samuel Bratto, 923 Sholto place, one of Draeger's guests, was the killer. Bratto escaped before police arrived.

MOSES CONCEDES SENATE LOSSES; "G. O. P. TO RULE"

Some Disappointments, Some Cheer in Outlook.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, admitted today that the Republicans would lose some senate seats in next week's elections. He was careful, however, not to mention the states in which he expects defeat.

"I think we shall meet some net losses in the senate," said Senator Moses. "The extent of those losses I would hesitate to state in detail, and I expect when we are all through the senate will be safely Republican.

Atlantic States O. K.

"In some states where we had gloomy forebodings the prospects have brightened. In others, where our hopes had been high, we find some unforeseen difficulties. But the net result will be as I have stated.

"Up and down the Atlantic seaboard the situation is very much improved from Massachusetts to Delaware."

Pine Likely to Lose.

It is known that the states where the Republicans are most fearful of losing seats are Ohio, West Virginia, and Massachusetts, while other states where they admit the outcome is in doubt include Illinois, Rhode Island, Delaware, Kentucky, and Colorado. They expect to sustain a nominal loss also in Oklahoma, where the Republican nominee, Senator W. B. Pine, has boasted of his opposition to the administration.

In Colorado 10,800 acres in Pitkin county, suitable for grazing purposes, will be opened Dec. 30.

265 CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS ASK DRY REPEAL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Of the congressional candidates who answered questionnaires sent out by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the majority is overwhelmingly wet.

The association sent out 823 requests for office seekers' views on the dry laws. It received 371 replies, 99 of them against the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and 265 calling for abolition of the prohibition clause in the constitution. In addition, a scattered few, said Henry H. Curran, president of the association, favored a popular vote or wished for modification of the Volstead act, while "a few candidates evaded the question entirely."

Divided regionally, Curran found the replies indicated that the northeastern seaboard and great lakes states candidates were 162 to 25 in favor of repeal.

THREE GROUPS GIVE OPINIONS ON BOND ISSUES

Association of Commerce for Building Programs.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Three organizations, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the West Central association, and certain committees of the City club, yesterday urged the voters to approve some of the bond issues to be voted on next Tuesday.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association of commerce, sent a letter to 7,000 business concerns, asking them to use their influence to assure approval of the construction bonds.

"Much needed improvements, vitally necessary to Chicago's growth and development," said this appeal, "are covered by the construction bond issues appearing on the ballot. Approval of these bonds will go a long way towards relieving unemployment, by providing jobs for many workers."

Urges State Street Bridge Bonds.

Urging the merits of one bond issue in particular, Col. Randolph said:

"Of the construction bond issues, that covering the State street bridge is particularly urgent. Unless the present bridge is removed, subway construction through the central business district cannot proceed."

The bond issues recommended by the association total $23,060,000. They are:

Lincoln park—Extension of park and drive development between Lawrence and Foster avenues, $3,000,000.

Cook county—Dormitory for nurses of county hospital, $2,350,000.

Forest preserve district—Sanitary equipment, $2,500,000.

City of Chicago—New State street bridge, $3,500,000; new Halsted street bridge, $2,700,000; reconstructing existing bridges, $1,000,000; traffic control signals, $500,000; extension of street lighting systems, $2,000,000; 47th street subway under I. C. tracks, $300,000; extension of Indianapolis boulevard, $400,000; playgrounds, $500,000; Western and Ashland avenues and La Salle street, including 1930 installments on minor street improvements, $4,310,000.

The West Central association approved all the bond issues for unfinished improvements and certain other construction bond issues. In the latter class the association, which is headed by Frank J. Birk, pointed out the need for the State street and the South Halsted street bridge bonds. The association held a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Union League club. In addition to taking action on the bond issues, the members heard Attorney Colin C. H. Fyffe criticize the proposed tax amendment to the state constitution.

State Bond Issue Approved.

The committee on parks, forest preserves, and public recreation of the City club recommended a favorable vote on the Lincoln Park issue of $3,000,000, the forest preserve issue of $2,500,000 and the state issue of $14,000,000 for fish and game preserves. The announcement said the committee considers "all three bond issues advantageous to public interest and especially recommends the last."

It continued: "The reason is that the necessary funds to a considerable extent are to be provided out of fishing and game licenses so that it will probably be unnecessary to add much, if anything, to tax levies. The credit of the state is, of course, for these bonds as and when issued."

The finance committee of the City club indorsed the tax amendment to the state constitution. The club conducted a debate on this amendment yesterday between William H. Holly for the amendment and John M. Pratt against it.

Ask Votes for Nurses' Home.

The board of directors of the Cook County School for Nursing issued an appeal yesterday for favorable votes on the $2,350,000 bond issue for a nurses' home. The appeal told of the inadequate, ill adapted and scattered housing now used.

President Faherty of the board of local improvements presented a statement urging voters to approve of the Ogden avenue bond issue.

NAVAL RESERVE CUT IS POSTPONED AFTER PROTEST BY INDIANA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Protests registered by Gov. Harry G. Leslie and other Indiana officials have resulted in the suspension of a retrenchment order calling for the decommissioning of the Hawk, naval reserve training vessel stationed at Michigan City, Ind. The Hawk was ordered retired from duty when the new naval operating plan was placed in effect by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations. So many protests came from reservists and officials that the commandant of the Ninth naval district, with headquarters at Great Lakes, Ill., is now taking steps to see if it will be possible to keep the vessel in commission.

Presidential support of Mr. Tuttle has materialized. Secretary of War Patrick Hurley came to New York last Saturday and delivered a speech which was one part commendatory of Mr. Tuttle and nine parts defensive of the Hoover administration. But Hurley hails from Oklahoma and the cynics immediately chorused an inquiry as to the whereabouts in this contest of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who hails from New York and, who omitting reference to prohibition, delivered the keynote speech at the New York Republican convention before the party adopted its platform declaring for prohibition repeal, but had not been heard from since.

Uncork Stimson Again.

Steps were promptly taken to confound these cynics, as a result of which Mr. Stimson delivered a speech over the radio from Washington tonight in which he supported the candidacy of Mr. Tuttle as a champion, not of prohibition repeal, but of cleansing the Augean stables of Tammany corruption. The Democrats, bereft of such satisfaction as they were deriving from early appearances of the embarrassment the wetness of Mr. Tuttle was occasioning Mr. Hoover, are now proclaiming that the eleventh hour activity of the administration in behalf of the Republican candidate for governor is due to a realization in Washington that it is more important for Mr. Hoover to dispose of Gov. Roosevelt than of Mr. Tuttle as a potential opponent in 1932.

Tuttle Hammers Tammany.

With both parties formally committed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment, prohibition has not figured as an important issue in the canvass. Mr. Tuttle, who as United States attorney uncovered the first evidence indicating the practice by Tammany of selling judgeships, proclaimed Tammany corruption the paramount issue and has challenged Gov. Roosevelt every day of the campaign to demonstrate "which is bigger, he or Tammany?"

Mr. Roosevelt has sought to confine the contest to questions of efficient state administration, featuring water power development by the state as a major issue. Thereupon Mr. Roosevelt was accused of envisaging his candidacy for President on the power trust issue.

Mr. Tuttle accuses the governor of shielding Tammany in the current grand jury investigation of the sale of judgeships and other alleged corruption, Mr. Roosevelt having refused to direct the attorney general to go beyond the specific charges and search out graft generally.

Governor Is Chastised.

Mr. Tuttle's charge has been supported by the New York World, leading Democratic organ, which agreed editorially that the governor, "has attempted to limit inquiry into the Tammany scandals and that his action has been such as, intentionally or otherwise, to impede, if not to frustrate, the investigations."

The governor is pictured by his critics as between the devil and the deep sea. He could not expose Tammany to unrestricted inquisition without inviting the stab in the back that Tammany has not hesitated to inflict upon unfriendly governors of its own party and thereby writing his own political death warrant.

At the same time the governor could not appear to shield Tammany without arming his rivals for the presidential nomination with ammunition to be used against him in the 1932 convention.

Tammany affiliation unquestionably contributed to the defeat of Al Smith for the presidency, and though Gov. Roosevelt is not a Tammany man, his aspiration to the presidency would be injured materially if he should give ground for associating him with the protection of the organization particularly under the domination of the old reactionary faction wich has regained power at the wigwam since Al Smith's restraining influence was removed.

SENATOR STECK FOR REFERENDUM; SAYS, "LET PEOPLE DECIDE"

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A referendum on repealing the 18th amendment was advocated in an address tonight by Senator Daniel F. Steck, Democratic candidate for reelection.

His pronouncement, one of the first statements in the Iowa senatorial campaign on prohibition, was in line with the platform adopted last June at the Democratic state convention.

"Whether the majority of our people are satisfied with conditions and wish things to run along as they have been we, of course, do not know," Steck said. "This is a government of and by the people, and whenever there is a decided difference of opinion as to any law the people have a right to settle it.

"Regardless of the personal opinion of any senator or member of congress, it is his plain duty to give the people an opportunity to decide controversial questions."

JAMES A. KEARNS IS FINANCIER OF MUNICIPAL COURT

As Clerk He Handles a $25,000,000 Business.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Back in the days of the wooden sidewalks James A. Kearns saved money for Chicago as an investigator in the city attorney's office by reducing judgments in personal injury suits from an average of $2,500 per case to $125. Now as clerk of the Municipal court he handles half a million cases a year and over $25,000,000 annually in judgments and has been doing it for twelve years without the loss of a dollar or a breath of scandal.

Mr. Kearns is a candidate for reelection on the Republican ticket, and he has a record of 26 years of constant service over which the party emblazons the words, "efficiency and economy." He came to Chicago in 1884 and after finishing his schooling worked as an auditor on the Erie railroad and went to Kent Law school. While a law student he worked in the city attorney's office preparing briefs for the city in personal damage cases.

An Alderman for Four Terms.

The year he got through law school Kearns was elected alderman from the old 31st ward, Englewood, succeeding P. J. O'Connell. This was in 1909, and Jim served four terms in the council. He was on the finance committee seven years, serving with such men as William E. Dever, Gen. Milton J. Foreman, George F. Harding, John Richert, Michael Zimmer, Thomas J. Dixon, and Peter Reinberg.

As chairman of the compensation committee he fixed rates for use of public property, as a result of which ten millions dollars was turned into the city treasury in five years. As chairman of track elevation, he brought about track elevation ordinances of those days on the south, southwest and northwest sides. He trained with Prof. Charles E. Merriam, and was rated among the big men of the council, which in those days had much bulky timber. Kearns was alderman under three mayors, Busse, Harrison, and Thompson.

Pioneer in Playgrounds.

He is given credit for establishing the first playground on the south side—at the Sherwood school—and he was instrumental in getting built the Englewood and Lindblom High schools, two of the finest in the city.

In 1918 Kearns was elected chief clerk of the Municipal court—the world's largest—and is now finishing his second term. When Kearns went in the office operated with an annual deficit of $300,000. Since 1923, under Kearns, this deficit has not only been canceled, but the books show a "profit."

This saving to the taxpayers has been accomplished despite a tremendous increase in the business of the court. Back in 1919 the suits filed numbered 156,421. Now they are 510,717, an increase of 207 per cent. Money judgments in the ten years have grown from $7,196,000 to $28,510,166 last year, an increase of 296 per cent.

$25,000,000 a Year Business.

The Municipal court was established as a "people's court," and Mr. Kearns, recognizing the cosmopolitan character of Chicago, has engaged the service in his office of proficient members of most racial and national groups with a view of transacting business expeditiously. The office, handling $25,000,000 a year, boasts a larger volume in this respect than that transacted by most banks outside the business district.

In the last ten years Clerk Kearns has collected and disbursed without charge to the taxpayers, $3,500,000 from delinquent husbands for the support of wives and children in the Court of Domestic Relations. He has a wife and five children, and his diversion, when he manages to snatch a holiday, is fishing.

Boy Sets Fires Because He Likes to See Fire Engines

A 15 year old pyromaniac was seized by police last night as he was piling up paper and waste against a ramshackle building in "Little Italy." The young captive is Michael Graffical of 835 Cambridge avenue, who confessed setting three small fires last week. He said he liked to see the fire engines speed down the street. He was taken to the Juvenile home.

CHECK PASSER AND WIFE TO JAIL. Ralph O. Singles, 26 years old, and his wife, Margaret, 23 years old, were sentenced to jail yesterday by Judge Edgar A. Jonas in South State street court for passing worthless checks.

DR. MICHELSON NEARLY READY FOR LIGHT TEST

Prof. A. A. Michelson will be ready to make his final tests of the speed of light within two weeks, Prof. Henry G. Gale of the University of Chicago revealed yesterday on his return from a visit with Dr. Michelson at Pasadena, Cal.

Prof. Michelson's apparatus consists of a mile long vacuum tunnel with 32-sided mirrors revolving 1,000 times a second at each end. The speed of light will be determined by the distance the mirror at one end has revolved while a ray of light is being reflected to the other end and back.

The tests are expected to correct minute errors which are believed to exist in the results of Dr. Michelson's experiment of 1926 when he calculated the speed of light at 186,284 miles a second. At that time his mirrors were mounted on mountain peaks 40 miles apart.

Dr. Michelson, who retired from the University of Chicago last June at the age of 77, is in better health than for several years, Prof. Gale said.

HOOVER ASSAILS MOTIVES OF OIL SHALE CHARGES

Raps N. Y. Newspaper for Printing Them.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—In one of the sharpest statements issued from the White House during the present administration President Hoover today charged that the recent oil shale exposé was a campaign plot.

The President, referring to Attorney William D. Mitchell's findings that the accusations of Ralph S. Kelley, employé of the land office of the interior department, are unfounded, asserted that the whole affair was "an attempt to charge odious oil scandals to this administration." He used the term "infamous" in denouncing it.

Hits Publishing Newspaper.

The New York newspaper [The World] which published the Kelley charges in serial ferm was the target of the President's wrath. Conceding that the newspaper may have been "misled," the President said that "it certainly does not represent the practice of better American journalism."

The President, without mentioning the newspaper by name, described it as "a journal identified with the opposition party," said that the Kelley "fabrications" were "launched in the midst of a political campaign."

Issuance of the statement marked a departure from the President's policy of refraining from comments on all matters connected with the senatorial and congressional campaign now in progress. The President displayed intense indignation as he read his statement to newspaper correspondents.

Review Mitchell Findings.

The President in the statement, reviewed the Mitchell findings as made public on Sunday relative to the Kelley charges that the big oil interests are getting possession of title to western oil shale lands worth "billions of dollars."

"The facts are that out of eight million acres of government holdings of such lands the whole matter boils down to the item that this administration had approved old title claims for some 43,000 acres arising under the mineral law prior to 1920," said the President. "Under my orders no leases or titles have been passed under the new law. Of these old claims Kelley himself approved about 20,000 acres. The courts ordered about 16,000 acres and about 7,000 acres came up on appeal to the heads of the department for decision, only part of which Kelley opposed on technical grounds. Furthermore, these oil shale lands have little present value and instead of being worth billions can be bought from private owners for a few dollars per acre."

Discusses Broadcasting of Charges.

The President, after further reference to the Mitchell finding that the charges are "baseless without merit or substance," said that there are "some phases of this incident on which it is desirable in public interest that I should comment."

"I may say at once that proper inquiry or proper criticism by the press is a safeguard of good government," continued the President. "But this investigation shows more than this. Kelley had been called to Washington last summer to discuss with his immediate superiors questions of organization in the office of which he had charge. He made no suggestion of these charges to his superior officers during a period of over six weeks in Washington, but during this time was in negotiation for the sale of his fabrications to a journal identified with the opposition political party, and they were launched in the midst of a political campaign.

No Confirmation, He Says.

"No single inquiry had been or was made by the agencies behind Kelley, at the department of the interior or at any other government department, as to the facts before their publication."

Despite denials by the department of the interior of this and "opportunities to test the truth" the President said that "these agencies have persisted in broadcasting them for the past six weeks by every device of publicity, and Kelley has received payment for them.

"As a piece of journalism it may well be that the newspaper involved was misled," went on the President. "It certainly does not represent the practices of better American journalism. As a piece of politics it is certainly far below the ideals of political partisanship held by substantial men in that party."

The President said that the "preserving and upbuilding of honest public service," presents another phase of the situation.

"I hope that the American people realize that when reckless, baseless, and infamous charges in the face of responsible denial with no attempt at verification are supported by political agencies and are broadcast, reflecting upon the probity of public men such as Secretary Wilbur, the ultimate result can only be damage to public service as a whole," said the President. "Such things damage the whole faith of our people in men.

"There is hardly an administrative official of importance in the federal government who is not serving the government to the sacrifice of the satisfactions and remuneration he or she could command from private life.

"The one hope of high service and integrity and ability is that such men should be willing to undertake it, and when men of a lifetime of distinction and probity do undertake it they should not be subjected to infamous transactions of this character."

World Makes Its Statement.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The New York World tonight issued the following statement which it will print in its Wednesday morning edition:

"President Hoover has issued a statement criticizing as 'reckless, baseless, and infamous' the charges made against the department of the interior by Ralph S. Kelley and published in a 'journal identified with the opposition party.' The journal which Mr. Hoover thus describes is, of course, the World.

"To the best of our knowledge the facts with respect to the Kelley articles are these:

"The articles were prepared by a government servant who has an honorable record of more than a quarter of a century behind him in the department of the interior. The articles were written, Mr. Kelley informed the World, and the readers of the World, because Mr. Kelley believed that only a public protest on his part would put an end to methods which he regarded as a scandalous betrayal of the public interest.

Investigation Questioned.

"The articles themselves were replete with specific facts, names, dates, and figures. They raised questions which seemed to the World at the time and still seem to the World to call for exhaustive investigation. The only investigation which they have had is a brief survey into Secretary Wilbur's department conducted by an agent of one of Secretary Wilbur's colleagues in Mr. Hoover's cabinet. This agent has denied the accuracy of Mr. Kelley's charges. Mr. Kelley, speaking as the former expert of the government and speaking on the basis of his twenty-five years of honest service to the government, has repeated his charges.

"It seems to us that these charges call for a more thorough investigation than they have yet received, by an agency whose motives are perhaps less partisan. Such an agency is the public lands committee of the senate. It is quite apparent that the public lands committee will initiate an investigation as soon as congress meets. It will be time then, we suggest to Mr. Hoover, to determine precisely how 'reckless, baseless, and infamous' Mr. Kelley's charges are."

RICH CHICAGO WOMAN FORCED TO PAY $9,495 CUSTOMS PENALTY

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Joseph B. Long, wealthy Chicago widow, paid a forfeiture value and penalty of $9,495 today for jewelry and merchandise which she failed to declare on her arrival last Friday aboard the liner Berengaria.

Her customs declaration aggregated about $50,000, but because there was some question about the proper declaration of several items part of her baggage was held for appraisal.

Mrs. Lang was not penalized the usual 100 per cent because the jewelry she failed to declare included several stones which she had taken abroad to have reset.

CONDI, ALDERMAN GET EXTRADITION HEARING DELAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Angelo Monsarrate, murder, sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary; Ezell Perkins, Watson Douglas and Willie Lewis, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary, by Judge Joseph B. David.

Hearings on fugitive warrants for Joseph Condi and Izzy Alderman, the men named in the first vagrancy warrants, which started the drive against hoodlums, racketeers and gunmen under this old statute, were continued by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle yesterday to Nov. 10. Condi and Alderman are wanted in New York and New Jersey on old robbery charges. The continuance was granted because the necessary extradition papers have not arrived.

Condi was recently acquitted after a trial on a vagrancy charge in Judge Harry Fisher's court. The charge against Alderman is being held in abeyance pending the outcome of the extradition hearings. The men are at liberty on bonds sanctioned by Judge Fisher.

"You men are not at liberty through any action of mine," Judge Lyle told the defendants.

BANKER STABBED BY ROBBERS IN SOUTH CHICAGO

cago detectives believed the robbers had been informed that Pian would be traveling with the diamonds.

Pian left his loop offices about noon. The gems, some of them in platinum settings, but most of them loose, were contained in a wallet in Pian's inside coat pocket.

The robbery was committed a few minutes after Pian had crossed the Illinois line into Wisconsin. His first warning of danger came when an automobile, approaching him from the north, swung across the highway and barricaded his way. One man sprang from the blockading machine, waving a pistol, while his pal remained at the wheel.

Gunman Demands Jewels.

"Give me those jewels in your coat pocket," commanded the thief. This remark convinced police the robbers had received advance information on Pian's movements. Pian protested he had no gems, but the gunman walked up to him, reached in his pocket, and extracted the wallet. He then warned the jeweler that if he notified authorities before 15 minutes had elapsed he would kill Pian in his Chicago office. To emphasize his warning, the outlaw tapped Pian on the head with his revolver butt. The blow was not serious. The two bandits then drove southward.

Pian drove back to Winthrop Harbor and reported the theft to Policeman Herman Larson. Larson escorted him to Zion City, where a complete report was given to Chief Conrad A. Brune, and relayed to Chicago. Pian told the police that the diamonds were not insured.

DOMINIONS WIN RIGHT TO NAME KING'S ENVOYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The most important decision reached by the imperial conference is on the constitutional question of the appointment of governors general. The British government has accepted the principle for which Ireland, South Africa, and others were pressing—that governors general shall be appointed on the advice only of the dominions over which they preside as vice constitutional sovereigns representing only the king and in no sense the British government.

One of the tasks allotted to the Sankey committee was to work out the machinery to implement this decision. The difficulty to be overcome is the method of approach to the king by the dominion governments. Hitherto this has been through the dominions office. This was objected to by the dominions.

Two suggestions are that the dominion governments should use the governor general as the medium through which they would deal with the king direct and that the status of high commissioners in London be raised to that of ambassadors with the right of direct access to the king.

A third flat in which machine gunners awaited an opportunity of firing at Joe Aiello, who was slain last Thursday night, was found yesterday. The place, which the assassins did not need to use, was a flat a 4402 West End avenue, close to the home of Pasquale Prestogiacomo, alias Patsy Presto, at 205 North Kolmar avenue, where Aiello had been hiding.

When Aiello left the home of Presto, his business partner, to take a taxicab, fire was opened on him from a machine gun nest in a flat across the street at 202 Kolmar avenue. When the wounded gangster tried to flee to the rear of the Presto home he was felled by fire from a second nest from a window at 4518 West End avenue.

Rented a Week Before Murder.

The flat at 4402 West End avenue was rented a week before the murder by a man who gave the name of Lon Celespe and a false address and who paid $75 in advance for a month's rent. He said he intended to move his family there in a few days, but Samuel Davidson, 1232 South Homan avenue, rental agent, said he called there and found two Italians and some cheap furniture in it.

Capt. Patrick Collins of the Fillmore station sent out a police message asking the arrest of Celespe, explaining that undoubtedly the place was rented to complete the Aiello machine gun trap and shoot him if he emerged from the rear door of Presto's home.

Presto Is Held.

Presto was charged last night with being an accessory before the fact of Aiello's murder. Chief of Detectives John Norton said he told many lies about his relationship with Aiello and about what Aiello was doing in his home. Norton also ordered the same charge be placed against John Sorce, 624 North Avers avenue, an employé of the Italo-American Importing company, 1104 West Randolph street, which was owned by Aiello, Angelo Pranzanzano and Presto. Tony Lombardo, who was killed at Dearborn and Madison streets two years ago, was a former owner of the concern.

A double line of men and women filed in and out of the Aiello home at 2553 Lunt avenue last evening, viewing Aiello's body in an $11,000 coffin. The second floor apartment was filled with friends and flowers. The funeral of the gang chieftain will be held today.

Watch for Jack McGurn.

Another flat, probably rented for murderous purposes, was located by police more than ten days ago, Chief Norton announced. It was at 7130 Cyril avenue, and Norton's information was that Machine Gun Jack McGurn, public enemy, and his associate, Tony Accardo, had leased the place two weeks ago. Norton had men watching for their return, but yesterday he withdrew the detail in the belief they knew of the surveillance. Detectives canvassed the neighborhood but were unable to discover any gangster living in the vicinity who might have been marked for death.

Henry Finkelstein, 3333 West Madison street, once a leader in the Moran-Aiello gang, was arrested yesterday when he visited the Chicago avenue police court. Detective Roy Van Herick said he had sworn out a warrant charging Finkelstein with vagrancy, but the warrant could not be found.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT IN NIGHT CLUB PUZZLES POLICE

Parents of Victim Come Here by Plane.

The police were still unable last night to discover a motive for the attempted suicide of Bruce Todd, 28 years old, of St. Paul. Todd shot himself early yesterday in the basement of the Teodoro Gaisty club at 710 Rush street. The club was recently established by Mrs. Mary Esposito, widow of the once celebrated "Diamond Joe" Esposito, a west side politician who was shot to death several years ago.

The police investigation was made at the request of Kay Todd, father of the young man. The elder Todd arrived in Chicago yesterday by airplane from St. Paul. He was unable to supply a reason for the suicide attempt.

Victim Still Unconscious.

At the Passavant hospital it was reported that Bruce Todd had not regained consciousness and that chances for his recovery from a wound inflicted by a .25 caliber pistol were slight. His mother, who also came by plane from St. Paul, was at his bedside.

The father told Sergt. James McGinnis of the Chicago avenue police that he knew of no reason why his son should wish to die. He said young Todd had been away from home for the last year, spending some time in Texas and only recently coming to Chicago.

Young Todd had been a frequent visitor at the Teodoro since its opening, Chicago avenue police learned. He had come in late Monday night, and, according to James Steele, colored porter, seemed cheerful. The porter said Todd had sent him from the basement washroom at 3:30 a. m. to get some cigarettes. Then there was a shot, and when Steele ran back, he found Todd on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the temple.

Identified by Schoolmate.

Todd was identified by H. E. Carney Jr., an official of the Carney Cement company, Mankato, Minn., who said he had attended the Shattuck Military school at Faribault, Minn., with the wounded man.

Todd's attempted suicide revealed that the Teodoro is being operated by Mrs. Esposito. Last night was the gala opening night of the club, but Mrs. Esposito did not attend. It was said that she was at the bedside of her sister, who is not expected to live.

TRAYLOR RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF N. U. TRUSTEES

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, last night resigned as president of the board of trustees of Northwestern university, and was succeeded by Arthur Andersen, head of Arthur Andersen and company, certified public accountants.

Pressure of business was given by Mr. Traylor, as his reason for quitting the post. The death of two of his associates, Frank O. Wetmore and Leonard A. Busby, has thrust a heavy burden of responsibility upon him, he explained. He will remain a member of the board with the title of honorary chairman.

Mr. Andersen became a trustee in 1927, filling a vacancy caused by the death of Judge Elbert H. Gary. He is the first alumnus of the university ever to become president of the board of trustees. His home is in Wilmette. He is chairman of the Illinois board of certified accountant examiners.

TRUE BILL NAMES FOUR OFFICIALS OF CLOSED BANK

Four officials of the closed Roosevelt-Bankers State bank, 400 East 47th street, were named in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday. The men are charged with receiving deposits when they knew the bank to be insolvent.

Samuel Flower, president; Frank Flower, vice president, and Alex Flower, chairman of the board of directors, all brothers, and Louis W. Frank, vice president and cashier, are the officials named in the true bill. Miss Alice Sims, 4734 South Michigan avenue, colored, is the complainant in the case in which the true bill was voted. Assistant State's Attorneys Henry Ayers and Leonard Rice said that they expect more true bills to be voted later.

Protest Over Bank Failures.

Action was taken at this time, it was announced, because of the agitation among the colored residents of the south side, who charge that as a result of three bank failures they have been made virtually destitute at a time when employment is scarce.

Sheridan A. Brusseau, who was chief investigator for Attorney Frank J. Loesch when the latter was special assistant state's attorney, and Attorneys J. Gray Lucas and Herman Moore, recently visited the state's attorney's office to present evidence against at least two of the defunct banks in the colored section.

21,000 Depositors, Says Prosecutor.

According to Prosecutor Ayers the Roosevelt-Bankers State bank had approximately 21,000 depositors with savings deposits of $911,538 and Christmas savings fund deposits of $88,746. The liabilities of the bank are $1,250,000 and the assets do not exceed $600,000, the prosecutor has been informed.

The bank closed its doors on Aug. 2. The deposit involved in the true bill was received on July 28, it is said.

WORLD'S LEADING HOSPITALS USE PLUTO WATER

Main building of the Cook County Hospital group, Chicago, one of the world's largest hospitals. Pluto Water is always kept on hand for attending physicians. More than a million patients a year are treated here.

"Doctors' orders are commands in the hospital. A saline water laxative is one of the essentials. Pluto Water is acknowledged the ideal saline water laxative; and so we keep on hand a supply to meet the requirements of our huge staff of physicians."

Cornelius Vanderpoel

Chief Pharmacist,
Cook County Hospital.

IN HOSPITALS, one of the first requirements is a ready supply of those remedies which are regularly prescribed by the attending staff. Life or death may hang upon their availability.

Pluto Water—America's favorite laxative for half a century—is a staple in leading hospitals the same as bandages or iodine! In addition to its use at other times, Pluto Water is a frequent part of pre-operative treatment.

There are excellent reasons why Pluto Water has been the choice of doctors for more than fifty years. Pluto is a saline laxative. Unlike harsh drugs and vegetable laxatives, it is gentle in its effect—considerate of the system—yet it is always certain, always prompt and always complete.

Pluto Water brings you all the health-laden saline mineral properties of the famed spring waters at French Lick, Indiana—home of America's greatest health resort. Due to its saline content, Pluto cleans the system in Nature's way, by flushing. It really water-washes the digestive tract, acting within thirty minutes to two hours from the time it is taken!

Thousands of doctors prescribe Pluto Water—for home use the same as for hospital use. Keep it always on hand in your home—it is the finest form of health insurance. Two sizes, at your nearest drug store—20c and 45c.

JUST HOW SAFE ARE YOU AT HOME?

IF YOU think of danger in terms of trains, steamships, airplanes, automobiles, machinery and the like, please remember that more than 7,000 lives were lost last year in American homes as a result of fire.

More than 60 per cent of all fires occur in homes. The "safety" of your hearthstone loses some of its assurance when you consider this record of tragedy.

To improve such conditions the Stock Fire Insurance companies—representing the great bulk of fire insurance written in this country—maintain many helpful services.

For Greater Home Safety

The Department of Building Construction operated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters spreads a vast amount of information regarding building materials and their proper assembling.

Stock Fire Insurance engineers constantly survey the fire defenses of cities and work with public officials to improve them.

Underwriters' Laboratories, established by Stock Fire Insurance, tests and labels thousands of devices used in the home—electrical apparatus, convenience equipment, heating plants, fire extinguishers and utilities of many descriptions.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

has a large personnel and many facilities that are always available in connection with construction, maintenance, protection, and fire prevention. Its record in reducing the average cost of fire insurance over a long period of years is partly the result of its efforts to make home life safer.

For more than eighty years the Chicago Board of Underwriters has sponsored and developed improvements for the protection of life and property in this great city. Conditions have been made safer, year by year.

Engineers of the Chicago Board—working with municipal authorities—have, during the greater part of the city's existence, contributed to the improvement of the fire department, waterworks system, building codes, and other means of public safety. The Board has maintained the splendid Fire Insurance Patrol. It has established insurance rates in keeping with conditions existing, and these costs have steadily declined as a result of unremitting effort.

Who can measure the value of the Chicago Fire Department? The fireman is indeed everybody's friend. His work deserves every degree of financial support and moral encouragement the city can give.

In the membership of the Chicago Board of Underwriters are many Representatives of Stock Fire Insurance companies, well equipped to counsel with property owners concerning fire insurance problems, who will place your insurance in companies offering sound protection at a definite and clearly understood cost.

CHARITY RELIEF AIMS TO UPROOT POVERTY CAUSES

Chicago Agencies Do More than Give to Poor.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Organized charity in Chicago, at its best, works like a bank clearing house.

Five hundred relief applications a day are coming into the offices of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, through its 175 member agencies. This means that somewhere in the city a family has come to the starvation point, a child must be placed in a home, an aged couple cared for, or some problem of social relief solved.

How is it solved? What becomes of the money that is given to organized charity? Do families really need it?

Here's the Answer.

All these questions are first referred to the business like office of the council at 203 N. Wabash avenue. Here in the Social Service Exchange, presided over by Edwina Meaney Lewis, who has had 15 years experience in social work.

The application is put on a card and passed into the record room. This is a large room filled with filing cases. It contains the confidential files of charity. There are 900,000 cards there, each one bearing a name and street address and in cryptic letters on the back the story of what happened to them in the past. They go back for years, and are made up by the cooperation of the United Charities, the Jewish Social Exchange, the Central Catholic Exchange and all other agencies in the city of any importance. Therefore nothing is missed.

The cards are filed first by street number system and then by names under a phonetic code. Fifteen girls are kept busy all day checking up applications.

An Example Is Cited.

Take a case that has been referred to the Salvation Army. The first thing they do with it is to call the exchange. The case is "cleared" within a few minutes by telephone and later confirmed by mail. The Army is told whether this family has ever had relief before in any form, and just what was done for them. In this way the professional charity seekers are spotted at once. Where help has been asked from more than one agency, the duplication is shown. At the same time the files are augmented if this is a new name.

The situation at the beginning of the winter is shown by the fact that many new than old applicants are reported. That is, more families that have never had relief before, are coming in now. Of 121 cases reported by the United Charities, for instance, 53 were identified as old cases, and 68 as new families.

More Than Mere Charity.

With information from the exchange at hand, the next thing that happens in handling the charity application is the visit of a case worker to the home of the family. This worker is usually a girl of university training.

Much more is done than merely buying food and coal and clothes. There may be a health problem, and the family, while not needing much financial relief, may be carried on the waiting list for months or years.

It may be a question of teaching the mother how to cook or care for the baby. The case worker needs to be something of a mother, a doctor, a nurse, a mental hygienist, as well as a payer of bills. The main purpose is to rehabilitate that family, getting work for them, pulling them out of the fears and ignorance which may have led them into this condition.

Organized charity is equipped and intelligent. The overhead expense is low, but it is under ten cents to the dollar.

HOOVER ORDERS NAVY YARDS NOT TO LAY OFF MEN IN JOBLESS CRISIS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Modification of some aspects of the Hoover retrenchment program for national defense has been decided upon to make it unnecessary to discharge civilian personnel of the army and navy department, or industrial workers at navy yards, it was disclosed today.

According to one official attending the Hoover cabinet unemployment committee meeting this morning arrangements are being made so that all civilian personnel now on the navy and army pay roll can be retained. No modification has been made of the order reducing the enlisted strength of the navy by 4,800 men as an efficiency and economy move.

The sentenced of Harry Meisterling, former vice president of the association, was reduced from six months to thirty days; that of Max Goldsmith, from six months to sixty days, and that of Chris Lawrence, from six months to thirty days. These three men were placed on probation.

GOOD FELLOWS WAKE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IN CITY

Many Send Money to Help Needy Families.

The Good Fellows, contributing to the relief of the city's destitute families, are arousing a Christmas spirit in Chicago almost two months before the holiday. The city is giving. The public is releasing its grip on its purse strings.

Men and women of means are clipping the Good Fellow coupon from THE TRIBUNE and mailing pledges to provide during the winter for one or more of the 75,000 families in Chicago who must rely on others for food, shelter, fuel and clothing. Those with less means are sending all they feel able to give to the Good Fellow fund, where every cent collected goes to the aid of hungry and cold families.

In offices, churches, shops, factories and social groups, associates are lumping their donations to pay all or part of some family's budget for minimum requirements as compiled by trained social service workers.

Stenographer Sends Check.

A stenographer, chairman of the Good Fellow committee in her office, mailed a check for $22.50, described as a weekly payment, and asked that it go to some family with girls.

"There are 11 of us girls in this office," she wrote. "We want to visit the family we are supporting, so that we can bring them some of our clothes that are in good condition but out of style."

The stenographer will be notified of the family she is helping, and arrangements for her introduction to the family will be made with the social service worker who is handling the case.

"We are a group of young married women on the south shore who meet twice monthly to play bridge," reads another letter, accompanying a check for $13. "Part of our assessment each time includes a small amount which heretofore we have allowed to accumulate until there was enough for a theater party. The inclosed check represents that accumulation up to the present time, and we shall be indebted to you for seeing that it is used to help some of the unfortunate ones who are temporarily in need."

Give 2 Per Cent of Pay Roll.

"We are enclosing our check for $47.10, which is 2 per cent of our weekly pay roll," reads the businesslike letter from the president of a cleaning establishment. "Please apply this to your charity fund. It is our intention to continue with this plan throughout the coming winter, or until it is no longer needed."

A dollar bill and 24 cents in stamps were received with an anonymous note written in pencil.

"I am sending a small amount to help those who are not as lucky as I am," it reads. "I can't send a lot. I wish I could, but I have eight children and we are living on less than $50 a month and have our ups and downs. I will do the best I can. I will send more as I can spare it."

MYSTERY SHOTS KILL WORKER IN INDIANA HARBOR

A mysterious shooting in the downtown section of Indiana Harbor last evening caused the death of John Schreiger, 37 years old, a family man working in the plant of the Inland Steel company and living at 3607 Grand boulevard, Indiana Harbor.

A score of pedestrians and motorists saw Schreiger sitting in his small sedan, parked in Fir street east of Michigan avenue. With him were two men. One sat inside the sedan and one stood at the curb. Suddenly the latter slammed the door of the sedan. Schreiger slumped over. The two man ran down an alley.

Schreiger staggered out of the car crying "I've been shot." The police were summoned and he was taken to St. Catherine's hospital, where he died at 5:30 o'clock. Before lapsing into unconsciousness he kept muttering, "It was a holdup." However, $14 were found in his pockets. So far as the police know he had no enemies.

KING OF ETHIOPIA GREETS SON OF KING OF ENGLAND

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Oct. 28. —(AP)—With the arrival today of the duke of Gloucester to attend the coronation of Ras Tafari as Haile Belassie I., emperor of the Ethiopians, the representatives of fifteen nations are here for the great ceremony Sunday. Enthusiastic welcomes were given the others, including H. Murray Jacoby and the American delegation.

Ras Tafari reserved his highest honors for the duke of Gloucester because he is the son of another monarch, King George, and for Marshal Franchet d'Esperey of France—the latter because he not only has a distinguished military record but also because French Somaliland is a close neighbor to Abyssinia.

For these the king himself went to the railway stations, where the others were met by the crown prince.

Snatches $2,600 from Girl Worker on Way to Bank

A bandit yesterday seized a package containing $600 in cash and $2,000 in checks from Miss Marie Norton, 20 years old, as she was leaving the Alliance Finance corporation, 2429 South Michigan avenue, to deposit the money in a bank. The robber escaped in an automobile driven by an accomplice. Miss Norton, who lives at 8557 Justine street, was accompanied by Miss Mary Fox of Des Plaines, a co-worker.

Leaps to Death from Link Bridge as Crowds Watch

An unidentified man yesterday morning commited suicide by leaping into the Chicago river at the Michigan avenue link bridge while the bridge was thronged with loop bound pedestrians. Coast guardsmen dragged the river for an hour before recovering the body. The man was about 28 years old, wore glasses, and was dressed in a shabby blue suit.

MANY SKILLED WORKERS SEEK JOBS, SALLY SAYS

Tells Story of Engineer Out of Work.

Day by day the general public is demonstrating an increasingly understanding attitude toward the type of positions which Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE is seeking for the unemployed, Sally reported last night. These jobs are reported by her to the Illinois Free Employment service at 116 North Dearborn street. The minority who sought to obtain workers for virtually nothing has dropped to zero, and the wages that are offered are averaging better.

"For instance," said Sally, "we got any number of calls at first for girls to do housework. Then people began to think the girls needed work so badly they'd be able to get them for $5 a week, and one woman even offered as little as $1 a week. But now we have frequent positions reported that pay $15 a week with board and room. Those people want girls that are capable, and they're getting them. Ten and $12 jobs are also fairly numerous —only we need so many more than we get."

Many Are Skilled Workers.

Both Sally Joy Brown's staff and the placement clerks at the Illinois Free Employment service emphasize that a large percentage of the people now "down on their luck" are not by any means incompetent, uneducated workers. There are college men and women among them, and skilled tradesmen whom luck, rather than lack of capability, has thrown out of employment.

"Yesterday we had a man apply here for work who was a graduate engineer," related Sally. "He was a fine type of man, too. A great big fellow—regular southern gentleman. He came from Kentucky, and told us he'd always held excellent positions until last spring, when he lost his job and fell ill at the same time. An attack of appendicitis ate up what money he had and he admitted he'd never been careful about money.

Engineer Out of Job.

"He hasn't been able to find a place, and just before he came in he had sold his golf cuff buttons to get enough for a meal and forty cents for a place to sleep last night. He said he'd lost thirty pounds because of missing so many meals, and that while at first he used to get very hungry, he could make a cup of coffee and a sandwich last him as a day's food now, and not notice it much. When one of the girls tried to lend him a little money he said, 'Where I came from we don't take money from ladies,' and refused."

Out of the more than 3,000 men who registered in one week at the free employment service, one can find all sorts of tradesme nand occupations. Men and women experienced in many lines of business are available and eager for jobs. They spend hours awaiting a call, and days and weeks strolling in and out of the employment bureaus. Many have dependents.

Whatever help you can offer or suggest, Sally Joy Brown and her staff will be delighted to hear of it. Call Superior 0100 and ask for that department, and leave all the details with one of the girls who are handling the recording of every such opportunity to relieve the general unemployment crisis.

FEDERAL DRIVE TO AID JOBLESS SHOWS RESULTS

Postoffice to Use Only Needy Extras.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The campaign to rid the jobless of want in the lean winter months advanced with definite strides today as the federal government made plans to create more opportunities for work and outside agencies began functioning to relieve local distress.

Announcements of the government's action, coupled with reports from different sections of the country of the steps taken by voluntary organizations, greeted Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee for employment, upon his return late today from New York.

The members of his staff he recruited in New York are to meet with him tomorrow. Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, consulting engineer of Montclair, N. J., is to be in charge of the women's activities. John B. Blandford Jr. of Cincinnati is to work with municipalities, and Bryce Stewart, New York statistician, is in charge of gathering information on unemployment and places where employment may be found.

Likes Massachusetts Plan.

Col. Woods said he was pleased with the organization by Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts of a state employment committee to apply the recommendations of the President's committee for a state-wide campaign for employment. Other states in which no existing organization is functioning, he said, undoubtedly would adopt similar programs.

Plans of the postoffice department to place 223,490 additional persons on its pay roll during the Christmas holiday season beginning Dec. 13, were outlined today by Postmaster General Brown. About $6,720,000 will be distributed to needy breadwinners, President Hoover having previously signed an executive order waiving civil service qualifications of workmen in order to make the widest distribution to the most destitute.

The postmaster general issued specific orders to postmasters throughout the country to determine the financial condition of the applicants to assure that they need work.

Veterans' Bureau Projects.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said the veterans' bureau would award contracts within a few weeks for hospital units costing $7,000,000, which would provide work for 4,500 men. The hospitals are to be located at Indianapolis, Ind.; Waco, Tex.; Camp Custer, Mich., and additions are to be undertaken at Northport, L. I.; Somerset, N. J., and Tucson, Ariz.

Bids were opened today for a $5,270,000 office building for the house of representatives in Washington as another unemployment measure.

In addition, Secretary Wilbur advised the President's emergency committee that he had instructed the engineers of the $165,000,000 Hoover dam project on the Colorado river to expedite their request for bids for initial construction.

Likens Emergency to War.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—This period of united effort to give jobs to those who need them is like a time of war, Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee on employment, today told women's club leaders from six states.

Meanwhile, New York City continued its efforts toward relief and providing jobs. Employment for 2,000 men until the end of the year was assured by an appropriation of $226,000 by the city board of estimate.

The police census of unemployed now under way to date shows 18,806 persons out of work.

CHICAGO ARMY OF JOBLESS TO REGISTER NOV. 8

Lists to Be Taken at the Public Schools.

Registration of Chicago's army of unemployed, which has been estimated at 200,000, will be conducted on Saturday, Nov. 8, at the 352 public schools of the city.

This was decided yesterday by the unemployment committee of the governor's commission at a meeting in the office of its chairman, Britton I. Budd. Mr. Budd announced he had obtained consent of Lewis E. Myers, president of the board of education, for use of the schools.

The registration will be conducted, it was indicated, by volunteer school teachers. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, said last night that, although the committee had not approached him on the question, he could see no objection to the plan of having teachers act as registration clerks.

Questions to Unemployed.

The sample registration sheet submitted to the committee by Mr. Budd asks the registrant to state the size of his family, his trade or profession, the date of his last employment, and his religious or fraternal affiliations. Objection to the last question came from John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who said the committee might as reasonably ask the jobseeker if he was "wet or dry."

Mr. Budd explained the question was inserted to facilitate relief administration in needy cases, the plan being to divide the relief work among the United, Catholic and Jewish charities. Mr. Fitzpatrick withdrew his objection.

The committee again took up the question of reported curtailment of employés by the postoffice department all over the country and heard a report of Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, who had been delegated to interview Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder.

"None to Lose Jobs."

Gen. Clinnin reported that the postmaster said no workers would lose their jobs, while admitting that efficiency engineers from Washington had installed a mail handling system designed to increase the efficiency of present forces.

Miss Agnes Nestor, labor leader and members of the committee, challenged the postmaster's reported claim, asserting the present policy in the postoffice was to make no replacements of men retiring, resigning or dying.

"It 'seems apparent that working forces in the postoffice department are being curtailed," observed Mr. Budd. "It seems evident that Mr. Lueder can do nothing, his orders coming direct from Washington."

At Mr. Budd's suggestion, Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman was appointed to draft a protest to Postmaster General Brown.

W. G. Bierd, head of the Chicago and Alton railroad, informed the committee that the Alton was organizing an employés' relief association similar to those adopted by the Rock Island and the Chicago and North Western roads. Mr. Bierd added that the Alton would on Saturday reopen its shops at Bloomington, rehiring 1,400 men.

Sees Need for $5,000,000.

George F. Getz, attending the meeting as general chairman of the commission, announced he would probably make an upward revision of his estimate of a $1,500,000 budget for emergency relief. The new figure is $5,000,000.

Although unable to arrange a conference with George Woodruff, chairman of the finance committee, upon which devolves the task of raising the Cook county relief fund, Mr. Getz conferred last evening with Gov. Emmerson at the Hotel La Salle.

He expects to call a meeting of the full commission immediately following the election of Nov. 4, at which the governor will be present to hear reports of accomplishments and plans.

The commission's rent free headquarters at 105 South La Salle street opened yesterday. Stenographers, typewriters, furniture and stationery have been donated and a switchboard and operator contributed free by the telephone company.

Mr. Getz announced that by further borrowing he had obtained the full time services of James Keeley, assistant to the president of the Pullman company, as his own assistant for the duration of the commission's activity.

Council to Call on Court.

The city council committee on unemployment, meeting yesterday to hear reports on public works from President Faherty of the board of local improvements, and Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe, failed to call the two officials. The committee resolved to call upon the Supreme court for an early decision on the legality of the $12,000,000 water certificate issues, to provide a start on the proposed filtration plant.

The Chicago Medical society proffered Health Commissioner Kegel the free services of its members in examining applicants for shelter at the various lodging houses.

As a result of an "I Want to Help" campaign inaugurated by the student government of the Hibbard Elementary school, 3244 Ainslie street, the pupils have collected more than 1,500 articles of clothing, 150 pairs of shoes and $100 worth of canned goods for the needy.

A score of the homeless, who congregate daily under the Michigan avenue bridge, received suits, overcoats and shoes yesterday through the efforts of William Atteridge of Highwood. Mr. Atteridge, a driver for the Bowman Dairy company, solicited every customer on his route for cast off clothes, and threw in two suits of his own and an overcoat to swell the bundle. He and his wife distributed the garments.

We'll Fight Too! 10,000 War Mutilated Tell Mussolini

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 28.—For the celebration of the eighth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome there are illuminations in the Eternal city tonight, but somehow they don't seem so bright after the fireworks which Premier Mussolini set off yesterday as a curtain raiser.

However, the proceedings were full of color and marked particularly by two phenomena of importance. The first was the induction of the "Legion of Mutilated," composed of 10,000 incapacitated war veterans, into the ranks of the Fascist militia.

The second was the partication, for the first time since the anniversary was celebrated as a national holiday of Catholic dignitaries.

Mussolini Greets Cripples.

Seemingly quite fresh after his exertions yesterday, Il Duce himself welcomed the battle scarred veterans into the bosom of the Black Shirt family.

It was a moving sight. Thousands of these men, who had lost legs and arms and their sight in the last war, lined up or were seated in cars and invalid chairs in Piazzi di Siena. They pledged themselves fervently to do battle anew if the need comes.

Premier Mussolini appeared in a simpler uniform than yesterday as wild cheers greeted him. Arms, where there was an arm to be raised, were thrown up in the Fascist salute.

"Mutilated comrades, Black Shirts!" he said stepping forward to offer the mutilated their new banner as a militia unit, "I consider this the most significant event of the eighth celebration of the march on Rome. The great family of armed forces of state, the army, the navy, the aviation and the militia, welcome you.

"I'm sure that if events rendered it necessary you mutilated, who already have given so much in the last war, would be ready to march again at the head of the Italian people." The wild cry of "Si, si," arose.

"Am I right?"

Another cry of delirium.

Then Cardinal Sincero blessed the standard while Il Duce and the new Black Shirts who were able stood at rigid attention. The cardinal, after blessing the wounded veterans and praising their devotion to the country and blessing the king, continued:

"God bless the head of the government, Il Duce, whose providential vigor and strength are all dedicated to the well-being of Italy. May God preserve it!"

Balk Anti-Fascist Bomb Plot.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 28.—An attempt to blow up the Fascist headquarters in Paris was frustrated early today when the police arrested two Italian anarchists who were carrying a bomb powerful enough to destroy a large apartment building.

The police noticed two men lurking in deep shadows under the girders of Eiffel tower. Since the Eiffel tower houses one of the most important military wireless stations the gendarmes feared that the two prowlers might be spies and arrested them.

One was found to be carrying a five gallon gasoline can which contained a 75 shell crammed tight with dynamite. Around the shell was a thick wad of cotton soaked with benzine and a two minute fuse dangled out of the spout of the can. The men readily admitted that they were anti-Fascists.

BALLISTICS TEST APT TO DECIDE CAMPBELL'S FATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—Five revolvers and ten bullets tonight were in the hands of Col. Calvin Goddard, Northwestern university firearms expert, and in his ability to match them rests, in a large degree, the future of ballistics as well as the fate of Herbert M. Campbell, alleged murderer of Miss Mary Baker.

The bullets were fired from the guns before the judge and jury at the Campbell trial today as a result of an offer made by the prosecution to prove Goddard's testimony that a gun owned by Campbell fired the bullets extracted from Miss Baker's body. One of the five guns used was Campbell's.

Immediately after the start of the ballistics test the prosecution rested its case and Justice Jesse C. Adkins denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Hundreds of curious persons assembled outside the marine barracks near the courtroom while the firing of the pistols was taking place. Col. Goddard was excluded from the barracks as the clerk of the court shot ten cartridges at random into a basket filled with waste rags, recovered, marked, and mixed the bullets. Later in the courtroom they were handed to Goddard, who took them to the bureau of standards laboratory. He is expected to make his report tomorrow.

JUST ADD YEAST to your diet (3 cakes daily before or between meals) in water, milk, or just plain

IN THIS Famous European Sanatorium

IF you could have a five-minute talk with one of the foremost physicians of Europe about your body and your health : : : If you could have a heart-to-heart discussion with him regarding the treatment of your troubles : : :

And if you could have this talk without a cent of cost to you : : : would you listen?

Then imagine that you are sitting in your own home talking with Professor Dr. von Noorden of Frankfort, Germany.

The Doctor is speaking to you now : : :

"Yeast is used constantly in my clinic. Its results are astonishing. It increases secretion of the digestive juices, improves appetite. For over thirty years it has been used, with surprising results, to cure certain diseases of the skin.

"Yeast has an extraordinary tonic effect on the whole system."

. . . yeast is regularly used for Intestinal Fatigue · Read Doctor Carl von Noorden's own statement

Fresh yeast, you know, is a plant, a food. Taken as a regular part of your nourishment, it moistens and softens waste matter which has accumulated in the intestinal tract.

It stimulates the natural action of the intestines, and thus helps the body to throw off undigested residue in a normal way. No longer do poisons from stagnant waste flood the body to cause bad skin, bad breath, headaches, backaches and similar common ills.

The result is that your skin clears, appetite returns, color improves : : : your whole body feels the beneficial effect of yeast's action. This without a single dose of medicine, a single cathartic, a single violent expedient.

Why don't you try this proved way to regain new health? It's very simple. Just eat three cakes of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast regularly every day, following the directions on the label. Each cake is rich in three vitamins (B, G and D) indispensable to health. At grocers', restaurants, soda fountains everywhere.

Not a "Cure-all"...Fleischmann's Yeast is a health food thousands eat three times a day

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

BRAZILIAN JUNTA PICKS VARGAS AS NEW PRESIDENT

Southern Leader Will Be Sworn In Tomorrow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Copyright, 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 28.—Dr. Getulio Vargas today was proclaimed president of Brazil and commander-in-chief of the victorious southern rebel forces, which are arriving in Sao Paulo tonight.

Dr. Vargas was chosen as master of Brazil to succeed Washington Luis, the deposed president, at a meeting today of the southern revolutionary representatives with the military junta which seized Rio de Janeiro Friday. Dr. Vargas, it was announced tonight, will arrive in Rio de Janeiro Thursday, where he will be sworn in as de facto president by the president of the Supreme court.

Latest advices are that Dr. Vargas is making slow progress by train from Pirahy, where he conferred today with representatives of the military junta. He will arrive in Sao Paulo tomorrow.

Installs Followers in Power.

Today by wireless and radio, Dr. Vargas and his chieftains were busily installing in governmental positions of power, adherents of the Liberal alliance, the generic name of the various elements which compose his victorious revolutionary party.

Since Sunday morning, when the popular southern leader decided to "cross the Rubicon" and become provisional de facto immediately, his forces have been slowly and consistently moving forward into the state of Sao Paulo from their headquarters at Ponta Grossa, in Parana. Dr. Vargas' decision to become president immediately was made after indications that the Rio junta, consisting of Gens. Tasso Fragoso and Joao de Deus Mena Barreto, and Admiral Isaias de Noronha, proposed to remain in power there for possibly some time. The junta gave into Dr. Vargas after an exchange of spirited telegrams.

Indicating that the junta in Rio will be out by tomorrow, a proclamation was issued today saying that the junta government had made contact with all the triumphant revolutionary forces, whose victory would mean the immediate dissolution of congress and amnesty for all political prisoners.

The proclamation said, however, that the junta would await the arrival of Dr. Vargas before promulgating any acts necessary to do this.

Legalize De Facto Government.

Machinery to legalize the revolutionary changes was set in motion today, when the supreme federal tribunal in Rio de Janeiro recognized the junta as de facto government of Brazil. This makes the junta's acts official and regularizes the procedure of turning over the government to Dr. Vargas when he arrives. The senate and chamber of deputies buildings in Rio were closed and barred today and an armed guard was placed around them.

In order to control living costs, the prefectures of police in all Brazilian cities have established lists of maximum prices for foodstuffs.

To prevent the escape of politicians, Admiral Isaias de Noronha, a member of the junta, today announced that he would hold all ship captains responsible for carrying clandestine passengers. It is known that several opposition leaders, including the ex-president, got out of the country yesterday.

Vargas Takes Precautions.

It is Dr. Vargas' intention to consolidate his rear in Sao Paulo against eventualities. His troops are occupying the interior towns of Campinas and Cruzeiro, as well as Santos and Sao Paulo.

Gen. Moura, commanding the second federal military region of Sao Paulo, has retired and has been replaced by Dr. Vargas' supporter, Gen. Isidoro Lopes. Miguel Costa, commanding Dr. Vargas' advance guard, was installed as commander of the Sao Paulo troops, and Prof. Francisco Morato, a Vargas appointee, today began his duties as new governor of the state of Sao Paulo.

Troops Four Into Sao Paulo.

A feature of today's events in Sao Paulo was the arrival and reception of the gaucho troops who reached Soracobana station all day, and who were distributed about the town in motor trucks.

Reveal 1,000 Slain.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A tour of the Sao Paulo-Parana battlefields today revealed some details of recent heavy fighting which did not get out of the country at the time. On the battlefield of Sengues, where federals and rebels fought savagely for a bridge day and night between Oct. 15 and Oct. 20, about 1,000 men were killed.

A wrecked locomotive in the bottom of a creek, the bridge over which was blown up by federals near Inginiero Schamer station, explained in part a rumor of two weeks ago that a federal troop train carrying 1,000 men had crashed into a ravine between Sao Paulo and Santos.

AFRICA TEMPTS U. S. TOURIST, BUT O! THOSE FLIES!

Builds Hotels, Roads, and Even Cuts Prices.

Here is the first of a series of stories by Mr. Wales on Algeria and Morocco.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Oct. 28.—North Africa is getting ready to receive its winter crop of visitors, chiefly American tourists, and hopes are high that this year will be better than last, when the stock market crash greatly reduced the number expected between December and March.

New hotels, already started before October, 1929, are completed, additional roads have been built, and tourist trips arranged. In fact, nearly everything has been done to tempt the traveler, even to slight reductions in prices.

Not everything, however. They have not yet realized that screens will keep flies and mosquitoes out of doors and windows, and one is still forced either to undress in the dark and try to fall to sleep at once if he would be cool and have the window open, or disrobe with the lights on and swelter in the heat in a room hermetically sealed. Curiously, no European doors have transoms to let cool air in.

Flies Spoil the Dinner.

Even in the most expensive and fastidious restaurants, such as in the new Aletti hotel, here, which is a part of the casino, one dines with his appetite sadly weakened by the sight of clouds of flies on food brought into the dining room.

And the African flies bite, too. They don't just irritate and annoy like old fashioned American flies, but produce sharp pain when they puncture an ankle or nibble at a neck. African mosquitoes are equally annoying. They are equipped with broadcasting buzzers.

The main high roads are all in fairly good shape, thanks to the government's policy to boost automobile touring, and collect a few francs tax on every gallon of gasoline sold. Gas costs from 48 to 54 cents a gallon, and oil in proportion, and repairs cost about double what they do in America, low cost of labor notwithstanding.

The Arab Mechanic.

Arabs do the heavy work in garages, as elsewhere, and have quaint Arabian notions about putting on tires, repairing inner tubes, vulcanizing shoes, and other jobs. They have no apparatus for stretching and contracting rims to take out and insert the inner tubes, and as a result, most tires set up have the tubes twisted, resulting in an early blow out or puncture through a squeeze.

Richer Arabs have autos of their own, but not for long, apparently, as their ideas of driving are quite original. Some in Algiers run their little tubs on second speed always because it makes more noise and they attract more attention. The grinding and clashing of the gears doesn't rasp on the Arabian ears.

The Arab rides mostly on burros. He uses a neat little tool as an accelerator for his burro. It is a little iron or steel spike like an awl, which he holds it in his hand and jabs the burro in the neck when he wants the animal to go faster.

O! Those Sheiks.

One marvels at the inventive genius of writers, who made sheiks out of sheiks, and endeared them so to the feminine heart along with those Black Beauty tales about the kind Arab to his dumb beasts and his horse which he fed while he, the sheik, went hungry. Arabs treat their animals, women and children, which represents about all their possessions, on the same mean average.

YRIGOYEN REFUSES TO BE QUESTIONED IN ARGENTINE INQUIRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS, AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 28.—Hipolito Yrigoyen, deposed president, today refused point blank to answer questions put to him by Judge Jantus in connection with charges of irregular procedure as head of the deposed government.

"I am still the constitutional president of the Argentine Republic and no one except congress can call me to account," he declared.

Judge Jantus went aboard the coast guard ship Belgrano, on which Yrigoyen as well as former Minister of the Interior Dr. Elpidio Gonzales, is confined, to take Yrigoyen's evidence in regard to his promotion of army officers, granting of pensions to retired officers and other acts which a president of the republic was not empowered to do.

THEATER CASHIER ROBBED.

Owner Tells Combination to Safe Over Phone.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—After keeping the staff of a Broadway jewelry shop cowering under their guns for more than an hour today, two robbers forced the Negro porter to get the combination of the safe by telephone from the owner of the establishment and escaped with gems valued at more than $150,000.

One of them was dressed as a messenger boy. He presented an envelope to Charles Lewis, the porter, a trusted employé of 14 years' service, then forced his way into the store, which is next to the Capitol theater at 50th street and Broadway, at the point of a pistol. The "messenger" admitted a well dressed confederate and the two trussed up the porter with wire in a chair near the door.

Get Combination Over Phone.

As the clerks arrived for work the porter admitted them with one free arm and the robbers tied them up.

They waited until the manager, Julius Fox, arrived. They asked him for the combination to the safe, but he declared, "You've scared me so it's gone clean from my mind."

They forced Lewis to the telephone and made him call up the owner, Joseph Rosenthal, to get the figures that would open the safe. The well dressed robber listened as Rosenthal talked and in a minute the safe was opened and the robbers were scooping out the jewelry. They stuffed a small black leather bag and left.

Loot Bank of $2,000.

Pennock, Minn., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Two gunmen held up the State bank of Pennock today, menaced three officers with revolvers, and escaped with approximately $2,000. Pennock, which has a population of about 2,000, is in Kandiyohi county.

Bandits Escape with $10,000.

Lancaster, O., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Five robbers escaped with $10,000 in currency in the holdup of the Fairfield National bank, the largest financial institution in Lancaster, shortly after noon today.

COUPLE SHOT IN FIGHT WITH STORE BANDITS

William Pastos, 32 years old, and his wife, Gregoria, 21, were each shot twice yesterday while resisting two gunmen who attempted to hold up their candy store at 3911 Irving Park boulevard.

Pastos, wounded in the arm and back, and his wife, shot in both thighs, were taken to the Belmont hospital. Physicians pronounced the woman's case the more serious of the two, but said she would recover, barring infection.

Mrs. Pastos' son, 11 months old, was crying in his crib when the robbers entered. The mother's screams brought her husband from a store next door. Pasto grappled with one of the robbers, wrested away his pistol, and fired three shots, one of which, the police believe, took effect. A short time later a swarthy man about 25 years old entered the office of Dr. Herman M. Sondel, nearby, at 3401 Southport avenue, asking treatment of a wound in the body, but fled when the physician reached to telephone the police.

330 Pound Wife Divorces 110 Pound Mate as Cruel

Dora Goldberg, 1217 California avenue, yesterday won a divorce from Samuel Goldberg, proprietor of a newsstand at 75th street and Western avenue. Mrs. Goldberg, who weighs 330 pounds, charged her 110 pound husband with cruelty. She is a familiar figure in the county building, where for more than 20 years she has sold fruit and candy. The Goldbergs were married Dec. 14, 1927, and separated six months later.

THE STATE REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION.

The prohibition questions submitted under the public policy act are numbered 4, 5 and 6 on the proposition ballot and are stated as follows:

4. Shall the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, which, among other things, prohibits the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes within the United States, be repealed?

5. Shall the congress of the United States modify the national prohibition act to enforce the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States (commonly known as the Volstead act) so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale or transportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating, as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states?

6. Shall the Illinois prohibition act be repealed?

A ballot marked yes in each instance will indicate the decision of the voter against the amendment, against the Volstead act as it stands, and against the Illinois enforcement act.

These questions are to the front the country over in the election. Many states will determine their position with regard to the repeal of the amendment and the modification of the Volstead act. Both parties are committed to it in New York and New Jersey. Both candidates for the senate in Rhode Island have declared for the repeal, and the state will make its decision on the amendment. It is the issue in Massachusetts, and the state will decide upon the repeal of its prohibition law. Directly or indirectly, the continuance or rejection of national prohibition is to get a decision in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Montana, Colorado, and other states east and west of the Mississippi.

It is a return of the question to political action which has been foreshadowed in the public discussion of recent years and may be regarded as the definite beginning of a reconsideration of prohibition by the American people. The submission of the public policy questions in Illinois is a part of this general movement.

Here the Democratic party is declared against the amendment and the Volstead act and the state enforcement act. The Republican party has pledged itself and, so far as it can, its candidates to accept the decisions of the voters. Therefore this is the most consequential referendum on prohibition which has been had thus far in the state. It lacks a mandatory quality, but it is none the less important. It will declare the state and instruct the various representatives who may have to vote on repeal or modification. Many have pledged themselves to it.

In the next session of the legislature, when the repeal of the state prohibition law is proposed, the effect of the referendum on that act may be decisive. If the people vote to do away with the Illinois enforcement act the legislature may regard that as conclusive.

These are the most discussed questions in the state and they are before the voters for settlement so far as they can be determined at this time.

INCREASING THE COSTS OF BUILDING.

The Illinois Society of Architects continues to agitate against the enforced installation of drain pipes beneath mechanical refrigerators. There was a real need for such drains when refrigerators were iced. Now the drains are worse than useless. One architect, Mr. Robert Ostergren, informs the society that his plumbing specifications include the following clause:

"If the plumbing contractor is compelled to install drains, said drains must be capped, top and bottom, as said drains are entirely superfluous. Contractor shall also seal the sewer opening in the basement . . ."

Another architect, Mr. Henry K. Holsman, is authority for the statement that "either the journeymen plumbers or the plumbing contractors are forcing" these installations against the wishes of owners and architects. Messrs. Thielbar and Fugard give as their opinion "that any ruling by a labor organization establishing standards of materials or scope of work verges perilously on racketeering."

We can see no escape from this judgment, at least in its application to the matter under discussion. We do not know whether the responsibility rests upon the plumbing contractors or upon the plumbers themselves, but we should think the question would prove of interest to the grand jury investigating racketeering.

FRUSTRATION ON THE GREAT PLAINS.

The University of Kansas has been ostracized so far as athletics are concerned and is now occupying the seat on the mourners' bench still warm from Iowa's occupancy. It appears that young gentlemen of the football team were on somebody's pay roll in violation of rules and agreements. Indignation against Kansas and Kansans is running high on other campuses.

If there were more understanding there would be less indignation. Life in Kansas explains all. The natives are punished in summer by the tropical sun and in winter by the arctic blasts. Kansans strive mightily, but the dice are loaded and they do not succeed. Hence their grouch against the world, which alone can account for the kind of representatives they send to Washington. Hence, too, their fear of alcohol. Other men distrust drink, but Kansans fear it because it offers too much. It can, for a time, remove Kansas from the cosmos, and if it were not forbidden would be irresistible. Naturally, to Kansans there can be no thought of moderation and self-discipline in the matter of drink. Compulsion alone can preserve sobriety.

These unfortunate victims of geography and climate are yet human; they yearn for the happiness enjoyed by men more fortunately situated. They cannot achieve it of their own efforts, they well know, but they hope to gain it vicariously. They have deluded themselves with the belief that a successful football team will establish them as the equals of other men. Now even that hope has been taken from them. We dread to think what effect this frustration will have upon Kansans when next they step to the polls.

THE WORLD IN WASHINGTON AND ROME.

President Hoover in Washington Monday was distant from Premier Mussolini in Rome, but the miles in space were nothing as to the remoteness of the two heads of government from each other in thought, in expectations, and views of realities and prospects. Mr. Hoover's world was one with a lark and a blossoming thorn. Mussolini's was one of beautiful cannon singing to enchanted armies delighted by the song. Mr. Hoover said be good. Mussolini said be tough.

Mr. Hoover's is a world of grace, Mussolini's one of force. Mr. Hoover had the navy treaty for his text. Mussolini had a little book containing particulars, detail by detail, time and place, of the new chain of great fortifications which France is building on the Italian frontier. Mr. Hoover sees the nations in sweetness and light. Mussolini sees them in conspiracies and plots. Mr. Hoover plays the harp. Mussolini bangs the saber.

"Let this day fill us with thanks," says Mr. Hoover, "and inspire us to go forward with the courage of hope."

"I intend to tear the mask from the face of hypocritical Europe," says Mussolini, "which babbled about peace at Geneva, but prepared for war everywhere. For the present it is a state of 'moral war,' but prepares for a military war."

Apparently the two heads of government, although contemporaneously governing, are in different times, and, although concerned with the same general structure of civilization, are in different worlds. Mussolini's theories and realities may merge sooner than Mr. Hoover's and for Mr. Hoover's theories and realities it may be hoped that they will not be found too far apart.

AN AMERICAN TEXT IN AUSTRALIA.

An American history text used in Australian schools has put the minister of education in the state of Victoria in the heat of controversy with the Australian Natives' association. Objection points particularly to two statements—one: "The British collected a motley army, composed chiefly of colonial troops, and landed it on the tip of the Gallipoli peninsula, close to the Dardanelles"; the other: "The United States was the only great power that fought in the war without demanding or even desiring territorial gains for herself. She should be credited with a loftiness of purpose and unselfishness that could hardly be matched in all history."

"Motley" is not the word the Australians would apply to the men who died in the attacks in which they did not blunder, although the higher ups did, and whatever truth there may be in the second statement it is not one which the average citizen of another country would have taught his school children with the apparent sanction of his ministry of education.

A sensible American might join his protest against a general acceptance of this laudation as truly complimentary. The unselfishness which the Australian school children are asked to admire may be regarded as more admirable in the text than it was in reality without detracting from the virtues of nonaggressiveness and nonacquisitiveness. The United States without sacrifice of true altruism could have made some conditions of benefit to itself and of no injury to humanity. One would have relieved the American coast line and waters of alien possessions the military value of which is solely with relation to the United States.

If the Australian native sons object that it is an overstatement of American virtue and by inference derogatory to their own people, at least some American native sons may add that it wasn't a virtue but a sentimental mistake falsely conceived as virtue.

THE CAYUGA AWARD.

[Rochester Democrat Chronicle.]

More than a century after the misunderstanding which drenched the Niagara frontier in blood from 1812 to 1815 the members of the Cayuga nation who claim to be heirs of Chief Fish Carrier, a friend of the state of New York, have been awarded $100,000 in back payments on his annuity. The offer of payment may be significant as marking a new policy toward the members of the six nations, who never have ceased to regard western New York as their home, even though many of them dwell in Canada.

The early history of western New York and of the United States is liberally sprinkled with treaties and agreements made with the original owners of the soil. Sir William Johnson, British commissioner to the Indians of North America, in the period immediately preceding the revolution, devoted a large part of his active career to making and enforcing agreements between the white colonists and their Indian neighbors.

In the turbulent time that followed the revolutionary war many treaties, both general and local, were made with the Indians of New York, and it is on one of those that the heirs of the Cayuga chief base their claim. Although they reside on the famous Grand River reservation in Canada, their rights under the treaty evidently are considered not to have lapsed, even though payments had been discontinued with the outbreak of the war of 1812.

Members of the six nations occupy a unique position among the Indians of North America, having rights as residents on both sides of the border, with the privilege of crossing at will. Those who think the Iroquois do not realize the value of their privileges should read the story of their numerous contentions over jealously guarded rights in both New York state and Canada.

KEEPING ADULTS ALIVE.

"THE greatest problem of today in the field of public health is to keep down mortality in middle and later life." This is quoted from the bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and is based upon bookkeeping in the lives of many million people.

They pass over the diseases of babies, a subject which engages so much of our thought; over typhoid fever, to prevent which we spend millions on sewage and water; over consumption, for which we build enormous hospitals, and, of course, over smallpox, diphtheria and such trifles. We sorrow over the loss of babies and children, but let us not forget that middle aged people also want a run for their money.

The bulletin uses the above quotation as a part of an article on overweight and underweight. Overweight people supply the great bulk of the diabetics. The mortality from diabetes among the fat people was nearly three times the normal. Therefore, let every fat person beware of diabetes. It may be on him or just around the corner. Some of the other hazards of overweight approach diabetes. Bright's disease is in second place; arterial disease, including high blood pressure, was a close third; apoplexy was fourth; heart disease fifth, and cancer sixth. Since these are now the principal menaces to life it behooves the fat person to watch his step.

This study places pneumonia among the diseases which especially threaten the underweights. Dr. Muhlberg says that mortality from pneumonia was highest among those who were extremely underweight. He does not supply information as to the pneumonia death rate among the extreme overweights. There is an old and widely accepted opinion that fat people do not stand pneumonia well. That may be based on experience with the very fat. It is also generally accepted that fat people are poor surgical risks.

Part of the disease which accompanies overweight is due to the burden of work put on the heart, kidneys, and blood vessels by the extra body bulk. There are people who are obese because of diseased ductless glands. Many, if not most, of the overweights are so because they eat too much and do too little work or take insufficient exercise.

Many persons accept overweight as a part of life, thinking it natural to grow fat as years advance. This is not true. Any increase of weight after the age of thirty is the result of underexercise and overeating. The responsibility, therefore, for much of the fatal diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, Bright's disease, and apoplexy lies on those faulty habits which lead to obesity.

MAYBE HE'S OUT OF PRACTICE.

S. T. C. writes: Why is it that a healthy man of 40, who does not smoke, and who has never had a serious illness, and who is actively engaged in many forms of athletics, cannot handle three or four drinks of whisky without upsetting his stomach and generally knocking him out the next day? His friend, who is thin, sickly, and anemic, can go on one souse after another and show up for work the next morning none the worse for wear.

REPLY.

Don't know. Never tried either plan. Ask the United States commissioner.

SMOKING AND INFANTS.

T. D. G. writes: Some years ago the widow of Fouler, who lectured 'way back in 1873, was here on a lecturing tour. She was very much opposed to the use of tobacco and informed me that tobacco did more harm to the human voice than liquor. She hinted that the unborn child had the poison of tobacco in its organs. I wonder if this is true, whether it is the cause of so much infantile paralysis. Since women have taken up smoking cigarets I notice the cases have increased.

REPLY.

Tobacco has enough to answer for. It is not the cause of infantile paralysis nor is it a contributing cause. There was plenty of infantile paralysis before the present wave of women smoking. There will be infantile paralysis after women have learned better. The women smoked no more where infantile paralysis struck this summer than they do elsewhere. They will smoke just the same this winter though infantile paralysis be infrequent.

DELINQUENT TAXES.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am delinquent in paying special assessments due on a vacant lot for the years 1928 and 1929. The property is paid for, as well as the taxes for 1928. I can pay these off during the next year. 1. What measures can the county take against me to collect? 2. What is the law regarding the limit of time allowed for the payment of special assessments? G. P.

1. The property will be sold for taxes and a tax deed will issue if there is no redemption within two years from the sale.
2. See No. 1.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—[Friend of the People.]—I wish to report the very bad condition of pavement in the alley off Ingleside avenue between 63d and 64th streets. We pay our taxes and it seems that repairs should be made before the condition becomes too bad. M. F.

This matter has been referred to the vehicle tax division, and repairs will be made when our forces are working in that vicinity.

PROBATE OR NOT.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a party dies intestate and heirs be agreeable to peaceful settlement of estate among themselves is it necessary that Probate court action be taken? 2. If estate, consisting of unincumbered property, be placed in hands of a trust company must Probate court action, too, be taken? 3. If property is unincumbered does trust company require bond. A. W.

1. Not if all parties, including possible future purchasers of real estate, are content.
2. This has no bearing on the question.
3. We see no reason why the company receiving the property should ask you for a bond. It would be more reasonable for you to ask them for a bond.

MISTER CHAIRMAN, LADIES AND GENTELMUN—

Europe thinks Mussolini is trying to bring on another war and they haven't paid for the last one yet. Maybe Mussolini just wants to make a monkey out of the London disarmament treaty and Mr. Kellogg's peace pact. Anyhow, people are beginning to think there ought to be another war; they're getting tired of reading about the last one and they want some new stuff. We're with the Sunshine boys, but we plowed all through the afternoon papers and the best we got out of 'em was "Steady to strong prices for light yearling steers and heifers." But just our luck; we don't own a single yearling steer or a heifer. They're darned hard to keep in a city flat. Parliament opened yesterday and the king and queen attended in the old state coach drawn by horses. Henry Ford ought to present the king with a bright, new flivver. Wait, we're sorry, don't tell Henry this, he'll do it. "Rivers of Ermine Flowing to Opera," gasps an enraptured society reporter over the story of the opening of the Chicivop. "Rivers of Ermine!" You just can't beat those society reporters. There weren't so many jewels of the mine in the w. k. "Diamond Horseshow" this year, but did that break the backs of the society reporters? Boy, you don't know 'em! Not so many bushels of rubies, pearls, emeralds, diamonds, and sapphires—oh, very well—"Rivers of Ermine." Hooray, settemup in the other alley! Roorbacks are flying thick and fast in these closing days of the campaign. All the papers yesterday said that if the Democrats won they'd make John N. Garner of Texas speaker of the house and that Mrs. Garner would insist on social Washington serving frijoles at state banquets. Mexican frijoles to take the place of roast beef on the American table! A direct blow at one of our basic industries. Help! to arms, freedmen awake! But wait! The Republicans pulled that frijole thing yesterday. Now watch for the Democrats to spring something today.

Would you ever want her
Carefree step retarded?

Would you have her lose that Light spasmodic laughter
That intrigues you now and Always will hereafter?

You who try to cage her
With the undefiant—
Would you really have her
Too secure, reliant?

Keep your arms behind you,
Keep them there and hide them—
Some day she'll be wanting
To be held inside them.

And now it appears that the Harvard scrubwomen, who seemed to have put up a good argument that they were gypped out of 2 cents an hour for their services for nine years, are still unpaid. The Harvard authorities said when the question was raised that—hem, haw, hem—they would appoint a commission to investigate all salaries. The scrubwomen are still shy on their back pay and the commission has apparently sailed to the North Pole and cannot be communicated with. Whereupon we rise politely to ask, "Why is a commission?" And what earthly good are the darn things anyhow?

Then, there being no tires, the dry sleuths couldn't shoot at 'em and the number of casualties would fall right away. Write to your congressman today.

But can an electrical refrigahratah go out and procuah that substance foh a thirsty guest without which a piece of ice is but a cruel, hollow mockery, sah? Does an electrical refrigahratah have a neat little bundle of mint in its pocket and know just how to put the mint and the ice and a loaf of sugar in the glass and then mix them lovingly and cunningly with a small quantity of watah so as to produce nectah such as the gods have nevah quaffed? No, sah, no! Only a Jim Brown kain do that. A mechanical robot may do his work, sah, but it kain nevah supply his place.

THE YODELER AND THE GRUMBLING BASSO

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 29, 1914.

LONDON.—The battle in West Flanders has come to a halt. There has been no formal truce, but the giant armies along the Yser, tired to the limit of human endurance, after ten days of continuous fighting which is described as a massacre, late today ceased all but the outpost skirmishes. A Paris statement said that the situation of the allies along the river had improved, and that they had advanced in the north and east of Ypres. British troops are reported to have reached Passchendaele. French troops also are reported to have gained ground between Lens and Arras.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia.—Judgment was passed on the assassins of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenburg. Gravio Prinzip, the actual assassin, escaped with a sentence of imprisonment for 20 years. Four of his aids were sentenced to death by hanging. The others drew prison terms. The crime for which Prinzip and his companions were sentenced was committed at Sarajevo on June 28 and brought on the present war.

LONDON.—Paris messages quote military authorities as saying that the German attacks on the Fortress of Verdun have failed and that attempts to take that stronghold possibly will be abandoned. It became known tonight that sixteen British warships took part yesterday in the bombardment of the German land forces near Nieuport, which forced them farther inland.

OCTOBER 29, 1900.

CHICAGO.—The interior of the First Presbyterian church in Austin was wrecked and George W. Leitch, a missionary lecturer from Ceylon, was perhaps fatally injured by an explosion of acetylene stereopticon gas tanks. Three other persons were burned and bruised. The accident occurred an hour before the audience was due.

CHICAGO. — Highwaymen ignored the "shoot to kill" order of Mayor Bates of Evanston and held up two women. Pastors of churches discussed the mayor's order to kill burglars and highwaymen, but offered little criticism of it.

CHICAGO.—The work of laying the granite blocks which are to constitute the exterior walls of the new postoffice building will probably begin today, certainly within a day or two. The labor troubles have been practically all ironed out.

NEW YORK.—Dr. Robert S. McArthur, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, denounced William J. Bryan as worthy only of contempt, a dangerous man, a teacher of anarchy, an advocate of the gospel of hate and a foe of law and order. The pastor scored the Democratic nominee for attacking wealth and at the same time wallowing in the mire at the feet of Richard Croker, the Tammany king, head of a political organization grown corpulent by robbing rich and poor.

OCTOBER 29, 1880.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The war department is somewhat embarrassed by the application of Sitting Bull to surrender, of which there is no doubt. It is probable that Gen. Terry will be given discretion to arrange terms.

NEW YORK.—A political demonstration was made on Wall street in behalf of Garfield and Arthur that stands without a rival among many outdoor meetings in that place. Bankers and brokers and merchants marched in imposing procession to the open space in front of the subtreasury building, where Col. Robert G. Ingersoll delivered an address. The procession was headed by 500 members of the Produce exchange, followed by a thousand men from the dry goods trade.

NEW YORK.—Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts, a stanch supporter of Mr. Tilden in the last presidential campaign, spoke at Cooper Institute for Gen. Garfield.

SHANGHAI.—Reports from Tientsin are that preparations for war with Russia are active, many of the Chinese leaders arguing that it is better to take the chances of war than to submit to the terms Russia seeks to impose.

AN EYESORE ON THE LAKE FRONT.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Following the editorial in this morning's issue of THE TRIBUNE covering "Chicago's Greatest Eyesore," we wish to call attention to another situation that, unless improved, will not be in keeping with lake front conditions in 1933. We have reference to the old Illinois Central terminal at Roosevelt road.

In 1933 Chicago will hold its World's Fair. Work is already under way on three structures forming a part of this exhibition and contracts for additional buildings will be awarded from time to time.

On March 9 of this year Mr. F. L. Thompson, vice president of the Illinois Central Railroad company, appeared before the railway terminal committee and requested relief from the obligations imposed upon that company in the 1919 lake front ordinance compelling them at any future time to house one or all of the fourteen railroads using the three terminals west of State street and south of Van Buren street. No action has been taken by the railway terminal committee on this request, and until they do act on the matter no definite plans can be made by the Illinois Central for a new depot.

Today the city is faced with a serious problem—the support of destitute families due to the unemployment situation, and also an effort to create jobs for thousands upon thousands of men who through no fault of theirs are unable to secure employment. Why don't the members of the railway terminal committee comply with the wishes of the Illinois Central Railroad company as expressed by Mr. Thompson on March 9 and relieve them of the obligations imposed upon them in the 1919 lake front ordinance, as set forth above? This would enable the Illinois Central Railroad company to immediately proceed with plans for the erection of their big new terminal and in the near future provide employment for a great number of men. The members of the railway terminal committee have it in their power to settle the terminal question now and at the same time help relieve Chicago's unemployment problem.

Chicago should have a new depot on the lake front for the fair. Prompt action now will relieve the city of what otherwise will be the greatest eyesore in 1933.

AN INTERRUPTED SPEECH.

Galva, Ill., Oct. 22.—You would confer a great favor on the masses of your readers if you would publish the speech of Dr. Glenn Frank before the meat packers and allied industrial leaders at the Palmer house on the evening of Oct. 22. This brilliant educational leader had just barely launched into what was without doubt the most intelligent and clear cut analysis of our industrial and social troubles when his speech was cut out.

He talked the same language that the masses are talking today and some of these gods of industry must have shied over to the edge of their seats from the rapier thrusts of this modern prophet who views events from the front seat of a great university.

However, the public was doomed not to hear this. The radio hookup that was broadcasting this wonderful talk was suddenly switched, with the explanation that the station could not let the good people hear all of this speech for they had two clowns and a jazz band that must go on the air immediately.

Every concern should investigate them and oust married women immediately.

King Opens Parliament; Reads Labor Speech.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—King George opened the seventh parliament of his reign today amid great pageantry. The king and queen's ride through London streets in the royal coach, the peers in their ermine and scarlet robes and the bejeweled peeresses contrasted sharply to the real business of the day.

Three events stood out in the day's program. First of all was the king's speech, the words of which were put in his mouth by the Labor government's prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald. A few minutes later Mr. MacDonald made it clear that his government would not stand for a tax on food. During the imperial conference, the dominion premiers have been urging Britain to put a tarriff on food in order to give them trade preferences.

And tonight, 44 Conservative members of parliament out of a total of 260 demanded the resignation of former Premier Stanley Baldwin, their leader. They want him to yield to a more active head. Mr. Baldwin, it was stated, will lay the demand before the entire party with the announcement that he will quit if the members show by a vote that they are against him.

No Surprises in Speech.

The king opened parliament with Queen Mary at his side. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes of the United States was there in formal evening dress. The soviet ambassador was similarly clad. The ceremony in the house of lords lasted only twenty minutes.

There were no surprises in King George's speech. After perfunctory references to the imperial and Indian conferences and an expression of concern over growing unemployment, he proceeded to announce the list of bills to be introduced, the most interesting of which is one for electoral reform.

Just what kind of reform it will be was not specified, but this legislation is relied on to keep the Labor party in power for two or three years longer with the help of the Liberals, as it is expected it will have to be passed in the house of commons three times over the veto of the house of lords.

Other important items on the program are the promotion of an increased settlement and employment on land; encouragement of large scale farming; establishment of a royal commission to inquire into unemployment insurance and allegations of abuse; increase in age of compulsory school attendance; amendment of trade disputes acts; establishment of a consumers' council; ratification of Washington hours convention and international convention for safety of life at sea.

Buries Free Trade Plan.

Meanwhile, in the house of commons, Prime Minister MacDonald was giving a first class public funeral to the proposal that Great Britain change its fiscal system and adopt a protective tariff in order to give the dominions a preferential market.

In a statement he trounced Stanley Baldwin, Conservative chief, who had tried to make capital over the imperial conference's secrecy. Mr. MacDonald said he was amazed that Mr. Baldwin should want to know what was going on there, when he was able to tell what proposals were made by some delegations before the conference itself knew, and even announced his agreement with them in advance.

"Let me make it perfectly clear where we stand," the prime minister said. "Each of the dominions has made perfectly clear that its claims must be for its own needs first. May I claim that this country enjoys the status of a dominion. Two things have emerged from this conference. First, that empire frees trade is an absolute fraud. Second, that if it is to be a question of exchanging tariffs in order to give each other preference, the only good tariff we can impose for the dominions is a tariff on food. We cannot do that."

There was the usual comic struggle for the best seats in the house of lords, which seats only 300 of the 600 members. Two members of parliament arrived at 11:30 o'clock last night and spent the night in the library in order to be the first there, but when Lady Astor turned up at 7 o'clock this morning they gallantly allowed her to annex her usual seat.

For the first time since his illness King George opened parliament in person with the usual gorgeous historic ceremony. He drove from Buckingham palace in a gilded coach through crowds of cheering subjects. Thousands jammed the Mall and St. James's park to see the pageant of pomp, a dressed up, glittering medley of medieval parades.

A GILDED SCENE

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The opening of parliament today by King George V. was an unusually magnificent affair. At the entrance of the house of lords the royal couple were met by four pursuivants, Rouge Dragon, Portcullis and Blue Mantle pursuivant as well as heralds, gentlemen ushers, and equerries in waiting.

Awaiting the king and queen in a small dark paneled chamber of the house of lords were the peers in their robes, law lords and church dignitaries, as well as a host of peeresses in evening gowns and scintillating tiaras. It was high noon but in the austere hall the artificial light made the scene look like evening in the palace court.

Both Wear Crowns.

In the far end of the chamber beneath a gilded canopy were the thrones of the king and queen, the latter being one inch lower. At the right of the king outside of the canopy was the state chair of the prince of Wales. He wore the scarlet robes of a royal peer. The king wore a crown and a long velvet train bordered with ermine and sparkling insignia on his breast.

The queen wore a gold net embroidered gown, a crown of diamonds nestled on her snow white hair; rows and rows of diamonds were in her necklace and her butterfly stomacher of diamonds hung over the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter. As the king and queen were seated, their trains were laid out on the steps of the throne and those in attendance took a stand on either side. To the right of the king stood the lord chancellor, the lord president of the council, lord privy seal, and the young duke of Norfolk, who as earl hereditary marshal of England assumed his duties for the first time since he reached his majority.

Black and Gold Robes.

Facing the throne was the wool sack red covered ottoman upon which sat the law lords in black and gold robes with gray square cut wigs hanging like short capes around their shoulders.

To one side in an enclosed box blazoned forth red stripes and decorations of foreign diplomats and in their midst the black burnous of the representative of Iraq with his white sash falling about his shoulders.

The evening dress of the peeresses was de rigeur and their was hardly a lady who was not wearing some sort of jeweled tiara. Mrs. Dawes was an exception, but she has made it a rule never to wear jewels.

WHEN LOVE COMES TO AN EFFICIENCY EXPERT IT MAKES HIM WILD

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A courtship which began on the campus of the University of Berlin became so boisterous when transplanted to America that the suitor was held by police today.

Leo Blocher of Buffalo, an efficiency expert, fell in love with Augusta Theune while attending the German university. Later he went to Buffalo and she to live with her brother in Brooklyn. Last night he visited her and proposed. The brother replied that the man who married his sister must have at least $50,000.

A quarrel followed and Blocher ran out of the house. Carl Theune, the girl's brother, informed police that Blocher had threatened to "end the whole family," and in the suitor's hotel room they found a mail order pistol and a box of cartridges.

PRINCES OF INDIA MAY SURRENDER ROYAL PRIVILEGE

Told They Must Follow March of Democracy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Indian princes are losing no time in framing proposals for the round table conference, which begins Nov. 12, and as a result of a series of meetings they have outlined a scheme which will be worked out in greater detail before the conference meets. The proposals will also be discussed with representatives of British India. At a meeting today at which all the Dewans, or prime ministers, and Indian princes were present, the following tentative proposals were worked out:

1. Full provincial autonomy.
2. Responsible central government.
3. A central federal council including representatives of the princes and British India.

Council to Settle Disputes.

4. Allocation by statute of control of all India and provincial matters.
5. A federal council empowered to deal with all disputes between states and British India.
6. A supreme court, which would be the final authority for the interpretation of treaties.
7. An all-Indian cabinet, with Indian ministers holding all portfolios, but during the transitional period the viceroy to retain veto power.

This is a compromise on the part of the princes between their desire to preserve their independence and the desire of the British Indians for a supreme central government. This compromise is said to be due to the efforts of the Gaekwar of Baroda, who told the princes plainly that they have got to march with time and recognize the growth of democracy or lose their jobs. He is said to be willing to give up royal privileges, if that is necessary, to secure a united India.

May Adjourn Until Spring.

It was reported today among the Indian delegates that it is likely, after finishing its preliminary work, that the conference may adjourn until next May or June. This course of events is foreseen in the appointment of a committee to settle the problem of a federal constitution, and three subcommittees to deal with the relations of the princes, the Hindu-Moslem troubles, and the future control of finance.

When these committees have reported, an effort will be made to draft a constitution in outline, and then adjourn until early summer, when the climate in England is more suitable for Indians. This is the formal reason, but the real reason is that the all-India congress is due to meet in May, and if it is satisfied with the British offer it may decide to attend the adjourned meeting of the conference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Rev. Ernest Harold Pearce, bishop of Worcester, collapsed and died of heart failure in Parliament square this morning while walking to take a spectator's seat in the house of lords at the opening of parliament. The bishop was 65 years old. He was widely known as a scholar and preacher. He was chaplain to the king in 1918 and 1919. He was appointed bishop of Worcester in 1919, serving previously for some years as treasurer of Westminster abbey.

BRITISH INQUIRY REVEALS BROKEN CABLE IN R-101

Uncertain if Crash Was Caused by It.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Causes of the disaster which overtook the British dirigible R-101, resulting in the loss of 48 lives, were discussed today at the opening of Great Britain's formal inquiry into the catastrophe.

The first session of the court of inquiry furnished several surprises. One of these came when Sir William Allen Jowitt, attorney general, revealed that a cable controlling an elevator in the airship had been found broken in the wreckage.

Another was his disclosure that experimental oil engines in the ship weighed eight tons more than originally planned—seventeen tons as against nine.

Sir William also said a possible cause of the tragic end of the world's largest flying craft might have been some error in the working of its altimeter.

Sir John Simon, presiding at the inquiry, added to Sir William's conjectures the statement that "Some failure from the ground to send information" might have influenced the fate of the R-101, which exploded and burned at Beauvais, France, on Oct. 5.

The government investigator said it was impossible to determine at present whether the elevator cable he referred to had broken before or after the crash. He explained that while the engines of the Graf Zeppelin weighed seven tons, those of the R-101 weighed nine, as originally planned.

A discussion of why the flight to India was attempted three weeks ago followed. Sir William said, "There probably is no doubt that Lord Thomson [air minister killed in the disaster] thought it would be a striking, dramatic feat to accomplish a flight to India and come home in safety while the imperial conference was sitting."

The taking of testimony and examining of technical data was expected to get under way tomorrow.

MRS. McKEE, ONCE A WHITE HOUSE DWELLER, DIES

Was Daughter of President Benjamin Harrison.

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. James Robert McKee, daughter of former President Benjamin Harrison and for many years prominent in club and charity circles in New York and Indianapolis, died early today in her home here. She was 69 years old.

She had lived here for the last seven years. In February she underwent an operation in New York and had been in poor health since. Funeral services will be held at the home Thursday, with burial in Indianapolis.

A Washington Belle.

Mrs. McKee was, before her marriage, Miss Mary Scott Harrison, only daughter of the former President and his first wife. For many years she was known as one of the belles of Washington society, and during the greater portion of her father's administration lived at the White House. During her mother's illness and after her death she was recognized as mistress of the executive mansion.

It was she who received severe criticism before her mother's illness by violating the traditional dignity of the White House in inspiring the first dance to be held within its walls. The affair brought wide condemnation from those conservatives who deplored such frivolity in the presidential home.

Active in D. A. R.

Her mother was first president-general of the D. A. R., and for many years Mrs. McKee was one of the leaders of that organization. During the war she added to her fame in club and charity work through her activity as treasurer of the "Military of Mercy."

She is survived by her husband; a brother, Maj. Russell B. Harrison of Indianapolis; a daughter, Mrs. Mary McKee Reisinger of Greenwich, and a son, Benjamin Harrison McKee of Paris. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Russell B. Harrison, lives in Washington.

U. S. DROPS FRAUD CHARGES AGAINST BANKER HUSTON

Calls Off Prosecutions in Land Stock Cases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Prosecution of a group of central states bankers, among them Guy Huston of Chicago, on charges of fraudulent handling of joint stock land bank securities has been definitely abandoned, department of justice officials said today.

Word that the government has concluded its action against Huston and his associates was forthcoming after United States Attorney Frederick H. Tarr in Boston ordered indictments against them nolle prossed on instruction from the attorney general.

Charged with Misuse of Mails.

The defendants were Guy Huston, Oran F. Shee, John E. Huston, Harold A. Smith, Walter Cravens, John L. Boyles, and Vernon N. Sigler. They were charged with use of the mails to defaud and conspiracy in connection with the sale of stock in the Farms Company of Massachusetts, the Missouri-Kansas Farms company, and the Farmers' Fund of Illinois. They were alleged to have sold New England investors more than $1,000,000 worth of securities.

The decision of the government to drop the indictments was the result of its defeat in an action arising from the sale of stock of the southern Minnesota joint stock land bank. A stinging rebuff was administered by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis in reversing convictions of officials of the Minnesota bank by the lower court.

Huston Is Vindicated.

The Minnesota case was one of several based on charges by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that former members of the farm board had allowed irregularities to develop in the management of the joint stock land banks.

Huston, an official of the Minnesota bank and also former president of a joint stock land bank in Chicago, and William H. Gold were convicted in 1927 at Mankato, Minn., one being given a penitentiary sentence of nine years and fined $11,000, while the other was fined $1,000. The Court of Appeals completely vindicted Huston and Gold, holding that reverses to the banks were due to the farm depression and other factors for which they were not to blame.

GIRL COLLAPSES ON SIDEWALK; AMNESIA VICTIM

A young woman, about 24 years old, expensively dressed, is in the county hospital unable to remember her name or where she lives. She was found shortly after midnight yesterday morning by Miss Dorothy Jarman, 110 West Schiller street, who picked her up when she saw her fall to the sidewalk a few feet ahead of her on North Clark street, near Elm street.

Miss Jarman took her to a restaurant, where they drank coffee; then took her to her home for the night. When the young woman remained in a daze yesterday, Miss Jarman summoned Hudson avenue police, who took her to the county hospital. At the hospital the girl told doctors that the names Rogers avenue and Morse avenue in Rogers Park seemed familiar to her.

FIGHT DESPITE WANING HOPE TO SAVE 29 MINERS

Trapped by Oklahoma Blast.

McAlester, Okla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fighting deadly after-damp and handicapped by debris, rescue crews continued efforts tonight to reach lower levels of the Wheatley No. 4 mine, where a blast last night entombed twenty-nine men and killed William Donley, working at the mine mouth.

Lessie Rosso, working with Donley, was injured when he was hurled against the tipple. John Moore, a gassed rescue worker, was taken to a McAlester hospital unconscious.

Sixty-one men, most of them from neighboring mines, formed the rescue party. Several were overcome by the gas.

Rescue Report Disbelieved.

A report that reached the engine house late today, that bodies of four men had been sighted on the sixteenth level, was discounted tonight.

A chance that some may have escaped the terrific blast and the coal damp that followed led workers to redouble their efforts to break through fallen rocks, restore ventilation and reach the levels where the men were trapped. Seven men who went into the shaft this afternoon returned to the surface after three hours' work and reported they believed they had been within 400 feet of the victims. One of the rescuers said the gas was too dense to permit him to go farther.

Prepare Rescue Plans.

Three falls of debris had been bridged this afternoon to permit rapid removal of any men found alive and a half doze ambulances waited near the mine mouth. Ventilating fans were kept in operation.

Some of the more optimistic said there was some hope for the men if they had closed the ledge doors. The force of the blast appeared to have occurred higher in the mine than where the men were at work. Miller D. Hay, chief mine inspector, however, said he believed all had perished.

SUCCUMBS TO HEART DISEASE.

John Rickes, 75 years old, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday in his rooms, 3 East 112th place. Relatives in Indianapolis requested that the body be sent there for burial.

THOMAS A. SMYTH, CHICAGO PIONEER, DIES AT AGE OF 82

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Thomas Alexander Smyth, pioneer Chicagoan and vice president of the John M. Smyth Furniture company, who died yesterday at his home at 621 Buckingham place. He was 82 years old and death came while he slept.

Mr. Smyth was born Sept. 27, 1848, on a boat in the mouth of the Chicago river. His parents were bound for Milwaukee when a violent storm forced the boat to put in.

In 1867 he joined with his brother in the furniture business and remained in it until 1888 when he left to enter the real estate and insurance field. He returned to the furniture business in 1917. Mr. Smyth was active in political and civic affairs of the city and for years was a member of the sanitary district board, serving as president in 1903 and 1904 and again in 1910 and 1911.

He is survived by two sons and two daughters: Agnes A., Angela, John Usher, and Joseph E. Smyth. Services from the home tomorrow will be followed by mass in Our Lady of Mount Carmel church. Burial will be in the Calvary cemetery.

Driver Is Held After Motor Truck Kills Man

Thomas Kotlarz, 57 years old, 2055 North Leavitt street, was fatally injured yesterday when he was knocked down by a truck in front of 2112 North Maplewood avenue. George Nehlson, the driver, was held after taking Kotlarz to the St. Mary's hospital, where he died an hour later.

TWIRLS THUMBS TO PROVE HE IS LONG LOST HEIR

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—After a world-wide search of more than three years for the missing grandchild of the late William E. Emery of Flemington, N. J., eleven claimants have turned up, and medical science has been called into chancery court at Newark to determine the true heir to a $350,000 trust fund.

Three times today in the courtroom James E. Nicholson of Baltimore stood with arms extended and wiggled his thumbs until they were at right angles to his hands and apparently dislocated at the joint. Two medical experts testified before Vice Chancellor Charles E. Backes that Mr. Nicholson had a congenital dislocation of the thumbs, an extremely rare condition, and that the same physical defect was suffered by the late Lawrence E. Georger, husband of Mr. Emery's daughter.

His Ears Are Evidence, Too.

The experts also testified that the lobes of Nicholson's ears, his teeth, mouth and nose were similar to those of Mrs. Francis V. Georger, the daughter of the man who died and left an estate of $3,000,000 to be divided among relatives.

Mr. Emery's daughter, Frances, was married to Mr. Georger thirty-five years ago in New York and testimony revealed a child was born to the couple in Washington. The marriage has been secret and when the child came, witnesses said, Mrs. Georger told them her husband placed the child in the hands of friends to find a home for him because he feared Mr. Emery would disinherit them.

George H. Brooks, another witness, testified Georger had told him an accident to Mrs. Georger had made it impossible for her to give birth to a child.

Mr. Nicholson testified that in 1916 he learned the Nicholsons were not his parents and that an aunt had told him "your mother is a very rich woman."

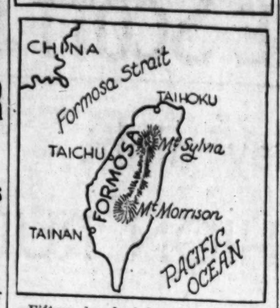
A Complicated Case.

The settlement of the Emery estate has been one of the most complicated cases in chancery court. Mr. Emery died in 1912. The present proceedings were brought by the Bankers Trust company of New York, substituted trustee under Mr. Emery's will. Mrs. Georger had married Georger under the name of Gray, divorced him in 1910 and married Henry E. Billings. She died two years ago and on her deathbed is said to have told friends of a son having been born to her and Georger.

The trustees advertised for the missing heir and received more than 100 replies. This number was sifted down to eleven claimants to the $350,000 trust fund. Those who have so far appeared are Nicholson, Leo Sova of Milwaukee, and Albert Childress of Los Angeles. One of the claimants is a girl, although everyone contends the missing child is a boy. The girl is Evelyn Baker Muncie.

Should the court find that none of the claims is valid the trust fund would go to Vivian E. Cornelius of Surry, England, another grandson and the husband of Jessica Brown, former Dallas girl. Cornelius already has inherited $300,000.

Savages on Warpath



Fifteen hundred head hunting savages in central Formosa have gone on the warpath. They attacked a village, killing 190 Japanese and 70 peaceful Formosans, and are now advancing on other villages. Six hundred Japanese troops yesterday attacked the aboriginе mountain fastnesses.

RESUME HEARING ON PETITION TO VOID 'L' LEASES

Attorneys for the city yesterday entered an appearance before the Illinois commerce commission in behalf of Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d], who has filed a petition requesting the cancelation of leases under which the elevated lines operate trains to Niles Center over the tracks of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad and to Westchester over the tracks of the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin.

"The city is in full accord with all the issues raised by Ald. Albert in this case," said Warner Wall, assistant corporation counsel, in filing his appearance as the hearing on the petition was resumed yesterday.

The hearing continued with the submission by Ald. Albert of evidence of the financial relations of the Chicago Rapid Transit company with the two railroads from which it leases the tracks. He charged that the elevated lines suffer severe losses on account of the rental contracts.

Airplane Catapult Mishap Fatal to U. S. Navy Flyer

San Pedro, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Lieut. O. W. Anderson, U. S. N., died today from injuries suffered yesterday when a plane in which he and Ensign Glenn Lee Desch, naval reservist, were being catapulted from the deck of the U. S. S. Idaho plunged into the ocean. Desch was killed.

1,500 SAVAGES GO ON WARPATH; KILL 260 IN FORMOSA

20 Schoolgirls Reported Massacred.

TOKIO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fifteen hundred or more head hunting savages were on the warpath tonight in central Formosa, barely a fortnight after announcement from Formosa of the successful completion of Japan's 25 year campaign to subdue the aborigines.

The savages attacked Musha village and unconfirmed reports said they killed 190 Japanese and seventy peaceable Formosans.

20 Girls Reported Slain.

A Japanese punitive expedition of 600 soldiers and policemen attacked the aborigine mountain fastnesses today. Reinforced by artillery, the Japanese were expected to force their way into Musha tomorrow.

It is feared many Japanese settlers in the Musha district perished. War office dispatches said the Taiyal tribesmen destroyed police stations before dawn.

Next they charged the village of Musha, attacking a school where a sports meet was taking place. Twenty school girls were reported killed.

Advance on Other Villages.

Having seized 100 rifles, the savages were said to be advancing upon other villages.

For twenty-five years fierce Taiyals of mountainous interior Formosa have fought Japanese authority, killing more than 7,000 persons. While other aborigines submitted easily, the head hunters continued fierce warfare against both Japanese soldiers and civilians.

Japanese troops numbering 10,000, employing bombing airplanes, have failed to conquer these savages occupying the little explored region of forests between Mount Morrison and Mount Syivia in a campaign costing scores of millions of yen.

Since about 1910 the principal Japanese weapon has been a gradually contracting barbed wire fence inclosing the savage area. This fence recently was 360 miles long, of which the greater extent was electrified. How the tribesmen passed this barrier was not explained.

Missionaries in China Ignore U. S. Warnings; Reds Hold 21

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Frank P. Lockhart, American consul general at Hankow, reported to the state department today that Chinese brigands in Honan province are demanding $27,000 for the release of two of three missionaries captured this month.

One, Miss Bergilo T. Evenson of the Lutheran United Mission at Sinyang, Honan province, has been released on payment of $3,000 silver. According to the American consul general, the bandits are now asking the balance to insure the release of the Rev. Kristofer N. Tvedt and Bert N. Nelson, an American missionary.

The bandits have requested Mr. Lockhart to point out to the Chinese central government at Nanking that as protector of foreigners, it should send the sum to the bandits at once. Mr. Lockhart reports that 21 foreigners in all are being held by bandits in central China.

Repeated Warnings Ignored.

In making Lockhart's dispatch public, the state department said its records disclosed that he has in recent months "repeatedly issued warnings to American citizens residing in central China," urging upon them the extreme danger of remaining at exposed points and the necessity of withdrawing to places where they could be adequately protected by American forces. The department added that Mr. Nelson was among those warned.

Officials have been annoyed recently by the failure of a number of American missionaries to heed warnings, thus causing concern by the department and their friends. Since the recent bandit activity began protests from missionary groups against the maintenance by the United States of fleets in Chinese waters have ceased. Formerly missionary groups criticized the American gunboat policy and urged withdrawal of these vessels. In one instance, a missionary declined to board a gunboat which had been dispatched to rescue him.

More Missionaries in Peril.

HONGKONG, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Failure of communication by wireless with Kanchow, a city of 250,000 population in Kiangsi province, caused fear here today that it had fallen to communists.

At Kanchow there are thirteen foreign missionaries. Six are American Catholics, five British and two German Protestants. The Americans are all priests of the Vincentian order. Bishop O'Shea of Deep River, Conn., heads the Catholic group.

Kanchow is in southern Kiangsi, four days' march from Kian, a large city that has been in the hands of the Reds since Oct. 5. The former city has a garrison of only 1,000 troops. At Kian, recently, Red leaders intimated to Bishop Magnani and Father De Jenlis, Catholic missionaries, that they planned to invade southern Kiangsi. The missionaries, captives of the Reds, later were released to obtain ransom for fourteen other missionaries, held as hostages. The released missionaries, arriving at Kiukiang, told of the communist plans.

A report from Shiuchow today said the American priests, John McLaughlin of Brooklyn and Edward Young of Jamestown, N. Y., who had been stationed at Nananfu, Kiangsi, left there Oct. 9, en route to Canton.

Proceed Against Bandits.

PEIPING, China, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Two government divisions have been dispatched to Kianfu, in central Kiangsi, in an effort to round up Reds who are holding ten foreign and five Chinese Catholic missionairies for ransom aggregating $10,000,000 Mexican or about $5,000,000 American.

University laboratory tests disclose amazing facts about 10 American dentifrices

HERE is important information about care of the teeth — never before published. We are glad to pass on these results of tests conducted by the laboratory of a great University:

SEVEN DO NOT CLEAN—and of these seven two injure enamel!

TWO DENTIFRICES CLEAN BUT BOTH INJURE ENAMEL

ONLY ONE DENTIFRICE—DR. WEST'S —CLEANS TEETH WITHOUT INJURY TO ENAMEL

Normal teeth were photographed, before and after brushing. To show both the visible and invisible dirt, a stain was used which discolors only the dirt, not the enamel or gums. The first photograph showed what dirt was present to be cleaned away.

Finally each dentifrice was tested by continuous brushing equivalent to 10 years of twice-a-day brushing at home. After this a microphotograph and delicate instruments measured any injury to enamel.

SAME NORMAL TEETH STAINED AGAIN AFTER BRUSHING—with DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste. But all dirt has been cleansed away, so none remains for stain to show.

Gentle double polishing does it

This delightful modern tooth paste owes its safe cleaning and brightening effect to a combination of cleansing with gentle, double polishing. It can't scratch or scour, but does polish away the natural stains and discolorations.

Try it. Millions have switched to DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste—making it the most sensational success in dentifrice history. It is delightfully refreshing, and gives every other good result any dentifrice can safely provide. You are sure to like it.

FREED BY COURT OF LIQUOR PLOT, SHOT IN NECK

Solly Weissman, Chicago, Mum About Shooting.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Solly Weissman, reputed gambler, was freed by the government today, but five hours later a bullet put him back into the hands of authorities and sent him to a hospital with a wound in his neck.

Released with five others in federal court when the government was unable to prove a liquor conspiracy charge against him, Weissman, who, police said, recently had operated in Chicago, made ready to leave for New York by plane. A pistol, fired by an unidentified hand in the vicinity of a downtown turf followers' rendezvous, cut short his plans.

"Do you know who shot you?" Weissman was asked.

"I have not a word to say," he replied.

Weissman smiled today as courtroom visitors shook his hand after the government reported it was unable to produce its chief witness in the liquor conspiracy case.

Kills Labor Man and Self.

Alton, Ill., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Jealously is believed by authorities here to have inspired the killing of Lester McCormick, business agent of the building trades council of Alton, and his former intimate friend, Frank Jefferson, last night. The bodies of McCormick and Jefferson were found in McCormick's motor car in front of his neighbor's home this morning.

The position of the car and other circumstances indicated Jefferson had shot McCormick and then turned the weapon on himself. His divorced wife, Mrs. Edith Jefferson, said Jefferson accused McCormick of paying her attention, and Mrs. Ralph Nimerick, a neighbor of Mrs. Jefferson, told police she heard Jefferson say he would kill McCormick.

Talks Too Much, Slain.

Millburn, N. J., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Joe Hamley who, police said, "talked too much" about the shooting of Jack [Legs] Diamond in New York three weeks ago, was found in a ditch in South Orange avenue today with a bullet in his head.

Police brought in Anna Allen of Newark, who was with Hamley last night, and learned from her that the man had told her he was afraid his associates were going to kill him. He had been talking freely also, detectives said, about the killing of Abe Figura, notorious beer runner, whose murder preceded the Diamond shooting by a week or so.

ONLY A MIRACLE CAN SAVE BISHOP, PHYSICIAN SAYS

The condition of Bishop Sheldon Munson Griswold of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago was so critical last night that his physician, Dr. Dwight F. Clark, said: "Only a miracle can save him." The bishop, who is 69 years old, has been in the Evanston hospital since Oct. 10, with a recurrence of heart and kidney ailments. He was stricken last February, but recovered during the summer, and suffered a relapse this fall.

PRINCETON PRESIDENT AIDS TIGERS DRILL

COACH ZUPPKE PHILOSOPHICAL OVER TROUBLES

Spirit Only Factor He Can Count On.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 28.—These are strange days at Illinois. The Fighting Illini, twice champions and once runner up in the last three western conference football campaigns, have lost two games this season. Saturday promises no relief, for the Boilermakers of Purdue, with two victories and one defeat, invade Memorial stadium.

Truly Illinois can believe this season a strange interlude. Consider Illinois' troubles. Inexperience, lack of weight, and weak reserves for a first team none too strong. These are Coach Zuppke's problems. They have been his problems since last fall when nearly all of his veterans finished their third year of competition. But the football public refused to believe the seriousness of his difficulties until Northwestern defeated Illinois, 32 to 0, and Michigan won last Saturday.

Schedule Hard on Team.

It is merely a happenstance of the schedule that these universities, leading contenders for the conference title, should be Illinois' first opponents. Nevertheless it did not help Zuppke build a winning eleven and Purdue, its sole defeat administered by Michigan by one point, offers no respite. However, Zuppke and his aides view their tasks philosophically.

"If I had a back field like Rockne's I could afford to wisecrack," Zuppke remarked this afternoon as he directed practice.

Zuppke isn't envious. He's had some fine back field men—Red Grange, for instance—but two defeats by your greatest rivals does cramp one's style.

For that matter Illinois' back field is only half of the story. Don't forget the line with its one letter man, Ott Hill.

Will Beat Purdue If—

Perhaps Zuppke believes that one of these Saturday afternoons his line will block, the backs will not fumble, and opponents' passes will be broken up. When, and if, these things happen the Fighting Illini will win. So far, the only ability they have maintained for sixty minutes of play is their fight. And this eagerness, of itself, has handicapped both offense and defense.

Enveloped in a sweat coat many sizes too large, the little Dutchman trudged behind his team this afternoon as it drilled against Purdue's attack, demonstrated by a freshman eleven. Zuppke has stolen Chicago's copyright phrase, for he fears Purdue. In particular, he fears Purdue's passes, and there was no surcease in what he saw today. Too often the freshmen ends and backs sprinted through the secondary defense to complete passes. Or, again, freshman backs found openings in the line.

"Dummy drill," Zuppke called it, meaning, of course, that the defense must not tackle, for these regulars cannot stand the additional burden of scrimmage with their Saturday games.

Berry Calls Signals.

Don Munch, until a few days ago one of the B squad, will direct the attack against Purdue. His showing in the Michigan game earned the promotion, and as a result Pete Yanuskus has been relegated to the second back field. Gil Berry, Hunter Russell, and Olaf Robinson will follow Munch's ball carrying orders.

Berry called signals against Michigan. He's the safety man. It was Berry who returned one of Michigan's punts for a touchdown. There might have been others, but Berry, according to Zuppke, has not learned to play deep enough to handle kicks, or to cover them no matter the direction. This touchdown run was the only Michigan kick Berry was under.

Stan Bodman was paired with Hills at tackle. Mark Swanson and Casion Bennett, ends; Stanley Jensen and Bob Conover, guards, and Hank Schumacher, center, completed the line. Schumacher was in uniform, although under doctor's orders to take it easy because of an injured ankle.

Only 20,000 tickets have been sold for Saturday's game although it is estimated 25,000 will attend. This may break the record for the least number ever to watch a contest in Memorial stadium.

NO LETUP AT PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Preparing for their fourth conference encounter in as many weeks, there was no letup in intensity of drill in Purdue's football camp tonight as Coach Noble Kizer ordered a long offensive scrimmage to repel the invasion of Illinois' Saturday.

With Alex Yunevich back in the lineup, it is likely that the Boilermakers will revert to their original back field of Pope and Purvis, half backs; Yunevich, full back, and White, quarter back. Pope is the pass of the squad kickers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 28.—When Primo Carnera returned to his native Italy today the town of Genoa was gayly decorated, thousands of black shirted Fascisti swarmed the streets and a gala atmosphere was everywhere evident. As the steamer Conte Grande sidled up to the new port, bands blared forth and cheers rose from thousands of throats.

PRIMO CARNERA.

The heavyweight conqueror of some of America's most notorious pushovers took the ovation gracefully. He beamed on the colorful scene, waved his hams, and acted the conventional conquering hero.

It so happens that the crowds at the quay were witnessing the dedication of the new port, and the black shirts were celebrating the tenth anniversary of Mussolini's march on Rome, but Mama and Papa Carnera, who came all the way from Sequals, near Udine, didn't know that. They are humble peasant folk, and Mama, clad in a worn black dress and shapeless hat, wept tears of joy and admiration when her baby, dressed like a movie star, charged down the gangplank and took her in a bear like embrace. To Mama and Papa the show had been put on solely for Primo's benefit.

Primo, standing beside his diminutive father—a block off the old chip as it were—said he would fight Mofse Bouquillon in Italy and Paulino Uzcudun in Spain, but he was vague about the dates.

Bar Exercise Boy for Life in Touting Fraud

Harold Thomas, a New Orleans boy who has been exercising horses on Chicago race tracks, was ruled off the turf for life by the stewards at Hawthorne yesterday.

According to Joseph A. Murphy, presiding steward at the Hawthorne track, the boy confessed that he had attempted a scheme of defrauding people by sending them telegrams, signed by leading jockeys at the track, in which he offered information on the races. The telegrams had been signed with the names of Jockeys P. Neal, A. Richard, A. Pendergrass, and J. Leyland. It was revealed that the telegrams had been sent from 616 Rush street, which is the barber shop in the McCormick hotel.

Jockeys Complain of Letters.

"The jockeys whose names were fraudulently signed to the telegrams complained to us that they were receiving letters from people who were making an effort to establish the authenticity of the telegrams," Judge Murphy said.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, in charge of police at Washington Park and Lincoln Fields, was assigned to the case. He trapped Thomas and secured a confession yesterday.

"We hope this will be a warning to Chicago followers of racing and to those followers of the sport living outside of the Chicago district to verify all telegrams received from owners, trainers, or those connected with racing before they give them any credence," Steward Murphy continued.

Recalls Arlington Case.

Thomas, who is not to be confused with Jockey H. Thomas, now riding in the east, was sending out tips of the races with the telegrams signed by different Hawthorne jockeys. They were advised to pay him for the tips and remit to whatever name was signed to the telegram to 616 Rush street.

A similar case developed at Arlington Park three years ago, when Jockey C. E. Allen's name was used in sending out telephone tips to many persons, including John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants.

DORIS JEAN WINS FILLY HANDICAP; ALWAYS IN FRONT

Theo Rochester Proves Surprise in Third.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Doris Jean, owned by Jake Lowenstein of Chicago, won a place among the leading 2 year old fillies that have raced in Chicago this year when she galloped to victory at Hawthorne yesterday in the Wise Child handicap.

Doris, with Jockey Buddy Hanford in the saddle, simply smothered her opponents which included such fleet young runners as Try It, a New York colt; Red Chili, a daughter of Upset, from California; Dandy Dan, a son of Westy Hogan, and Boiling, a Bubbling Over offspring.

From the time Jockey Hanford rushed Doris Jean to the front at the snap of the barrier she never left the result in doubt. She winged it out in front all the way—sometimes by three lengths, other times by two lengths—and wound up by beating Try It, which made a game stretch challenge, by a length. Red Chili was a length back of Try It in third place when the official numbers were hung out.

Timed at 1:12 3-5.

Doris Jean, with 114 pounds on her back, ran the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5, which is quite a creditable performance when it is considered how easily she accomplished the task. If there had been a bit more pep behind her she could have easily clipped a second off her time which would have been one of the best races run by a 2 year old filly anywhere this year.

Doris had her backers and they gave her a mighty cheer as she came romping home in front. In the mutuels she paid $5.36 to win, $3.20 to place, and $2.64 to show. Try It was at $3.06 to place and $2.56 to show. Red Chili paid $2.88 to show.

Theo Rochester, which started showing brilliant form a week ago, surprised the crowd in the six furlong third race when she won by a head from Scone, with Paraphrase finishing third. There was a heavy plunge on Chianti, the easterner recently claimed by Mrs. R. Pollard of Texas, which has been running very inconsistently since he came to this part of the racing wheel. But Chianti was pushed around a bit early and ran a very disappointing race all the way.

Plunge on Ben Marshall.

There was also a plunge on Ben Marshall, the price against him being battered down from 30 to 1 to 7 to 1 at post time, but old Ben ran so slowly he only had one horse beaten when they reached the line of finish.

Theo Rochester paid the surprising odds of $19.14 to win, $7.38 to place, and $4.14 to show. Scone, another long shot, paid $7.16 to place, and Paraphrase was at $3.88 to show. Jockey Riley rode Theo Rochester and came from behind to get the decision in the last few jumps.

HORNSBY WILL CONFER HERE ON CUBS' 1931 SEASON

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cubs, will leave his Missouri farm on Thursday and come to town to talk over ways and means of putting the team into the 1931 pennant fight.

The Cubs stand in need of several good pitchers and an extra outfielder and infielder would come in handy. If Hornsby and President Veeck are contemplating deals involving minor league players, they must be put through before Dec. 1, as that is the deadline set by the little fellows for any drafting upon their personnel.

STUDENT GOLF AT MICHIGAN.

WHENEVER one visits Ann Arbor, Fielding H. Yost, one time football coach and now athletic director, has some new building or equipment to show in his avowed program of intramural, all-student participation in athletics. If you do not ask the source of the funds, Yost will interpolate in his description that the cost came from "football money." This is his implied answer to the antis who claim college sports are being overemphasized and commercialized.

On our recent visit, the inspection tour was to the new golf course, located about a block from the football stadium. It was opened three weeks ago. Here on a tract of rolling terrain, 145 acres in extent, is an eighteen hole course, over 6,500 yards from the back tees, and over 6,200 yards from the front tees. The land is owned outright by the university. Land and course represent an investment of $300,000. A modern and commodious clubhouse to cost $200,000 will be added when "football money" provides the means.

This course, laid out by an English expert who has planned over 200 other courses in this country, is not made intentionally difficult. Traps are not as frequent as at some championship courses, but the terrain itself offers many natural hazards, so it is a good test of golf. Several holes, in particular, are what is known in modern student vernacular as "keen." One, we think the third hole, suggested all kinds of grief for our type of game.

Acquisition of one parcel of this property—10½ acres—involved a question which went to the Michigan Supreme court. The university, under its charter, has the right to condemn property for "educational purposes." The owner contended golf was not "educational." The court did not pass on that question per se, but held that the university in acquiring the tract for "educational purposes" had the right thereafter to prescribe its own curriculum.

'Tis oft been read and often told
Our "eyes are windows of the soul."
But humanlike we give scant heed
For godlike thought till time of need
Or hunger for the things we crave
React on man like willing slave.

Two soft brown eyes whose gentle glance
Remove all thoughts of strife or chance,
Behind whose orbs we cannot pass
But seeing, are content to rest
And realize—no need be told—
"That eyes are windows of the soul."

"How You Gonna Beat 'Em?"

Scouting the Michigan-Illinois game for Minnesota was Sig Harris, one time back field flash for the Gophers. After the game, we asked, "What chance do you think Minnesota has against Michigan?" Sig promptly replied, "With a smart Jewish boy at quarter back, how you gonna beat 'em?" If our memory serves us correctly Sig played quarter back at Minnesota when the Gophers were losing few games.

Another Beg Your Pardon.

Our attention has been called to the fact that our Saturday forecast gave 3 points to Michigan State against its opponent, whereas Michigan State secured 45 points. When that forecast left Ann Arbor by wire, Michigan State had 34 points. The other 31 were lost along the route somewhere. We regret we have no similar excuse to offer for the Navy-Princeton upheaval.

Badgers Figure They Can Tie for Big Ten Honors

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 28.—Football is going on as usual in the camp of the cardinal clad Badgers. The one point by which Purdue's Boilermakers last Saturday blasted Wisconsin's hopes of a Big Ten title was a blow nobody expected, but it didn't break up the show so far as Wisconsin's part was involved.

GLENN THISTLETHWAITE.

That one point by its decisiveness has left the Badgers a bit balmy. It has intensified the sentiment against the illogical point after touchdown, which eventually will go the way of the sacrifice fly in baseball. It has put a youth, Rus Rebholz, in the role of a martyr. It was his kicking attempt to tie the score against Purdue which failed. It has added another chapter to Wisconsin's hard luck in gridiron endeavor. But football here is a sort of tradition which moves down a trail marked by such names as Pat O'Dea, Jerry Riordan, the Cochems boys, Bill Juneau, Dick Remp, Irv Bush and Guy Sundt, so the game will go on and continue to go on long after the point after touchdown has met its overdue demise.

Badgers Hope for Tie.

Wisconsin now hopes for a series of happenings that will leave it with at least a tie claim to the mythical grid title of the hide bound Big Ten. The Badgers think they can do their share to bring this about. They expect to trim Ohio State Saturday, to keep their own slate from further smearing, and whip both Northwestern and Minnesota, which at this stage stand unbeaten. But there is Michigan to reckon with. The Badgers think Minnesota might take care of that angle of the problem. Minnesota will if it can. It has more than a few grudges to work off in the perpetual struggle for the little brown jug.

That Wisconsin had reason to feel humbled by the one point defeat at Purdue, is proven by the fact that an unsullied grid championship hasn't roosted hereabouts since 1912, which in sports is like three million years in astronomy. Since then the Badgers have at times nibbled at the championship bait, but there always was somebody beating 'em to it. Such happenings have almost made it another local tradition that a Wisconsin team lets down or is outlucked in at least one game per season.

Ohio Spoiled 1920 Season.

They still talk around soda fountains, which were unheard of when the purity wave hit the conference in 1905, of what happened to the great eleven of 1920. The team whipped Illinois by 14 to 9, Minnesota by 3 to 0, and Chicago by the same score. But Ohio State spoiled everything. In the last four minutes of play the Buckeyes scored two touchdowns. They whipped the Cardinal by 13 to 7 and a championship was detoured elsewhere.

In 1921 the Badgers started out impressively on another title hunt. They thumped Northwestern, 27 to 0. Illinois was a 20 to 0 victim. Minnesota was cleaned out by 35 to 0. Then Michigan ruined the morale by holding the Cardinal wearers to a 7 to 7 tie. A week later they were taken for a 3 to 0 ride by Stagg's Maroons. Another title claim was wrecked.

After 1921 there were some lean years until 1928 when the flaming Cardinal again flashed ominously across the Big Ten horizon. Barring a tie with Purdue, opponents were bowled over with regularity, at least until the final game. That was with Minnesota, a foe of years standing. The Goph-

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Edward H. (Snapper) Garrison, one of the most famous jockeys in the history of the turf, died today in the Swedish hospital in Brooklyn. He was 62 years old.

Death came suddenly, as Garrison apparently had been in good health until yesterday, and was due to acute uremia and heart trouble. The family home was in Brooklyn, where the widow, Mrs. Sarah A. Garrison, resides.

Snapper Garrison, king of the jockeys in the late '80s and early '90s, was born in New Haven, Conn. He received a smattering of education in a school at Binghamton, N. Y., and then entered the stable of W. C. (Pa) Daly through the school for jockeys maintained by that famous turfman. An accident got him aboard a horse in a winning race, and from that inauspicious start he rode 10,000 horses, many of them winners, in one of the most amazing careers of the American turf.

How He Was Named.

The new youngster around the stables was such a bright, active boy, small and wiry, with sinews of steel and the courage of a fox terrier, that Daly nicknamed him Jack Snapper. One day at Brighton Beach Daly's horse Ligan was posted as a starter, but the jockey did not appear at the scales. There was no time to get another jockey, so Daly said, "Let Jack Snapper ride him!" The boy mounted, and the announcer—a stickler for etiquette — announced him to the crowd as John Snapper. The Snapper part was to endure the rest of Garrison's life.

From that first race the Snapper's style of riding gave rise to the "Garrison finish," which was to typify wherever, the ponies gallop a certain individual style. His trick was to keep his horse in the huddle through the first quarter, and then reach out, drawing slowly ahead, rush along on the last quarter and fairly lift the head of his mount over the line.

Disliked Front Runners.

"Garrison finishes" became a byword when, in 1886, the little jockey brought an outsider, Dutch Roller, owned by James R. Keene, onto the track at Sheepshead Bay to win the Great Eastern handicap. The lebal stuck to Garrison for the rest of his racing days. He never liked front runners, and invariably held his mounts until reaching the stretch.

In 1894 the Snapper was rated the highest salaried jockey on any track when he received $23,500 as a contract rider for August Belmont, James B. Haggin and Gideon Knapp.

His most famous race—the one about which most of the fanciful tales about him were written—was his victory on Roundless in the $60,000 World's Fair Derby at Chicago in 1893.

Many fanciful stories were written later about that World's Fair race. Garrison, on one pretext or another, such as fixing his straps and saddle, helped delay the start of the race an hour and a half, spending most of his time on the ground with his weight off his horse. He was fined $1,000 for his part in the long delay, but he booted Boundless home ahead of the field.

164,000 See Notre Dame in First Four Grid Games

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Official attendance figures for the Notre Dame football games this season, released by Business Manager J. Arthur Haley, today show that 164,000 have attended the four games to date. The figures are: Southern Methodist, 20,000; U. S. Naval academy, 42,000; Carnegie tech., 32,000; Pittsburgh, 70,000.

Jewel Ens Signs to Pilot Pirates in 1931 Season

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Jewel Ens, who was beset with injuries among his players during his first full year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, fifth place finishers in the National standings of 1930, will pilot the team again in 1931.

JEWELL ENS.

Uncertainty which had existed among the club's followers as to whether Ens would be tendered another contract was dispelled today when the management announced he had signed for another year. Terms of the new contract were not given out.

"We have confidence that Ens will keep the Pirates in the flag race next year," Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pirates, said in discussing the contract. "We had a fine team this year, but it was unfortunate. The squad for next season ought to be even better. French and Swetonic should be better pitchers and we look for much help from Charley Wood, the new left hander. Moreover, some of the new players may measure up."

Ens, whose playing days were given largely to the minor leagues, has been with the Pirates since 1921 as player, coach, and manager. He was secured from Syracuse, of the International league, and served as a utility player until he was made a coach. He succeeded Donie Bush as manager late in the 1929 season.

Charles Engle, infielder, was released outright today by the Pirates to the Fort Worth club of the Texas league. Engle was secured from Memphis in the 1929 draft and he has played second base, third base, and shortstop for the Buccaneers.

Rubio's Son Fights 3 Round Bout in Kansas

Atchison, Kas., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fernando Ortiz Rubio, 18 year old son of the president of Mexico, fought a three round no decision bout here tonight with Bus Glaser, St. Joseph, Mo., welterweight.

The bout, witnessed by 900 persons, was the feature of an intramural card at St. Benedict's college where Fernando and his brother, Guillermo, are students. Both the fighters weighed 145 pounds.

In Ortiz Rubio's corner was Carlos Ballesteros of Mexico City, who coached him in Spanish. The Mexican youth showed staying power against his taller opponent. Dressed to enter the ring, Fernando watched other bouts from the ringside with his brother; a cousin, Salvadore Reyes Cortes, and three Atchison girls.

The Ortiz Rubios followed with delight the showing of a countryman, Al Guillen of Mexico City, in an early bout. They cheered the decision that gave Guillen a verdict over Martin Stremel, Pfeiffer, Kas. They weighed 115 pounds.

Fernando Ortiz Rubio, who, friends said, was making his first public appearance as a fighter, learned to box at a private school in Mexico City. He discontinued the use of sweets and tobacco three weeks ago.

Gallant Fox Returns to His Old Kentucky Home

Paris, Ky., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Gallant Fox, 3 year old champion of the thoroughbred world and the American turf's greatest money winner, today returned to the scene of his birth, Bourbon county, where he will be retired to the stud. The champion, accompanied by his owner, William Woodward, New York City, Dr. E. A. Caslick of Paris, and a corps of attendants, arrived in a special car and was placed in a van and taken to A. B. Hancock's Claiborne farm, one mile from Paris, where the champion was foaled three years ago last spring.

SQUAD LEAVES TOMORROW TO MEET MAROONS

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 28.—The state of affairs in football at Princeton just now is such that the president of the university, John Grier Hibben, appeared at the practice field this afternoon, interrupted the squad at their rehearsal for the Chicago game at Stagg field next Saturday, and, with the young men standing in a circle about him, distorted into dehumanized shapes by their pads, assured them that any change now would be for the better.

What he said exactly was that they had reached bottom, referring to their three defeats by Brown, Cornell, and the Navy, a new record low for Princeton teams, and were bound to come up. He then qualified this meager optimism by adjuring them, if they were going to be failures, to be total failures and not just mediocre failures.

Promise to Beat Yale.

President Hibben, a rather spare, spectacled man who used to be a clergyman, talked on for eight or ten minutes, interrupted, however, by Dick Mestres, the young man who had the ill fortune to receive the captaincy in Princeton's gloomiest year, who piped up with an assurance that they were going to win the Yale game, anyway.

Having finished, Dr. Hibben walked away, pausing a minute to talk with Nat Poe, Princeton, '97, a small, half-bald man who assists Bill Roper with the coaching, and the team went back to work. His appearance and his address caused a bit of a stir, as it is rather unusual for the president of the university, who admits a partiality to the intellectual side of life, to interrupt practice to tell the football team just how they stand with him and the school.

Still, the situation was unusual and there was just a suggestion that the student body might be losing interest in a losing team when Dr. Hibben took occasion to say that the student who was indifferent was not a Princeton man in the best sense and didn't deserve to be.

Team Goes Back to Work.

There was no applause when he finished. The team snapped back into half-time scrimmage and an Airedale which had been idly batting himself on one ear with a hind leg hopped up and loped off with the president.

Mr. Roper was most affable with his athletes throughout the long exercise, contrary to an impression which had somehow been conveyed that he was cranky and desperate over the failure of his last team after he had produced so many good ones. He was particularly generous with a little substitute back named Dodge, who was driving through tackle in a straight forward play which seemed quite important in the Princeton plan.

The team hasn't matured as a team and there is no assurance that it will, but when the work was over, Mr. Roper said he thought the boys would come together and play themselves some characteristic Princeton football by Yale time.

Roper Opposes Spring Drill.

One trouble plainly is that Princeton football teams do not begin practice until Sept. 15, when they start learning signals and training themselves into shape. Mr. Roper, himself, opposes spring training on the ground that football is an autumn game, but he is paying for his conviction in hurts and backwardness.

Some of the young men engaging in the play today suggested those plaster models seen in the show windows of surgical appliance stores, buttressed as they were with a variety of ingenious props, leather braces and elastic bandages. One of the ends, Cap Wister, whose father played on a Princeton team, was wearing a stiff leather cuff extending down over his fingers. A tackle was playing with one leg enclosed in a leather brace stiffened with a metal rod. A backfield man showed up with his head in a turban bandage, like the piccolo player in "The Spirit

Toledo U. Coach Fires 3 Players, So 3 Others Quit

Toledo, O., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Coach Jimmy Nicholson of Toledo university today announced the dismissal of Capt. Don Sharpe and Joe Bloom, ends, and Neubrecht, half back, from the football squad for what he terms "indifferent playing."

Nicholson said other dismissals would follow unless the players showed a greater inclination to win games. Shortly after Nicholson's announcement three players turned in their uniforms. They are Alva Waltz, center; Ed Mussehl, and Edwards, linemen.

Waltz and Edwards gave injuries as the reason for their quitting, while Mussehl claims he is behind in his studies. Nicholson said he will work with sophomore and freshman material for the rest of the season. Today's dismissals were the result of the Toledo U's poor showing against Heidelberg last week.

COMMUTER WINS FROM TIMELY IN EMPIRE FEATURE

7-10 Favorite Finishes 4 Lengths Behind.

New York, Oct. 28. — [Special.]—Timely, the filly that was considered the star juvenile of the Rolling Plains stable, and one of the smartest of her sex at local tracks, went down to a surprising defeat in the Hartsdale stakes at Empire City today. The daughter of High Time and Griselda was second to the Flying Horse farm's Commuter, 3 to 1 in the betting. Timely was held at 7 to 10.

Timely lost distance by a poor start Pony McAtee rushed the Rolling Plains hope to contention, but in the stretch run the filly failed and stopped badly, leaving Commuter to go on an easy winner at the end of the six furlongs by four lengths.

MALCEWICZ BOUT FEATURE ON MAT CARD TONIGHT

The first important wrestling card of the Chicago winter season will be held at the Coliseum tonight under the direction of Joe Coffey, with Joe Malcewicz meeting Jack Wagner. Providence, R. I., heavyweight, in the feature bout. Wagner, athletic instructor for the police department in the eastern city, claims a draw with Strangler Lewis.

Johnny Meyers, former middleweight champion, and Zack Malkov, North Shore Russian, will wrestle at catchweights. Pietro Bacini, who boasts 57 victories since coming to this country from Italy, will meet Bill Demetral in one of the preliminaries.

DOC KRONE PLANS TO HOLD CHARITY WRESTLING CARD

John [Doc] Krone, Chicago's wrestling promoter, today will confer with George Getz, member of the Illinois athletic commission, on plans to hold a wrestling show at the Stadium or Coliseum for the benefit of the unemployed men and their families.

Getz, who is head of Gov. Emmerson's staff to aid the unemployed, assured Krone of his support yesterday and will help him work out the details of the show.

CARDS OFFER TO PLAY BEARS FOR CHARITY

David L. Jones, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, National professional league football team, last night suggested that the Cardinals' annual Thanksgiving day game with the Chicago Bears be played for charity.

Jones proposed that all receipts over actual operating expenses be turned over to any Chicago charity selected by the newspapers. He also was willing that the newspapers pick the site of the game.

Illness to Keep Augie Kieckhefer from Play

Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, eight times holder of the world's three cushion billiard championship, will not engage in title competition this season because of illness. Kieckhefer underwent an operation for a throat ailment at Milwaukee Saturday and his health will not permit him to return to action for several months at least.

Missouri Ring Board Bars Mique Malloy

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mique Malloy, Chicago boxing promoter, who promoted three of St. Louis' largest boxing programs from a box office standpoint, was indefinitely suspended today by Seneca Taylor, boxing commissioner. Taylor said Malloy had failed to meet obligations in several bouts here. Malloy promoted both of Primo Carnera's St. Louis appearances.

Malloy, in a long distance telephone conversation with Taylor, said the obligations the commission has accused him of not paying are "disputed bills."

Taylor said Malloy had embarrassed the commission by failure to comply with the rules as follows:

Malloy advertised the Mickey Walker-Tiger Cline bout without first having it approved by the commission; he failed to take a promotor's license until 5 p. m. the day of the fight; he failed to turn over the complimentary tickets to be stamped until 6 o'clock of the day of the match; he failed to put up guarantees to pay the fighters until 8:20 p. m. the day of the fight, and presented a personal check as his guarantee.

Malloy characterized the suspension, in a telephone conversation with a St. Louis newspaper, as "a shame." He said he was coming to St. Louis to talk with Taylor about the action of the commission.

REFUSES TO BE SUSPENDED.

"I refuse to be suspended," was Mique Malloy's answer when informed last night of his suspension by the Missouri athletic commission. "I talked with Taylor this afternoon and told him I was just the matchmaker, not the promoter.

"The promoter should be suspended if there is a run-in with the commission.

"There is no truth in the story."

4 Shamrock Players Held at Boundary

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 28.—Four Canadian hockey players on their way to Chicago to join the Shamrocks were turned back at North Portal, Sask., today by immigration authorities and now are in Regina awaiting arrival of papers from the American consul which will allow them to enter the United States.

The players are Sam Timmins, who played last winter with the Minneapolis team, and Ching Johnson, wing, both of Calgary, Alta.; Charlie O'Neil of High River, Alta., a forward, and Fred Gordon of Arcola, Sask., formerly of the Detroit Cougars.

The players expect to be idle for a few days until arrangements have been completed which will allow them to cross into the United States and join their club.

Players Barred from U. S. Rejoin Team.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—"The fastest team in the National Hockey league," was the comment of hockey critics who watched the first workout of the Chicago Blackhawks at the London arena today. Twenty members of the Hawks traveled at top speed and were greeted by more than 500 railbirds who were anxious to get a glimpse of Coach Dick Irvin's team in action.

The four members of the Chicago team who were refused admission to the United States, joined the Hawks here. They are Art Somers, Earl Miller, John Gottselig and Duke Dutkowski. However, Coach Irvin has announced that the barrier has been removed and these players will have no difficulty in regaining entrance to the States. The training in the Minnesota woods apparently aided the team considerably, as every member appeared to be in excellent condition.

Roy Brothers, manager of the London Tecumsehs of the International Professional Hockey league, is negotiating for two of the Chicago players and the deal probably will be completed shortly.

The Hawks have two goal tenders, Charlie Gardiner and Alex Wood, and four defense players, Taffy Abel, Ted Graham, Marvin Wentworth and Helge Bostrum.

Dodgers, Notre Dame Hall Team to Clash for Charity

Proceeds from the game will be used by the Oak Park Elks, under whose auspices the contest will be played, to distribute Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to the needy.

Becker Points Out Different Feeding Grounds of Ducks

BY BOB BECKER.

You stay in your playground and we'll stay in ours, seems to be the slogan of the waterfowl which we observed a few days ago near the little town of Lacon, Ill. There were thousands of birds in the sloughs and lakes and also on the river near Lacon when we went down the river a mile and a half to step into a duck blind for a few hours' shooting.

The whole setup was a perfect demonstration of what kind of water different species of waterfowl like and how these preferences automatically keep the species in their own playgrounds.

Going down the Illinois river to the marsh where we bagged mallards, widgeon, and pintails, we chugged along on flowing water. This river area belonged to the bluebills and blackjacks, the diving ducks. They care naught for shallow, muddy areas. On the contrary, the bluebills and blackjacks look for their food by diving (as does the canvasback), so the deep river water is their playground. They like deep lakes, too.

Getting out of our boat on the east bank of the river, we walked just a few feet and there ahead of us was a broad, shallow lake or pond broken by small islands, dead timber, and stumps. The water varied from a depth of eight to ten inches to a couple of inches of soupy water, muck, and weeds. This big slough was choked with weed growth and floating on the surface we would see any amount of ducksmeat, that tiny green plant which is a favorite of many of the puddler ducks.

Of course this shallow slough was crowded with birds. But nary a bluebill or blackjack was taking up space here. They were staying in their own back yard—on the river.

This shallow, mucky pond was occupied by mallards (both kinds), some green wing teal, thousands of pintails, many widgeon, and a few spoonbills or shovelers. These are the puddler ducks, which prefer not to dive for their food.

FROSH USE N. U. PLAYS TO SCORE ON MINNESOTA

Crisler Yanks 1st String from Scrimmage.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Minnesota got its first touch of Northwestern's offensive power this afternoon from its own freshmen and the result was several touchdowns for the yearlings.

After two weeks of practice with the Hanley attack, the yearlings were well versed in Northwestern plays and they made them click against the varsity. They did so well that Coach Crisler removed his first team at one time and put in his second stringers, the latter group showing up much better on defense.

Marvin Dillner, regular end, was forced out of the scrimmage tonight when he bruised an ankle. Stein and Anderson also remained inactive.

SECRET DRILL AT N. U.

Secrecy surrounded the activities of Northwestern's Wildcats as they went about their practice at Dyche stadium yesterday. All visitors received the "no admittance" edict as they approached the gates. Coach Dick Hanley stated that secret practice would continue the rest of the week, as the Purple prepares to meet Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday.

Hanley said that the squad would engage in heavy scrimmages with the freshmen, in addition to reviewing all offensive formations.

Will Start Heavy Back Field.

Northwestern's back field combination for Saturday will be one of the most powerful mustered by the Wildcats this year. Rentner and Russell are slated for the full back and quarter back assignments, with Bruder and Lee Hanley at the halves. The first three named will average more than 185 pounds, while Hanley should make up in speed what he lacks in weight. He weighs 165 pounds.

Bob Gonya was switched from tackle to right end yesterday. Larry Oliphant, regular right end, has a wrenched back, while Dick Fencl, his sophomore understudy, has a broken nose in his hand which is likely to keep him out for two weeks. Gonya played end last year.

2,000 Fans to Make Trip.

More than 2,000 Northwestern rooters will make the trip to Minneapolis. Three special trains have been chartered to carry the students and alumni. The Northwestern band of 100 pieces also will make the trip. The team will leave Chicago after practice tomorrow night.

SIMRALL IN HOSPITAL AGAIN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The Michigan football squad, probably minus its captain, Ducky Simrall, will hold its first practice for the Harvard game tomorrow afternoon. The drill will consist of a signal workout for regulars and possibly a scrimmage for reserves. Coach Harry Kipke called the squad out for a blackboard drill tonight.

Simrall, knocked out in the Illinois game, is suffering from a boil which has become infected, and he is in the university infirmary.

Kipke is hopeful that Auer, Daniels, and Cox will be able to play against Harvard.

IOWA HOLDS SCRIMMAGE.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Tackling practice for backs and ends followed by a long scrimmage session comprised the hardest drill of the week for the University of Iowa football squad today. The Hawkeyes play at the University of Detroit Saturday.

INDIANA LINE IMPROVES.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Two picked teams of Indiana football players scrimmaged with the freshmen this afternoon against Notre Dame plays in preparation for the game with the Irish at South Bend Saturday. Coach Pat Page was pleased with the marked improvement in the line's defense and in the team's blocking.

Hunbaker was acting quarter back for one team and had Ross and Hoover at half backs and Saluski at full back. Playing in the other back field were Ashby at quarter, Hubner at full back, and Hay and Opasik at half backs.

Bauer, Hughes and Edmonds, all regular backs, were on the sidelines due to injuries. The two latter players were injured in the Southern Methodist game last Saturday.

OHIO PLAYS FROSH IN RAIN.

Columbus, O., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The Ohio State football team was sent through a long scrimmage with the freshmen in the rain today. It was the first of three scrimmages scheduled this week in preparation for the Wisconsin game here Saturday.

Besides the regular back field of Foster, Varner, Horne and Hinchman, Williman had a new man in the ball carrying rôle, Sam Hodnick, who played one minute against Mount Union in the first practice game of the season. He carried the ball but on one play in the Mount Union game and made a touchdown on that.

Announce Suspension of Wilberforce Grid Coach

Xenia, O., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Football Coach Harry C. Graves has been suspended temporarily, President Gilbert H. Jones of Wilberforce university said today. The cause for the suspension was not made known. President Jones said an acting coach will be selected tomorrow, and that the suspension would not interfere with the college's remaining football games.

ST. ALBAN'S MEET.

Dr. Hibben Aids Princeton Practice for Maroon Game

of "76" and a special helmet with a medieval visor was produced for him when he went into the lineup.

Keck Coaches Guards, Tackles.

I had been hearing that Princeton was in a bad way emotionally over the failure of the team thus far this season but everything seemed pretty much the same as always, with the exception that Stanley Keck, the assistant line coach, was laboring furiously with a class of guards and tackles off to one side, teaching them to block. It seemed a little late in the season for this kind of instruction, but the line has been the weak department of the Princeton team this year, and the backs have had to take care of themselves on the attack and attend to most of the tackling on defense.

Mr. Keck is a burly figure, with a bulging middle, like those giants who used to juggle half barrels on the brewery wagons, and he seemed to enjoy flipping big Princeton athletes under their chins and upending them with ease at the start of practice. Presently, however, with two men hitting him simultaneously, Mr. Keck began to hit the turf and after an hour of this he knocked off work and sent some improved linemen over to Mr. Roper's squad, which was drumming over the ground in the signal drill.

More Diplomacy Than Fact.

Dr. Hibben's assurance that the undergraduates are still devoted to the team appears to be more diplomacy than fact. Student bodies in this sophisticated time, like sport customers, rouse themselves to enthusiasm over winners, and the Princeton youths who expressed themselves on the subject of the football team in my hearing entertained philosophical doubts.

"I was sitting at the Navy game with my girl," one young man said. "I told her we didn't have such a bad team, really. In the first half we all cheered but in the second half the game was a joke and we were all laughing. I thought my girl would have hysterics. It's nothing to get tragic about."

There will be thirty players in the squad which leaves for Chicago Thursday and the game should be desperate, because both teams are quite intelligent. They will understand quite well that in view of the records of both thus far, victory will mean nothing better than escape from humiliation.

Toigo Hurt; Out of Maroon Lineup; Crowley Returns

In the midst of intensive preparations for the game with Princeton on Stagg field Saturday, the Maroon hopes received another blow last night. It was learned that Fonteo Toigo, a scrappy sophomore lineman, was so badly hurt in the Mississippi game that he will be unable to play this week.

His absence will be partly compensated for by the probable return to action of Cowley, regular end last year, who has been on the injured list the last two weeks.

The spirit of Princeton week that has swept the Midway campus has been instilled in the Maroon eleven, and despite their many reverses they are determined to twist the Tiger's tail this Saturday. They went through a snappy scrimmage last night, employing all the variations of the flanker attack, which is expected to function better against Coach Roper's eleven because of a non-scouting agreement between the two institutions. However, to prevent the possibility of any more injuries Coach Stagg did not allow tackling.

Reports that Bernie Wien, an end, and one of the best men on the Maroon team, would not be able to play are unfounded as he was back last night apparently entirely recovered from the bump on the head he incurred last Saturday.

ers had one scoring chance all day. They converted it into a touchdown. Wisconsin had one scoring chance and lost the ball on the Gophers' three yard line. Minnesota won by 6 to 0, and Wisconsin had no championship. Last year Minnesota beat the Badgers again, but this didn't involve a title. It was that point after touchdown again. The score was 14 to 13.

It probably is the irony of fate that the point after touchdown should prove of greatest annoyance for the man who is trying to crusade against it. He is Glenn Thistlethwaite, coach of the Badgers. He has compiled figures to prove it does not fit in with the scheme of football. He has found in data collected on 2,000 games that it takes seven plays to score one point. But the kick after touchdown makes possible one point on one play by one man. It is an unbalanced proportion. Often the youth who makes the kick isn't good enough to be used for anything else.

Thistlethwaite's figures also show that only 20 per cent of the same 2,000 games which otherwise would have been ties were decided by the kick after touchdown. The percentage is so small that it shoots holes in the argument raised in defense of the extra point. This was that it avoided ties.

More of Wisconsin's bum luck cropped today. Tury Oman, who has been dubbed the phlegmatic Finn from Chisholm, Minn., was kneed in the face just as he was getting up after being down in a run against the "B" team last night. He immediately quit work and went to the infirmary. This morning an x-ray negative revealed that his left cheek bone had been caved in. But he'll be at full back against Ohio Saturday.

De Paul university's football team will depend upon the fleetness of its back field to beat Loyola university in the benefit game at Soldiers' field next Sunday afternoon. Yesterday afternoon's drill in the De Paul camp found Joe Dea directing the first team, with Red Harrington and Frank Hartman at the half back posts. In this trio Coach Eddie Anderson has players who are capable of plunging or passing, but are especially capable end runners and broken field sprinters.

Mat Steffen and Ernie Hutcher, half backs, who have played in De Paul's two previous games, are suffering with injuries, but may be in shape to play Sunday. Eddie Stafford is likely to start at full back.

De Paul Cripples Recover.

De Paul's team has been inactive since its victory over St. Mary's college at Winona, Minn., a week ago last Friday. The rest has given the crippled linemen a good chance to recover from their injuries.

A new player will appear in Loyola's back field Sunday. He is Victor Napolilli, who, until this time, has been alternating at full back and quarter back on the Ramblers' third team. In looking around for new back field talent Monday Coach Eddie Norton gave Napolilli a chance with the first team and was gratified to see him run rough shod through the yearlings and second team.

Napolilli at Full Back.

Loyola is likely to depend upon its passing attack against the Blue Demons. Walter Durkin and Napolilli will alternate at full back, Marty Stadler and Les Molloy at half backs, and Steve Furchess will play quarter. In this combination Dr. Norton believes he will be able to start one of the strongest back fields that has represented the Ramblers this season.

BACK FIELD STARS ARE NAMED FOR SHRINERS' GAME

Gridiron stars who played for Northwestern in years gone by will try again to uphold the reputation of the Purple when Northwestern's ex-stars clash with former greats of Notre Dame at Soldiers' field Thanksgiving day.

Tim Lowry, center and captain of the 1925 team, announced yesterday that he and Coach Dick Hanley have lined up these back field stars:

Bill Calderwood, '28, half back.
Rus Bergherm, '29, all-conference full back.
Yatz Levison, '28, quarter back.
John Haas, '28, half back.
Stewart McElwain, '23, all-conference half back.
Bob Wienecke, '24, captain and full back.
James Patterson, '22, full back.
Ziggy Solheim, '26, quarter back.

ROCKNE SEEKS QUARTER BACK FOR NEXT YEAR

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 28.—[Special.] — The Notre Dame varsity, scheduled to return to work tomorrow, enjoyed another day of rest today while the third and fourth teams scrimmaged against Indiana plays. The shock troops, or second team, reported, but did only light work.

The scrimmages today were confined mostly to a search for a quarter back who will be able to step in with the varsity next year when Frank Carideo, all-American last year, is graduated. Foley, Cronin, Vejar, Murphy, and Christman all got a chance to call signals this afternoon. While Jaskwich, sophomore, looks like the man for first string work next year, he is none too sturdily built and Coach Rockne is looking for a capable understudy or two.

To spike rumors that the varsity would not be used against Indiana Saturday at Notre Dame stadium, Coach Rockne today said: "We are by no means underestimating Indiana. The varsity is tired from its four hard games and we thought it best to give the boys a good rest at this stage of the season because most of them played against Indiana last year and are familiar with the latter's strategy."

GARDEN OFFER SPURS GRIFFITH AGAINST NERON

But Greek Affirms He'll Knock Out Tuffy.

Tuffy Griffith, Chicago heavyweight, has an added incentive to defeat George Neron, champion of Greece, in their eight round battle at the Coliseum Friday night. If he wins Tuffy has been promised a match with Jack Sharkey at Madison Square Garden in December.

Tuffy also aspires to a bout with Young Stribling, but has not been neglecting the task at hand, and will wind up training today in top condition.

Both Predict Knockouts.

Following an ancient custom among fighters, Tuffy yesterday expressed confidence that he would knock out Neron, and Neron said that he undoubtedly would knock out Tuffy.

Ten other heavyweights, who tip the scales at from 180 pounds well up over the 200 mark, are on the Coliseum card. The Griffith-Neron tussle of eight rounds will be on the half of the double windup, while Larry Johnson, south side Negro, will meet Natie Brown of San Francisco in the other, also at eight rounds.

Johnson has not fought in a Chicago ring for several months. Brown was given his choice of fighting either Johnson or Paul Pantaleo, and chose Johnson.

Pantaleo to Appear.

Pantaleo also will appear on the card. He opposes Harry Dillon, an experienced boxer from Canada, in an eight rounder which will draw its share of fans from the Italian population of the west side.

Two boys who fight under very ambitious labels will meet in another eight round bout. One is Charlie Retzlaff, who is known as the Duluth Dynamiter, and his opponent is Andy Shanks, who likes to be called the Michigan Assassin. Nothing less than a knockout will satisfy the customers after they glimpse these names on the program.

GERMAN DUTY ON DURUM WHEAT REVERSES TREND

Net Gains Are 1¼ to 1⅜c; Corn Also Higher.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A lowering of the German import duty on durum wheat by 47c per bu, making it 73c, compared with $1.62 for other varieties, making sales of 750,000 to 1,000,000 bu during the day by Canada, caused a marked reversal in sentiment in North American markets yesterday. It led to a belief that other countries might follow suit. The report caught the local element short, and when buying started toward the last it disclosed an oversold condition. This brought a bulge of around 1½c from the low, with the finish within a fraction of the top. Net gains were 1¼@1⅜c, with old December at 79⅝c; March, 83⅜c; May, 84⅜@84⅞c, and July, 85½c.

At no time were wheat prices more than a fraction below Monday's finish, although there was evidence at times of scattered eastern liquidation. The trade was not inclined to enthuse over reports of rust having developed in northern Argentina. However, the latter has added an element of uncertainty to the world situation, and shorts in Liverpool covered freely, with that market closing unchanged to ½d higher. Winnipeg was firm throughout the day and closed 1⅜@1⅝c higher.

News Favors Holders.

There was some selling of wheat futures early by the local element on a sharp break in Winnipeg barley, with the October dropping 1¼c to 24c, or ½c per lb. The loss there, however, was more than recovered later. The rumor regarding the Wickersham committee recommending the legalization of 4.40 per cent beer was again in evidence, and it develops that there has been heavy buying of barley of late by brewers and maltsters, both in Chicago and in the northwest, which has held malting grades at a relatively high figure. It is said that the best grades are now selling at about the same price as when Minneapolis futures were 15c per bu higher.

Clear weather was reported in the Argentine wheat zone early in the day, but late cables said it had become cloudy and war . However, Buenos Aires closed 1½c lower for the day, suggesting that traders in the Argentine market were not apprehensive over damage to the new crop. At the same time, Liverpool reported offerings of new wheat from there had been withdrawn.

Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician, in a summary of the domestic wheat situation said that if exports continue at the present rate clearances for the season would be around 175,000,000 bu. Domestic disappearance, including 150,000,000 bu for feed, is placed at around 800,000,000 bu, making total requirements 975,000,000 bu, and suggesting that the domestic carry over at the end of the season might be reduced to 135,000,000 bu, compared with 275,000,000 bu on July 1, 1930.

Corn in Sharp Rally.

Corn was dull and rather easy in the early trading, but toward the last the market developed more activity, due largely to buying by local bulls on the strength in wheat. The close was ⅝@1¼c higher. Old December finished at 78⅝@78¾c; March, 80½@80⅝c; May, 83@83¼c, and July, 84¼c.

Weather conditions over the corn belt were favorable for field work, and the percentage of new grain in the local receipts is steadily increasing. Iowa was said to have offered new No. 4 yellow for shipment by Nov. 15 at 5c under the December future. Shipping demand was somewhat less active on sales of 42,000 bu.

Northwestern cash interests were buyers of December and sellers of May oats at 2⅞c difference, presumably changing over hedges. Commission houses were buyers on resting orders, but prices held within narrow limits and closed ¼c higher, the late rally being in sympathy with other grains. December finished at 36⅛@36⅝c and May, 39½c.

Closing of spreads between rye and other grains and the making of new spreads furnished the bulk of the business in the former. The late strength in wheat caused a net gain of ⅝@1¼c for the day, with December 49½c and May 55¼c.

Cotton Up $2.00 a Bale; Gains $6.50 in 30 Days

Cotton advanced $2 a bale yesterday, making $6.50 since Sept. 29, when the low point of the season was reached. Prices have been on the downgrade for almost two years, and the recovery is said to be the natural result of a leading commodity selling below cost of production.

Profit taking on the bulge had little effect, as closing trades were at nearly the highest of the season. The advance in cotton has created a better feeling in all commodity markets.

Liverpool closed 23 points higher, with spot sales of 5,000 bales. Chicago futures gained 25@43 points and other markets 30@49 points. Spot cotton advanced 40 points or $2.00 a bale, with New York 11.65c, New Orleans 11.30c, Galveston 11.40c, and Houston 11.25c. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

An improvement in the foreign demand for cash wheat was noted at the seaboard with sales of around 1,000,000 bu Manitobas and Canadian durum in all positions. It was understood that Germany had taken part of the durum. Russia continues to press sales abroad, and a good part of the Liverpool stock at present is said to be grain from that country.

Cash corn was in fair demand with the basis steady. Premiums on old as compared with December follow: No. 1 and No. 2 mixed, 3c; yellow, 3½c; white, 13¼@14c. Discounts on new as compared with December follow: No. 3 yellow, ¾c; No. 4 yellow, 1½@3c; No. 5 yellow, 4¼@5c; No. 6 yellow, 6@7½c; sample grades, 8@11½c.

Board of Trade Admits Three to Membership

Three applicants were admitted to membership on the Chicago Board of Trade at a meeting of the directors yesterday. They are Benjamin S. Wilson, sales manager, R. A. Doane company; Edward F. Thompson Jr., Lamson Brothers, and Albert Simpere, a grain commission merchant of Paris, France.

DECISION OF HIGH COURT SURPRISES GRAIN MEN HERE

Board of Trade men and speculative interests expressed surprise yesterday over the decision of the Illinois Supreme court in the case of James K. Riordan of Riordan Martin & Co., Chicago grain commission firm, against William McCabe, a downstate farmer. The high court affirmed action of the Circuit court of Bureau county, which dismissed a bill for foreclosure and cancelled notes given by McCabe.

The consensus of the grain men is that a brokerage house customer might trade for 10 to 20 years and make profits, which would not be gambling. But, the minute his trade show losses it is up to the brokers, for their protection, to notify their customer that he can no longer trade.

McCabe, the evidence shows, traded through the Riordan Martin house for years and was paid a total of $269,000 in profits. At one time he had an open interest of 625,000 bushels. His average line was 200,000 bushels. There never was anything said about taking a delivery of the grain on trades and no deliveries were ever made.

After McCabe had run up a large loss he was asked to make good and turned over mortgages on Illinois farm lands to cover the debts. The mortgages were held by James K Riordan for eight years and on default of interest, a foreclosure suit was started, which was opposed by McCabe. The case has been through the lower courts and a decision rendered against the brokers, who carried it to the Illinois Supreme court.

In affirming the lower courts the bench held the intention of the purchaser of grain is the only thing that can distinguish a gambling transaction from a legitimate deal. The court said McCabe had never intended to buy or sell grain, but simply had planned to profit by the fluctuation of prices and thus had been gambling on the probabilities of market action.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Egg futures declined to within a fraction of the all time low established earlier this month in a heavy selling wave on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday. While the weekly report from the 26 states showed the excess cut 59,000 cases, the report yesterday from the four principal cities showed 10,000 cases less eggs removed than a year ago. November eggs touched 20¼c, but rallied fractionally to close at 20⅝@20¾c, off ⅛@1c. December closed at 21¼c, off ⅛c.

Butter futures eased off, pressure likewise being fairly heavy. Storage news was conflicting. The 26 cities reported 990,000 lbs more removed than a year ago, with the four markets adding 142,000 lbs more yesterday. November butter closed at 33½@33¾c off ⅛@¼c, December closing at 33⅞@34c, off ⅛@¼c. Sales: Butter—November, 79 cars; December, 81 cars. Eggs—November, 108 cars; December, 176 cars. WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

With the advance in cotton of over $6.00 a bale of late, there is a disposition on the part of grain traders to buy on all breaks. Private advices from Argentina indicate that weather conditions are favorable for rust development and that there is a great deal of rust in evidence. Foreigners are becoming uneasy and are buying Canadian and Russian wheat. On the other hand, the impression prevails that Winnipeg presents the best market for speculative buying at present, as May wheat there closed at 78⅛c, against 72⅞c for December, while the latter future in Chicago was 79⅝c, and May 83⅜c.

One feature that is being given increased attention is the December liquidation, which has already started, and expected to be largely finished inside of 30 days. A few close observers express the belief that until the December is well liquidated the market is not expected to do much better, unless there is more pronounced claims of damage by rusts in the Argentine.

Corn bulls are getting more help from local traders, but the disposition is to go slow, as within the last few days a number of reports have been received to the effect that while huskings are disappointing, they are not as bad as some of the previous reports suggested, and that with corn selling relatively higher than wheat, there will probably be enough corn for all requirements.

Broomhall's Liverpool cable says reports of rust caused offerings of new crop Argentine wheat to be withdrawn which transferred some demand to Canadians. Considerable short covering owing to firmer Argentine market and the arrivals of wheat principal continental ports this week amounting to 8,720,000 bu, compared with 10,312,000 bu the previous week. Bartlett-Frazier's Liverpool cable said wheat was influenced by the Argentine market. It opened higher, but is fluctuating with the trend downward. "Looks like it is going lower unless report from Argentina were confirmed."

LEASE LA SALLE-GRAND CORNER FOR 99 YEARS

New Improvements to Be Built Later.

BY AL CHASE.

Negotiations yesterday of a ninety-nine year lease on the property at the southeast corner of West Grand avenue and North La Salle street assures the near north side of a modern new building within the next few years. The La Salle and Grand Building corporation, of which M. Schecher is president, has leased th corner, 100x100, from George A. and Minnie Chapman, for ninety-nine years, beginning Oct. 1, 1930, and ending Sept. 30, 2029.

The lease calls for an annual rental of $8,500 for three years; then $9,500 for seven years, $11,500 for ten years, and $13,000 yearly for the balance of the term. This would mean a total rental for the term of $1,196,000, or an average annual rental of $12,080. Figuring this on a 6 per cent basis establishes a leasing value of $201,333 for the property.

Will Be Remodeled.

According to C. G. Everson, head of C. G. Everson & Co., gax fixtures, 215 North Dearborn street, a member of the syndicate which leased the property, the present five story building, which was purchased for an undisclosed consideration, will be remodeled and rented to various tenants. At present it is vacant. The lease calls for a new structure before Oct. 1, 1950. It is considered probable that this will be erected within the next few years.

Nick Gianacakos has purchased the vacant northeast corner of Diversey parkway and Austin avenue from Peter Glanakopoulos for a reported $30,000, subject to $10,000. He gave as part of the purchase price the six apartment building at 4322-24 West 22d street. Gus Patsios and John Thermon were brokers.

West Madison Street Deal.

Larry O'Rourke, automobile dealer at 2701-05 West Madison street, has purchased from the Madison-Kedzie Trust and Savings bank, as trustee, the store building he now occupies, for a reported consideration of $50,000, subject to incumbrances of $33,000. Jess S. Raban was attorney for the buyer.

The southeast corner of 79th street and Clyde avenue, 108x125, improved with a three story brick building containing twenty apartments and six stores, and a six car garage building in the rear, has been sold by Thomas J. Wightman to Eli B. Michalove for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $150,000. Mr. Michalove gave in part payment the twelve flat building at the northwest corner of Lexington street and St. Louis avenue, 78x124, subject to an incumbrance of $32,500.

SAYS DEPRESSION LITTLE AFFECTS FIRE INSURANCE

His report showed that these companies had $510,830,000 more insurance in force on Sept. 30 than on Jan. 1, 1930. For the first nine months of 1930 these companies showed an income of $34,500,000, an increase of $1,300,000 over the first nine months of 1929, the report stated. They returned to policy holders in cash dividends during the first three-quarters of the year $10,783,000, Mr. Kemper said.

Clarendon Ions of Miami, Fla., an adjuster, told the convention that the American public is becoming more careful every year to prevent fires before they happen. He said this increase in care together with improved building construction, better city water supplies, and better fire fighting apparatus is saving the country millions annually.

Edwards Buys Valvoline Oil Co. for $5,500,000

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Edward W. Edwards, former president of the Paragon Refining company, today purchased all the stock of the Valvoline Oil company for $5,500,000. Stockholders of Paragon recently voted to dissolve the refining company after its assets, with the exception of cash, notes receivable and stock of the Valvoline Oil company, had been sold on Sept. 1 to the Mellon interests, Pittsburgh, representing the Gulf Refining company, for $10,000,000. Suit was filed in federal court at Cleveland Saturday by certain Paragon stockholders to compel Edwards to purchase the Valvoline stock so the Paragon concern could be liquidated and thereby complete the Paragon sale to the Gulf Refining company.

Freight Loadings Decline from Preceding Week

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending Oct. 18 were reported today by the American Railway association as having totaled 931,085 cars. This was a decrease of 23,789 cars below the preceding week, and 254,479 below the same week last year. Miscellaneous freight loading for the week aggregated 376,038 cars, a decrease of 110,953 under the same week last year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—A year ago today the stock market was in the throes of its greatest convulsion of liquidation. A record breaking volume of 16,410,000 shares changed hands on the New York stock exchange, swamping brokerage house facilities and carrying prices down for losses of 2 to 20 points by the most active stocks.

This historic selling stampede, precipitated by a series of previous breaks and waves of liquidation, actually took place on Oct. 29, 1929, but it happened on a Tuesday.

The opening of the market witnessed a great scramble to dump stocks, and leading issues in initial trades tumbled headlong for losses of 2 to 19 points as blocks of 20,000 to 50,000 shares were traded. A record turnover of 971,300 shares for one day in one issue on the stock exchange was set on the occasion by General Motors.

The stock exchange tickers, hopelessly outdistanced by the pace of the trading, ground out the story of the debacle on 15,000 miles of ticker tape. On the New York curb exchange a record volume of 7,096,300 shares duplicated on a smaller scale the panic on the stock exchange.

American Can fell 16 points to 120; Bethlehem Steel, 10¼ to 84; Johns-Manville, 17 to 115; Westinghouse Electric, 19 to 128; United States Steel, 12 to 174; Public Service of New Jersey, 14 to 73¼, and Standard Oil of New Jersey, 7 to 57¾.

AIR CARAVAN LEAVES TODAY TO BUY AUTOS

An airplane caravan will take off from the Municipal airport at noon today, headed for Detroit, with passengers consisting of purchasers of Hupmobile automobiles and salesmen of the Hupp organization. The caravan is expected to arrive in the motor capital about 3 o'clock, at which time similar other groups of planes are expected to arrive from New Orleans, Hartford, Denver, St. Louis, and Milwaukee. Following a banquet and other festivities, the passengers will drive away from Detroit in automobiles given a combined valuation of $1,000,000.

C. E. Gambill, Chicago distributor for the Hupmobile company, last year instituted the idea of the airplane caravan, which is said to have been a good stimulant for business. Ford tri-motor planes, under the direction of the National Air Transport company, will carry the Chicago contingent.

Earns Full Dividend in Nine Months.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The United States Steel corporation again has demonstrated its ability to weather depression. In the third quar- ter of this year, although operating at not much over half of capacity, the big company managed to earn its divi- dend comfortably. In fact, it more than earned its full year's dividends in the first nine months of this year— which is something to cheer about nowadays.

The quarterly report by United Steel was issued yesterday after the close of the stock market. While it disclosed earnings somewhat larger than had been generally predicted there was some disappointment be- cause the directors declared only the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the common shares. A year ago an extra payment of $1 was declared However, only the most optimistic had really expected an extra dividend at this time.

Total net earnings for the three months ended Sept. 30 were $37,995,399, which was the lowest for any third quarter since 1924 and compared with $47,961,304 in the second quarter and $72,699,666 in the third quarter of 1929. Net profit, after all charges, for the third quarter this year was $24,- 195,162, equivalent to $2.06 a share on the common stock, compared with $32,124,717, or $3.02 a share, in the second quarter, and $51,575,350, or $5.07 a share, in the third quarter of 1929.

More satisfactory than the quarterly report is the total of earnings thus far this year. For the nine months total earnings were $134,682,090, equivalent after charges and preferred dividends to $8.44 a share on the com- mon stock. This amply covers the full year's dividend of $7 on the common stock. However, for the first nine months of last year earnings of $202,- 274,559 were equivalent to $15.82 a common share.

Inland Steel Earnings.

Other reports of steel companies were less favorable. The Inland Steel company declared its regular quarter- ly dividend of $1 on the common stock. Net earnings for the third quarter were $778,352, or 64 cents a share, compared with $3,158,967, or $2.63 a share, a year ago. However, for the first nine months of this year net earnings totaled $6,199,969, or $5.08 a share, which more than cov- ered the full year's dividend. For the same period last year net was $9, 209,118, or $7.74 a share.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel company reported third quarter net earnings of $1,810,327, or $1.43 a share, compared with $3,690,226, or $3.09 a share, a year ago. Net for the nine months this year totaled $8,809,532, or $9.92 a share, compared with $16,995,193, or $14.14 a share, for the same period in 1929.

Report Due Tomorrow.

The Bethlehem Steel corporation will issue its report tomorrow. Its third quarter net earnings are esti- mated around $3,800,000, or about 65 cents a share on the common stock. Although this would not cover the $1.50 quarterly dividend, it was report- ed the dividend will be paid, as earn- ings for the nine months this year probably will run close to $5.10 a share.

The slump in the automobile indus- try was reflected in reports by the Studebaker corporation and the Hud- son Motor Car company. Studebaker sold 18,237 cars in the third quarter and had net profits of $643,689, equiv- alent to 20 cents a common share. Sales in the third quarter of 1929 were 32,819 cars and net profits were $2,- 699,436, or $1.24 a share. For the nine months this year sales totaled 56,543 cars and net profits were $3,211,006, or $1.33 a share, compared with 95,769 cars sold and net profits of $13,883,358, or $6.72 a share, for the corresponding period in 1929.

"The comparative position of Stude- baker cars showed a sharp advance in the third quarter, according to official registrations of new cars purchased by consumers," President A. R. Erskine said, "but the total volume of busi- ness available for the industry was much below the normal of the last five years."

The Hudson Motor Car company re- ported a net loss of $2,078,165 for the third quarter, compared with net profit of $2,821,653, or $1.77 a share, in the third quarter of 1929. For the nine months this year net profit was $1,313,847, or $2 cents a share, against $13,443,165, or $8.42 a share, for the same period in 1929.

Sees Long Ry. Hauls Out of East Favored by Rates

BY SCRUTATOR.

The interstate commerce commis- sion, in its recent decision on readjust- ments of class freight rates, appears to have adopted a system that tends to destroy some of the patent ad- vantages of Chicago as a distributing point.

How this city and others in the middle west have been moved further in freight rates by the new lineup, while New York, Pittsburgh and sev- eral eastern cities have been moved closer to the same markets is detailed in a brief filed with the commission by the western trunk line railroads, with Wallace T. Hughes as chief counsel.

These railroads are striving to have a modification made which they be- lieve will result in giving them more adequate revenues. In a number of instances they ask for higher rate levels within western territory. Most of these are too complicated to treat in a short space, but the plain im- plications based on facts show that undue preference is given the longer hauls from the east.

Into Their Markets.

Examples cited include the older arrangement, still in effect, under which a shipment of first class freight could be sent to Chicago and there reshipped to Cedar Rapids, Ia., on a freight rate 30.5 cents a hundred pounds more than a through rate. This is increased by the commission to 52 cents. From Pittsburgh to Chicago, reshipped to Cedar Rapids, first class freight is more now by 29.5 cents a hundred and this difference is in- creased to 48 cents.

A first class shipment may now, under the older tariffs, be sent from New York through Chicago and re- consigned to Kansas City on a com- bination of local rates only 12.5 cents a hundred over the through rate from New York to Kansas City. The com- mission has decreed, when its order goes into effect, that this difference be increased to 59 cents.

Effect of Change.

Without doubt the effect of this change will be to make it easier for New York merchants or manufacturers to ship directly to points in the west and more difficult for Chicagoans in distributing activities to handle east- ern goods. Too much additional freight charge must be absorbed here. St. Louis and other cities in the Mis- sissippi valley are discriminated against in like measure.

The condition complained of by the western carriers grows out of the com- mission's well known determination to place the freight traffic of the whole country on the mileage scale basis. This rate making theory assumes that it should cost the same to haul a car- load of coal, or potatoes or silk, 100 miles in Nebraska or 100 miles in New York. It is an attempt to over- simplify conditions that are in them- selves complex and disorganized; it takes into account no factors but distance and classes of traffic.

Some Results.

In many cases this results in rates that become too high for long hauls; certain traffic will not move more than a few hundred miles unless specially favored by low rates. In the ones cited here, the situation seems dif- ferent. Here the long haul traffic on which the eastern roads will get the lion's share of the revenue, is favored to an extent that threatens to injure both the cities and the rail- roads of the west. More of flexibility than the mileage scale permits is needed.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, in a letter to dealers, said the company has "the utmost confidence in the future of business, particularly that of our own business and that of our dealers." The letter said the company is in the midst of the greatest expansion program in its history, spending millions of dollars in building new plants throughout the world and is planning to spend mil- lions more next year.

'Inadequate' Rail Income Called Menace to Service

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—Ade- quate transportation service in the west is menaced because of "inade- quate revenues" of the railroads, ten executives of western roads asserted today in a statement filed with the interstate commerce commission.

"We believe," said the western ex- ecutives, "the present conditions sur- rounding the railroad industry in the western district demonstrate the ur- gent need of cooperative effort be- tween those who regulate the rail- roads, those who operate them and those who use them in order that an adequate system of transportation for the present and for the future shall be assured."

The rail executives who spoke for the association of western railway ex- ecutives, told the commission they be- lieved that, under the transportation act, "the ultimate obligation in re- spect to the maintenance of an ade- quate system of transportation by railroad is placed upon the interstate commerce commission, the effect of which has been described by the Su- preme Court of the United States as putting 'the railroad systems of the country more fully than ever under the fostering guardianship and con- trol of the commission.'"

Respond to Invitation.

Representatives of the western rail- roads recently sought an opportunity to submit to the commission informa- tion as to the financial condition of their roads in connection with the commission's decision cutting rates on grain and grain products, but the com- mission refused to hear the executives in a one-sided presentation as to the effect of that decision. The execu- tives were invited, however, to sub- mit, if they wished, a general state- ment not bringing in issue pending cases such as the grain case. The statement filed today was in response to that invitation.

The western executives said they were submitting the statement because they believed the situation of the western roads has become sufficiently serious to menace the maintenance of adequate transportation for the fu- ture.

In no year since 1920 have the rail- roads in the western district received earnings which approximate a fair re- turn upon the aggregate value of their properties, it was declared.

"During this period," it was assert- ed, "there has been a continued re- duction in the general level of freight rates, beginning with the year 1921, when drastic reductions were made in the rates on grain, grain products, hay and live stock in our territory, and in the year 1922, when the freight rates on all commodities were reduced 10 per cent, all pursuant to decisions of your honorable commission.

Cite Further Revenue Loss.

"Since that time there have been nu- merous other decisions dealing with rates on particular commodities which have resulted in further loss of rev- enues. There have also, from time to time, been certain readjustments made by the railroads themselves, in the usual course of business, which have, to some extent, affected the general rate level. Some of these were made necessary by the indirect effect of deci- sions of the commission readjusting other rates.

Forms of competitive and, to a large extent, unregulated transportation which have been and are being de- veloped, some by government aid, have prevented the normal growth of freight traffic on the railroads, it was declared. In this connection reference was made to the increasing transportation of oil and gas by pipe lines, to motor transport and to inland water- way trans- tation.

More Cuts in Crude Oil Prices as Output Gains

New York, Oct. 28.—Following re- ductions in prices of oil in various fields last week, cuts were made over other widespread areas today in a general readjustment of the market to lower levels. The only important field not yet affected by the price slashing is that of California.

The most important reduction to- day, in the opinion of the oil trade, was an average of 25 cents a barrel in prices by the Humble Oil and Refin- ing company, subsidiary of the Stand- ard Oil Company of New Jersey, throughout all fields of Texas not af- fected by previous reductions made by the same company on Oct. 16.

Hear Banking Firms May Form Billion Dollar Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—Reports were current in the Wall street district today that discussions were in progress concerning a merger of four banking and trust companies with combined de- posits in excess of $700,000,000 and re- sources of approximately $1,000,000,000. The institutions mentioned are the Bank of the United States, the Manu- facturers Trust company, the Public National Bank and Trust company and the International Trust company.

Commenting on a report of the pro- posed merger, F. E. Hasler, president of the International Trust company, admitted there had been "informal dis- cussions," but said that reports of the merger were "premature."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—With the un- certainties of a United States Steel corporation meeting hanging over it, the stock market wandered about like a little lost orphan today. Everybody neglected it. It toddled ahead for a while in the forenoon, slipped around noon and spent the rest of the session doing nothing mainly and taking plenty of time to do it in.

Net changes were largely toward higher levels but they were nothing to bust a suspender button over. Espe- cially with United States Steel. Radio corporation, General Electric, General Motors and many of the other big- timers checking in on the other side— for fractional losses or worse.

Coppers Sparkle.

There was one bright spot to the picture at that. The coppers furnished it. Better buying of the red metal at the new low price levels and a grow- ing conviction that domestic copper at its latest "revised" rate of 9½ cents a pound has finally hit a rock bottom price were responsible for the revived favor shown these shares. Anaconda put on its best performance in weeks, rising more than 2 points on the day. Kennecott climbed a point after the leader and the satellites of the group trailed in whole hearted fashion.

Group strength of a kind was also shown by the rails, Atchison, New York Central, New Haven, and Nor- folk & Western doing particularly well —thanks to improved earnings as shown in the September reports. Nor- folk had the advantage of the $2 extra dividend declared today. This is only half of the extra which stockholders got last year, but it's one of the oldest maxims in the copybook that a half loaf is better than none, which evidently ap- plies to the holders of railroad shares. Atchison was the big leader of the di- vision, spurting for a gain of more than 4 points.

Early Strength.

Utility stocks did well in the fore- noon but they did not fare so sty- lishly in the afternoon. Few of them, in fact, managed to hold any substan-

These bonds are issued by Wayne County on behalf of Tile Drain District No. 5, to provide funds with which to pay the cost of a combination storm and sanitary drain in the City of Wyandotte and adjoin- ing territory in Ecorse Township, which the county has practically completed. 78.13% of the taxes are payable primarily from benefited property in the district while 21.87% are collected from the Township of Ecorse, the City of Wyandotte, Wayne County and the State of Michigan. In the event of a deficit from any cause in the drain fund the County of Wayne is required by law to advance the amount necessary to meet principal and interest when due out of its general fund, provided such obligation would not cause the total debt of the county to exceed the constitutional limitation of 3% of its assessed valuation, which based on the above statement is over $138,000,000.

WAYNE COUNTY includes the Cities of Detroit, Highland Park, Hamtramck, Wyandotte and Dearborn, as well as many other small cities and villages. Wayne County is the fourth richest county in the United States, being exceeded in its assessable wealth only by the counties of New York and Kings in the State of New York, and Philadelphia County in Pennsylvania. Detroit, the County Seat, is the leading automobile city in the world and ranks as the fourth largest city in the United States in population and third in manufactured products and building activities.

Wayne County has a constitutional debt limitation of 3% of the assessed valuation which gives a present maximum bonding power of $138,473,140.05. In the financial statement we have included the total bonded debt and the total assessment debt for which the county is contingently liable showing the county to have a total actual and contingent debt of less than ½ of 1%.

Cattle advanced to the highest level since early last June on yesterday's short supply, while hogs finished firm after a 10@15c lower opening, recovering part of the early loss when smaller receipts were estimated for today. Lambs recovered 25c of the recent sharp loss. Hogs compared favorably with 1929 and 1928, while cattle and lambs are sharply below a year and two years ago.

The hogs average yesterday was the same as a year ago and 25c above two years ago. Top lambs were $4.75 lower than a year ago and $5.85 lower than two years ago. Cattle showed $2.25 decline compared with a year ago, and $3.90 loss compared with two years ago. However, at the low time in July top cattle were selling $6.00 below a year ago, while a month ago lambs were selling $6.00 lower than in 1929.

The hog market reacted after an early dip and many sales at the finish were about in line with the general selling the previous day. Bulk of offerings were steady to 15c lower, the general average showing only 5c loss at $9.20, while the extreme top lost 15c at $9.60, but was paid for lighter weight butchers near the close.

Shipping demand during the first two days of the week have been small. Outsiders bought only 12,200, against 20,600 a week ago, in spite of the fact that receipts were almost the same size as a week ago.

Hog Futures Slow.

Trading in hog futures continued slow, but prices were steady again, in free of a lower cash trade the last two days. December mediums sold at $8.80 and January hogs brought $8.85. October mediums were offered at $9.75, but $9.60 was the highest bid. November light and mediums were offered at $9.25@9.30.

On the "to arrive" market, hogs averaging 170@210 lbs for today's delivery were bid $9.25, but no offers were made.

Although a good many loads of steers were eligible to $13.00 and above on yesterday's market, there was a shortage of highly finished cattle and these kinds ruled strong to higher again. Others were plentiful and some sales were weak to slightly lower, showing 25c loss since last week's close.

Prime 1,046 lb yearlings to high grade established the new high of $13.60, while $13.50 was paid for their feed lot mates that averaged 1,056 lbs. Steers averaging 1,180 lbs reached $13.00, and 1,342 lb averages sold at $12.50.

Although fat lambs recovered mostly 25c of the recent harp losses, prices are still $1.00@1.25 below the high point of last week when best selections reached $9.50. Best on yesterday's market stopped at $8.25, packers taking bulk of good to choice ewe and wether lambs at $7.75@8.00 and buck lambs at $6.75@7.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 11,388 cattle, 17,534 hogs, and 25,777 sheep on the previous Wednesday and 13,669 cattle, 20,793 hogs, and 19,243 sheep a year ago.

SMALL ADVANCE IN LARD

Lard futures were well supported yesterday and closed 5 to 10 points higher. Warehouse interests were on the buying side of the deferred futures and there was selling of October and buying of December and January by packers and carriers. The advance in cotton had a good influence, offsetting the effect of the decline of 10@15c in hog prices. Liverpool was from 3@6d lower. Export clearances were 1,075,375 lbs of lard and 116,500 lbs of bacon. Cash trade was fair. Prices follow:

SYNOPSIS.

After the wedding they slip away to avoid the reception. Instead of going to Monterey, where their baggage had been shipped, they slip off to Lake Tahoe. King is strangely restless and irritable, and a phone call which Sheila overhears King make reveals to her the cause—he is a drug addict and because of their changed honeymoon plans is without a supply. Sheila determines to fight for King's regeneration and consults a federal narcotic agent, who suggests a program which if rigidly adhered to would effect a cure.

King had entered his favorite horse, Wind, in the Tia Juana races and intends to ride him himself, so they go to San Diego. The day before the race Sheila overhears her husband and his trainer planning to dope Wind to insure his winning. The day of the race, King asks Sheila to place his bets for him on Wind. Instead she places them on his opponent, who wins. After the race Sheila tells King what she had done and why.

King had promised Sheila to go with her to Alaska, after the races. Jim Molloy is in Reno and Sheila wrote to him, asking him to meet them there.

INSTALLMENT IX.

AN UNSELFISH LOVE.

A day passed before Jim presented himself at the hotel, after ascertaining by telephone that Sheila and her husband would both be at home. But before he arrived King had remembered a conflicting date at the gun club with one of his steamer "pick ups," as he termed his sea acquaintances. How eagerly, she mourned when alone, how regularly he now grasped every opportunity to leave her—ever since that track episode! Already she had become his conscience; how long before she would be avoided as his jailer? The narcotic agent had prepared her for such antagonism, and had thus, in fact, clinched her desperate design. For if her love must inevitably be a jail to him, why not make it serve, as such, his salvation.

While she sat waiting in the dreary hotel suite, she was fortifying herself to meet Jim's opposition. Primed for argument, she would have immediately opened attack, but for the supplication in the Irish eyes. "Smudged in, with a dirty finger"; so he used to discredit the heavy black eye brows and lashes which framed the gray orbs. They were inspecting her now, asking what she had done to her—his Sheila.

Yes, Jim still loved her; no other woman had taken her place. Jim was that kind. Some day, he would marry and would give a husband's loyalty to another woman, but Sheila would always have her niche in his heart. . . .

She wasn't being sporting to Jim! She had allowed King's need to make her selfish—rotten selfish. It would be decent not to see Jim; to let her image fade. But, she argued, Jim was her friend as well as her erstwhile lover; his affection was of the unselfish kind, which gives as well as takes. Moreover, his self-exile in the land of long winters had made him, with irony, the one person who could help her save King, and, she must remember to remind Jim, herself from sinking, too. For her life and King's was one. . . .

Any minute King might return; he was always forgetting things and coming back for them. She shouldn't waste a second of this opportunity. Jim would understand if she resumed at once the topic of her latest letter? He must know if a cabin, remote from Nome, could be secured; or could be built; or had already been found. Before the ship which had brought them north turned southwards she had to be informed whether the things she'd ordered while still at Aqua Caliente—days before she had received Jim's telegram, so sure of his assistance she'd been—had arrived in Nome. "For the place where I'm to live for eight months with a shanghaied husband, Jim, must be as luxurious as money and thought can make it."

"It's liquor?"

Molloy's eyes were noting the change in her; the girl he had loved since the day he had first seen her.

"Dope?"

She nodded, looking away from him.

"Not one of those hateful words, Jim! Or I'd have to ask some one else to help me, and you wouldn't like that?"

Suppose he did refuse to aid her? What a mess she'd make of it, without his robust help—why, she couldn't carry the wild plan through without Jim! Though she wouldn't confess that to him. She was using her old tricks with him. It wasn't sporting of her.

"I'm asking too much of your time, Jim."

"I'm thinking of you, Sheila. You don't realize the hardships. Is he worth it? No, don't turn away. It's a monstrous plan of yours."

"Won't my life be—just that if I don't save him?" She saw from his face she had scored. "I'm going to do it, someway, somehow. Would you rather let me flounder; go where you wouldn't know how it was with me, and where you couldn't help?"

"Why is it a little snip like you can always make mush of me? I ought to be shot for giving in."

Giving in! Before he had time to reconsider, she would involve Jim the efficient in practical details. "First, the servants. Have you been able to find a Japanese couple?" She added that she liked the little people, and they responded to her sympathy for them.

The smudged in eyes did not at once lose their sulkiness. Jim knew he had been trapped.

"Servants; yes, we'll come to them. But one thing at a time. You asked about some orders. A few crates came in on your steamer. They're down at the warehouse. I can take them out to the cabin—if you smile, Sheila, I'll drop you and your infernal plan. Of course, I knew you'd carry it through, once you had made up your mind. Yes, I've located a shack. It's not what I'd plan for you two sybarites, but the location is A-1. The cabin is double timbered, double roofed, and with a foot of tundra overhead, for warmth. It'll have to be lined with fiber board—do you realize how cold it'll be? Thirty, fifty, maybe sixty below. Do you know that every drop of water you'll use'll have to be melted; that you'll have no conveniences? Luxuries, O yes, you can have those; but no conveniences. Are you prepared—will he be, for that?"

What a rotter she was! If she were smiling, what about Jim? But she mustn't think now of Jim; only of King.

"You see, Jim—major—there's no other way. I've gone into it thoroughly. I've been interviewing doctors and government agents. Private institutions need rich patients, like King; and when they get them, they want to hold on to them. And public ones are public. Every paper in the country would find out and say that King George the First, son of the chewing gum king, was taking the cure. I won't ask him to submit to that. I won't."

There was no answer, and she hurried on.

"Can we have a radio, Jim? O, such a relief! I was bracing myself against a 'no.' It would be a hardship to be without news for eight months—it will be fully that long between the last ship's sailing, and the first one's coming in?"

"Approximately eight. But we get papers, and mail, by dog team. I can send them to you——"

"Not without King discovering we're not as isolated as he must think we are."

"Do you wish me to select the radio for you?"

"Will you?" Jim was still glum. "I'd never know the right kind; I suppose some are specially adapted for the frozen north?"

"You'll have to have a supply of dry batteries—no electricity in your castle, Sheila! You mentioned a phonograph in your letter. Did you buy one? I noticed one of the crates was marked 'Records, with care.'"

"The phonograph must have come then, too."

"Suppose we go over the list now?"

This involved their sitting close together, and once in a while their hands touching. Jim's fingers were unsteady. It wasn't fair to Jim!

They discussed and checked off each item. Sheila inquired if she could have caribou skins for the floor? They would need skins, rugs, for the bunks. If it were a one roomed shack—it was. She had planned, then, to curtain off the corners, with a bed and dresser for each. "Why, that won't be a hardship. I expected to have you say there'd be but one room. It will be all the easier to keep the house warm. Next, major; the dishes. And cutlery. Will you order those? Next, paper towels and napkins. They can be bought here? You'll get them? Parkas and mukluks for both of us——"

"Snowshoes," added Molloy.

"O, no! There are to be no snowshoes; there is to be no way to get out when the bad days, the desperate days come. The government agent warned me."

Good morning!

The circus has come to town—again!

It's Pop Garner's circus and Pop has a pretty daughter named Maryan who looks like a buttercup and performs on the trapeze.

Trailing the circus into the town whither it is bound when you first meet it, comes Doc May's medicine show. The star attraction of this enterprise is Garry, a tenor who plays a wicked guitar and sings a song about it. ("With My Guitar"—you know!)

Maryan listens to Garry, Garry looks at Maryan and Maryan tells Pop that what the circus needs to make it a REAL success is Garry.

Comes Garry! And, ere long, he is Pop's prospective son-in-law with all hands happy until enters the dark woman who's the sweetie of the whatever-you-call-him in a tall hat who does the announcing at the circus. THEN the trouble begins. Because, you see, the last named pair are deep-dyed villains who have designs on the circus cash box. Maryan falls off the trapeze. Garry is charged with theft. The villains are, for the nonce, riding on top of the wave—which, after the manner of waves, doesn't stay put. It washes them up onto a shore of sorrow and—

As for the rest, 'tis best that I
Refer you to the film "Swing High."

The picture has considerable motion and commotion; some pretty songs including Negro spirituals; Stepin Fetchit chasing fleas to tame; lots of sawdust and a modicum of suspense. The story's as old as the hills and you have a feeling that none of the players ever saw a circus—but now, what an absurd feeling to have! Of course, EVERYBODY has seen a circus.

The acting's not very exciting. Helen Twelvetrees and Fred Scott in the romantic leads are too marshmallowy. Dorothy Burgess (yes, she's the one who did such marvelous work in "In Old Arizona") overacts to the point of caricature. George Fawcett is good, because he doesn't know how to be any other way.

Some charming photographic shots and a cute monkey help matters. The sound, I guess, is all right. I sat in the balcony at Woods' and there it wasn't so hot. Cogitation: Talking pictures won't be a complete success until acoustics quit doing them wrong.

Directed by Rudolf Walther-Fein.
Presented at the Punch and Judy theater.

QUALITY: The music is delightful and much of the detail is to be commended.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Fair.

SETS, COSTUMES, ETC.: Pleasing.

DIRECTION: Fair.

DIALOGUE: All in German so I can't tell you how good it is.

SOUND AND SYNCHRONIZATION: All right.

STORY: Inga, a prima donna, is engaged to marry a busy doctor, but is slightly infatuated with the tenor of the company, with whom she commits a deeply regretted indiscretion. She marries her doctor, leaves the stage and is happy with husband and child until the tenor again plays snake in the garden. Requested by her husband to leave his house, she returns to the stage—but there comes a night when she does a Stella Dallas! H. E.!

REMARKS: The newly organized company which produced this film is trying out something new—sound pictures that cling to pantomime as far as possible. The result is very different from the silent films into which sound has been injected here and there. Personally I like the German company's idea. It does away with a deal of chatter and clatter and allows the imagination some rein.

See you tomorrow.

City Planning to Guide Pranks on Halloween

School Lots, Small Parks Scenes for Parties.

More than 70,000 children will be coaxed away from Halloween mischief tomorrow night by bonfires, athletic contests, and programs symbolizing the occasion in 64 playgrounds of Chicago public schools and many of the city's parks.

Cognizant of the fact that such entertainments have reduced property damage, since they have been undertaken in recent years, Kiwanis and Lions clubs are supplying refreshments and decorations.

"These Halloween parties have come to possess a cash value for the merchants in the various neighborhoods," said Walter H. Sonnenleiter, superintendent of playgrounds for the public schools. "And certainly they are more beneficial for the children than the old garbage can tipping and gate stealing which kept their fathers and mothers out until after midnight in their younger years."

About 200 trained directors, aided by volunteers from various civic organizations will conduct the programs for an estimated 65,000 children at school playgrounds. Bonfires, carefully supervised by firemen, will satisfy what William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, termed "that natural juvenile craving for destruction of property." Only the property will be barrel staves and old lumber.

Otto Weege, superintendent of Lincoln park, said more than a ton of candy has been purchased by north side merchants for distribution among six small north side parks. He extended an invitation to children and their parents to duck for apples and walk through field house cellars equipped as tombs and graveyards. The parks in whjch programs will be given are: Lake Shore plaza, Chicago avenue and Lake Shore drive; Seward park, Elm street and Orleans street; Stanton park, Vine and Vedder streets; Hamlin park, Robey street and Wellington avenue; Wells park, Western and Montrose avenues, and Chase park, Ashland and Leland avenues.

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south parks, hailed the plan of entertainment as "safe and sane." He announced that a number of parks on the south side will be bright with bonfires and full of children having a good time. At Cornell Square, 51st and Wood streets, the basement of a field house has been fitted up as a graveyard. A tortuous path winds through it. Eighteen small parks will be hosts from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

New Patriotism Is Need of Americans, Dr. G. B. Oxnam Says

A new patriotism adjusted to the needs of a new world was urged last night by Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of De Pauw university. He spoke to 700 members of the Chicago Methodist Social union. Dr. Oxnam was the principal speaker at the fifty-fifth annual banquet of the Methodist society, held in the Medinah Athletic club.

Certain adjustments must be made if the values of patriotism are to be retained, the speaker declared. He called patriotism a "holy emotion," but stressed the importance of bringing it under the control of the "highest ethics of idealism."

"There are too many little groups setting themselves up as the last word in patriotism," Dr. Oxnam said. Referring to the London naval conference, he described as false the belief that the "man who wears a uniform" is best qualified to fix the ideals governing patriotism, because he is an authority on the mechanics of national defense.

"There is a grave danger," he asserted, "in allowing the military-minded people to adjust the ideals of patriotism. The people who are at home in religious idealism have a new responsibility here.

"Patriotism as it has to do with governmental policies," he said, "should emerge from scientific research and function through scientific procedure." He praised the work of President Hoover's commissions.

Dr. Oxnam was introduced by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes. Thomas J. Dixon, president of the society, was toastmaster.

And others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THESE "Garrick Gayeties," which are stirring the stage of the Blackstone out of its dramatic dignity with song and dance and travesty, represent the spirit of irresponsible youth in the austere and purposeful Theater Guild. They form a clubby little show, which may be technically identified as an "intimate revue," but which might just as well be called a frolic by the freshman class.

The merry and ambitious boys and girls who cluster around the portals of the Guild, hoping to become bigger Alfred Lunts and better Lynn Fontannes, invented these "Gayeties" a few years ago for the amusement of themselves and friends; and now the show is an institution, adult enough to be sent on tour.

Subscribers to the Guild's seasons will enjoy it as a genial burlesque on the senior artists of the organization. It will make them feel as if they were eavesdropping in a Guild family party, with the young people speaking impertinently out of turn. The average playgoer, immune to "art theater" inoculation, will enjoy it also, after he catches its tone, along about the third or fourth number of the program. It has a charming naïveté beneath its pretense to sophistication; it romps and burbles along in a wholesome, high spirited manner.

"The Garrick Gayeties" may not be another "Little Show"—but few are. It contains, however, a ditty from the "Second Little Show," which recently flickered out in New York—"Sing Something Simple," with Ruth Tester as the crisp exponent of its melodic nonsense. Its "Butcher, Baker, Candlestick Maker" has made the grade among the big league revues: and its "Life in Hollywood," they say, has been adopted by Beatrice Lillie for the diversion of London. All of which will serve to indicate that the Guild's junior leaguers are competent in the invention of revelry. Their stuff is decidedly stageworthy.

When compared with the typical revue of Broadway origin, this amusement is like the little child that lightly drew its breath for the benefit of anthologies of English poetry. Such a comparison, of course, is unnecessary; but some theater-goers might like to know that there is a notable absence of bawdy "black-outs" in these "Garrick Gayeties." Its twenty-four numbers do not assay a single [or double] bed, and the dramatization of dirty stories has not entered into its idea of good clean fun.

Albert Carroll is the best known personality in the company, and after doing yeoman service in the skits he emerges in a brilliant exhibition of his special art—female impersonation. He plays Lynn Fontanne in a scene from Molnar's "The Guardsman," with Otto Hulett representing Alfred Lunt; and Mei Lan-fang couldn't have done much better.

Rosalind Fuller and Doris Vinton and Imogene Coca are the girls who lead most of the numbers; they are pretty enough and gifted enough for any revue. Neal Caldwell, formerly of the Goodman theater, is an active contributor to the pranks in all kinds of characters. Philip Loeb, Ruth Chorpenning, and Katherine Carrington are other names that crop out of the crowded program clamoring for mention. . . . Altogether, "The Garrick Gayeties" classes as a pleasant novelty in entertainment.

Dr. Wilcox in 1926 was secretary of the Pennsylvania state parole commission and is a penologist as well as an economist. An announcement of his appointment stated that he will have "general charge of coördinating the work being done for the commission by its various research assistants and advisory committees."

Yankees Hear Shaw, Einstein Talk in London

Playwright Says Science Always Upsets Things.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw and Prof. Albert Einstein spoke and exchanged compliments tonight at a dinner in honor of the German scientist.

The soft Irish brogue of Mr. Shaw and the staccato German of Prof. Einstein were broadcast to millions of listeners in England and the United States.

In proposing the health of Prof. Einstein, Mr. Shaw said:

"Here in London we are still a great center. I don't suppose we shall be a great center long. All that will be transferred presently to the United States."

Prof. Einstein addressed the guests at the banquet, organized by the joint British committee for the promotion of the physical and economic welfare of eastern Jewry.

"In the traditions of the Jewish people," he said, "there exists a striving toward righteousness and an understanding which should be of service to the rest of the nations now and in the future.

"Back in the middle ages all vocations except those of tradesmen were barred to our race. Consequently the only way in which we can help Jews of eastern Europe is to throw open new fields of vocational activity.

"To our English brethren, the past years and even the past days have brought disappointment which you must feel keenly. Don't bemoan the hardness of fate. Rather see in it motives of remaining faithful to the Jewish community. We should not have survived as a community if we had had a bed of roses during the centuries."

"Suppose," Shaw said, "I had been called upon tonight to rise and propose a toast to Napoleon. I could say many things about him, but the things most appropriate I could not say—that it would perhaps have been better for the human race if he had never been born.

"There are great men and there are men who are great among great men. Napoleon and the great men of his kind were builders of empires. But there is an order of greatness beyond that, the great men who are builders of universes. And the hands of these great men are unstained by the blood of any human being on earth.

"They are very rare, these builders of universes. I can go back 2,500 years and name them on my two hands."

Shaw then named eight: Aristotle, Pythagoras, Copernicus, Ptolemy, Galileo, Newton, Kepler, and Einstein. As he finished, he added, "and I still have two fingers left."

"These are the leaders," he added, "of one side of the great movement of the human race. I call one side of that movement religion, and the other side science.

Shaw told how Newton created, "above everything else, a British rectilinear universe," and how "a young professor got up in central Europe" 300 years later and proved that Newton was not altogether right."

"Newton knew," Shaw declared, "you cannot make anything in motion move in a straight line. How to make the universe English and rectilinear against that fact was a problem. But mere facts never balk an Englishman. They didn't stop Newton. He invented the law of gravitation. He created a universe that was purely English.

"For 300 years we believed in the Newton universe. I believed in it. I was brought up to believe in it."

Then he described the British dismay over Einstein's theory and facetiously quoted the professor as replying gently:

"No, I mean no harm to gravitation, but I can do without it."

Einstein Among Greatest.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Three thousand miles across the Atlantic the voices of George Bernard Shaw and Prof. Albert Einstein came to the western world today, almost as distinctly as though they had traveled only a few yards.

They spoke at a dinner given in honor of Einstein at the Savoy hotel in London by the joint British committee for the promotion of the physical and economic welfare of eastern Jewry.

Shaw introduced Einstein and proposed a toast to "the greatest of our contemporaries."

Expert Says Excess Liquor Injures Eyes

Dr. Emile de Grósz of Budapest yesterday reviewed recent researches into the causes of optic nerve inflammations. He discussed their influence on blindness. He spoke before members of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolarynology. The academy is holding its annual three day convention at the Hotel Sherman.

"Alcohol and nicotine are the two most important factors of the chronic form in retrobular neuritis, an inflammation of the optic nerve at the rear of the eyeball which results in partial blindness and is a widespread affliction," Dr. Grósz said. "And all signs give evidence that the damaging effect of nicotine surpasses that of alcohol. We observed approximately 100 cases every year for a number of years and 60 per cent were found due to the excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, while 15 per cent proved to have a nasal cause."

Dr. Grósz, professor of ophthalmology at the Royal University of Hungary, is the convention's guest of honor. Others who spoke with him on the noonday program were Dr. James A. Babbitt of the University of Pennsylvania and Dr. Stanford R. Gifford of Northwestern university.

Dr. Lee W. Dean, a member of the medical staff of Washington university at St. Louis, Mo., speaking at a banquet last night urged greater cooperation between the specialist and the general practitioner. He said he was definitely opposed to the promiscuous operation on children. He stressed the importance of combining the work of eye, ear, nose and throat specialists and the children's disease expert in treating babies.

An exhibition of new instruments is being held in conjunction with the convention. Among the exhibits is a motion picture camera that can photograph germs. Another is a powerful magnet used in extracting pieces of steel from human eyes. There is a camera to take pictures of the blood vessels back of the eyeball.

CORINTH, Greece, Oct. 28.—(AP)—After having braved an Adriatic storm of gale proportions the Bulgarian royal yacht Czar Ferdinand, bearing King Boris and Queen Giovanna, tonight had safely passed through the canal of Corinth.

The newly wedded royal couple are en route to Sofia, where on Thursday a civil marriage is scheduled to be performed. This marriage, Primier Liaptcheff is understodd to have said, will take place at 10 a. m. and will resemble more closely the Orthodox marriage form than a simple benediction.

The royal yacht was caught by a violent gale while the couple were crosing frpm Brindisi to Varna, Black Sea port. After being out of touch with the world for hours, due to atmospheric interference, the Czar Ferdinand radioed she would pass through the Corinth canal late today, and shortly after 3:30 o'clock the royal honeymooners were in the stilled waters.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have had as their guests at the White House Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Honnold, old friends from California, for whom they gave a dinner last evening.

Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, has gone from Providence, R. I., to New Jersey making speeches, following the Navy-Princeton game on Saturday. Mrs. Hurley accompanied him to the game and returned here last evening.

Mrs. Russell B. Harrison, who spends her winters in Washington and has recently taken an apartment at the Westchester, will go to Greenwich, Conn., tomorrow to attend the funeral services on Thursday afternoon of her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Robert McKee, daughter of President Benjamin Harrison. Mrs. McKee died there early this morning. Mrs. McKee was well known in Chicago where her son, Benjamin Harrison McKee, "Baby McKee," in the Harrison administration, lived for some years after graduating from Yale. He now lives in Paris. Mrs. McKee's body will be taken to Indianapolis for burial.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose of Kansas City, formerly of Chicago, arrived today at the Mayflower to spend a week. She will return here later on to spend the winter.

Rubio Demands Mexico Adopt Co-op Farm Law

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Formation of coöperative farming organizations similar in some respects to the collective farms of Russia was proposed in a bill submitted to the chamber of deputies today by President Ortiz Rubio.

A statement accompanying the measure said its object would be to create better credit and marketing facilities through group dealings other than individual barter. The bill would organize farmers holding parcels of land granted them under agrarian laws.

Under the present system the land is given out in a large tract to peasants living together and forming a village. The major grant then is cut up into smaller parcels for each peasant. The farmers thus owning parcels now manage their own affairs as individuals. This system does not work well, the president's statement says. Under the proposed new system the farmers in each group would be obliged to form a coöperative body to meet the needs of better marketing facilities.

Charity Fund May Replace the Assemblies

BY THALIA ——.

Quite the most startling and significant rumor that has been set going in fashionable circles in months is the one that the Assemblies may be omitted from this winter's program.

The Assemblies, though large social affairs, have a guest list carefully supervised by a board of governors that is impervious to any but the most bona fide claims to invitations.

It is reported that the cost of the two dances, the first week in December and the first in January, is to be contributed to some form of relief work.

There also is a rumor that there will be no Twelfth Night ball this season.

The Huntington B. Henrys, the Gustavus F. Swifts, and their respective debutante daughters, Miss Hortense Henry and Miss Geraldine Swift, have decided to have a joint debut dance instead of the separate ones originally planned.

Mrs. John W. Gary, chairman of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital, relays the returns from the benefit fashion show held a week ago yesterday. After all the accounting is done and the various sources of income and outgo are reckoned, the committee finds that net returns of the show were a little more than $31,-000.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. are taking a group of about 30 guests to the Princeton-Chicago game on Saturday afternoon and are entertaining them at a buffet luncheon at the Blackstone beforehand.

Present at a dinner given by the archeological department of Princeton university last Friday night in McCormick hall at Princeton were Cyrus Hall McCormick, donor of the hall; Henry J. Patten, and Charles H. Worcester.

There is to be another youth available for the stag lines at the debutante parties this winter. Mrs. Frederic W. Upham's nephew, Frederic H. Smith of South Orange, N. J., arrived in Chicago yesterday to be with his aunt for the winter. He is to serve as a volunteer worker in the emergency organization that is now beginning work on the unemployment situation. He was graduated recently from Princeton.

The Arts club announces an illustrated lecture by Dr. Arthur Upham Pope on Monday morning, Nov. 3, at 11:30 o'clock. "Some Unknown Architectural Monuments in Persia" is to be Dr. Pope's subject.

The annual meeting of the Antiquarian society is to be held on Tuesday morning, Nov. 11, at 10:30 o'clock, in the Potter Palmer gallery of the Art institute. Russell Plimpton, director of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, is to speak immediately after the meeting on "Buried Cities of the Mayans."

Mrs. William G. Hibbard is to give a luncheon at the College Inn today following the lecture by John W. Root on "What Is Modern in Chicago Architecture," one of a series of three lectures on "Modernism" being sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Robert Burns, the former Barnes Otis, has arrived from San Francisco, Cal., for the first time since her marriage last spring. She is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis.

Chicagoans returned from long absences to spend the winter season here include Miss Nellie Carpenter, who is again at the Drake hotel after spending the summer in the east, and Mme. Hanna Butler, who has returned from a summer in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux, who returned a few weeks ago from a 6 months' trip in England and Europe, are occupying their apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive until January, when they plan to go to Florida.

Society at the Opera

The Tuesday night subscribers for opera boxes had their "first night" last evening. Several of them had out of town guests. Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Peterson's party included Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Edwin Krenn, and Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, all of whom also attended the premiere the previous evening, and Maj. W. S. McHenry and W. A. Ohlson of Stockholm, Sweden. Mrs. Peterson was wearing white satin; Mrs. McCormick black net with gold coin dots; Mrs. Langhorne gold brocade, and Mrs. Lewis, black chiffon.

With Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fairbanks were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mrs. William Scudder, and Mrs. William Bobs of Indianapolis. Mrs. Fairbanks wore rose satin crêpe; Mrs. Barnes black chiffon; Mrs. Bobs black lace, and Mrs. Scudder a sparkling creation fashioned of white and emerald green bugle beads.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock and Mr. and Mrs. Hugo F. Simon. Mrs. Swift wore black chiffon with diagonal strips of lozenge shaped silver bead ornaments. Mrs. Stock wore black taffeta, banded around the neck and arms with silver beading, and Mrs. Simon wore a gold cloth gown and turban.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley Jr. were Dr. and Mrs. Mark W. Trude and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Buck. Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds had with them Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Leavell. Mrs. William Hale Thompson, Miss Medora Pelouze, and Mr and Mrs. John H. McGibbons were with Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze.

John Simpson was host in the box of his parents, the James Simpsons, to a trio of debutantes, Miss Hortense Henry, Miss Constance Hasler, and Miss Elsa Armour, with Gordon Kelley and Clay Bartlett. Miss Henry wore green and gold brocade; Miss Hasler, pale pink crêpe, and Miss Armour, black velvet.

The Stuart A. Logans had the Frank G. Logan box with Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Strotz, Miss Phoebe Logan, and Joseph Trabell as their guests. Walter H. Wilson had with him Mrs. Laurence Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulford, and Mrs. Barton Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. James Offield, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gordon composed another box group.

The guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schuyler included Mrs. W. B. MacCaughey, her debutante daughter, Miss Mary MacCaughey, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Faithorn. With the Clifford D. Caldwells were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hager, Mrs. Malcolm R. McAdoo, and Miss Margie Lin Caldwell of Bristol, Tenn.

Mrs. George Leach, Mrs. Conrad Poppenhusen, Mrs. Henry Wales, Mrs. Randolph Buck, Mrs. Wilford Nabors, and Mrs. Stuart Weston made a "dove" party in another box, and Mrs. Walter Buettner was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hafer, Miss Helen Russell, Miss Alice Anderson of Toledo, O.; Mrs. George Williams, and Mrs. Thomas Phillips. Mrs. Jacob Mortenson's guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Moore, and Mrs. E. D. Morrell. Charles W. Higley had with him Mrs. Howard Hetzler, Mrs. Edward Blake, Mrs. Frank Goodspeed, Mrs. Arthur B. Wells of Boston, and Miss Abby Hosmer.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There are going to be some pleasant evenings during the German performances this season. The Chicago Civic Opera management promised to build up its German wing this season, and it has more than kept the agreement.

At this hour I am sure that I never heard "Die Walkuere" sung as well as it was last night, with so little reason to try to excuse one artist because some of the others were good. They were all good. Not until the entrance of the valkyrettes in the third act was there any reminder of the conventions of a former day. Some of them did a little vocal tottering.

But Mr. Nissen was a magnificent Wotan; Mme. Lehmann a heroic and sympathetic Sieglinde; Mr. Althouse a tenor who understands the value of the vocal line. They all have extraordinarily fine voices, and they all know how to sing. The superb qualities of Mme. Leider as Brünnhilde and Mme. Olszewska as Fricka were remembered from last season and were expected last night, and last night they had associates of their own genus. And here Mr. Baromeo also classifies without the least difficulty.

If anything the performance was almost too lyric. In the company of blackguardly, double crossing gods and demigods that make up most of the personnel of Wagner's "Ring" one comes to expect heroically powerful voices and sometimes not much else. When one finds equal attention paid to beauty of voice and suavity of phrasing, it is almost a surprise. But I am the last person in the world to quarrel with that sort of surprise.

Slipping away to Orchestra hall during a portion of the opera, La Argentina was found dancing before an audience that tested the capacity of the hall and with about as many turned away as when she used to come to a smaller place. She is still the Spanish witch of the dance, brilliantly eloquent with tapping heels and snapping fingers no less than with pose of whirling body and expression of face.

Several of her numbers were new. One in particular, an Iberian dance to music by Joaquin Nin, could be seen several times without the least boredom. La Argentina will return in about three weeks. Perhaps she will do it again then.

Give Mr. Stock another chance or two and he is quite likely to get the Rachmaninoff E minor symphony moved up alongside the Franck D. minor, in the position of being the most persuasive and attractive of the modern or post-classical symphonies. He conducted it at the first of the Tuesday afternoon concerts at Orchestra hall yesterday and just about proved the case.

It was a joyous program through-out. Beginning with the Glinka "Russlan and Ludmilla" overture, ending with the bacchanale and finale of the "Tannhaeuser" overture, with the Rachmaninoff symphony as principal work and the Dohnanyi suite, full of highly agreeable tunes and solo bits for some half dozen members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, it was one of the inspiriting observances of the season. Be it added it was superbly played throughput.

Mark Wessel will assist Felix Borowski in the lecture before the next concert on Friday morning in the series sponsored by the Junior league in the Fine Arts building. Mr. Wessel will speak on his own Symphony-Concertante for piano and horn, in which he and Pellegrino Lecce will play the solo parts that afternoon.

The Saturday morning lecture recitals by Marx and Anne Oberndorfer at Orchestra hall have been abandoned for the season. Given for the hearing of Chicago school children, it was found impossible to draw a sufficiently large attendance to make their continuance practicable.

Baronet, 26, Wills Autos to Tallulah Bankhead

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Tallulah Bankhead, American actress, was mentioned in the will of Sir Guy Laking, 26 year old baronet, who died in August. One paragraph leaves the star "all my motor cars." The actress said this afternoon that the gift was a great surprise, particularly since she did not believe that he owned any automobiles. The baronet left $4,000 of unsettled property. Most of his personal property was left to his sister and the rest to a former governess.

Plane Flying Jungles to Marshall Fields Crashes

Six hundred disabled war veterans at Edward Hines Memorial hospital yesterday were treated to the first of the fall series of entertainments to be given by Frank Bering, manager of the Hotel Sherman. A dance orchestra and entertainers from the hotel gave a show in the auditorium of the hospital, which was followed by distribution of more than 1,000 packages of cigarets. Bering has been providing entertainments for the veterans for nearly nine years and said they would be continued monthly through the winter.

So put your faith in UNGUENTINE RECTAL CONES. They're but 75c a box. And when you can get such blissful relief and certain satisfaction, why wait? Ask your druggist—he knows. Every drug store in America carries them. The Norwich Pharmacal Co., Norwich, N.Y.

"You Go, Tom, I Don't Feel Like It"

AGAIN they have been invited out. Again a contact that would mean much to them. And again she doesn't feel like going . . . too tired . . . just isn't able.

Perhaps her husband will go. Perhaps he won't. Either way, the subtle demon of discord has again come into their home. Either way, the rift between them has widened.

In Victorian days it was thought inevitable that a woman should grow old before her husband. A woman was necessarily doomed to premature age soon after marriage, to a drab existence within the four walls of her home.

Modern science has destroyed that mistaken superstition. Modern science has shown that rapid aging, and the many diseases heretofore deemed characteristic and inevitable to women, are often traceable to lack of proper knowledge and cleanliness in matters of feminine hygiene.

And now, science has placed within the reach of all women a means of protecting their youth's vitality, charm and attractiveness, against those insidious ailments that sap one's vitality. That means is—feminine hygiene.

Through the use of a new antiseptic in tablet form, (Pariogen Tablets), which require no water or accessories, feminine hygiene is possible instantly, with no more effort than washing one's hands.

Pariogen tablets are non-poisonous, contain no carbolic acid, bichloride of mercury or cresol, yet destroy most objectionable germs in a few seconds. Gone are the dangers attending the use of poisons or caustics! Gone are the inconveniences of preparing solutions!

Pariogen tablets may be obtained at any drug counter—twelve in a tube the size of a fountain pen. Complete instructions for their use are enclosed. One dollar the tube. American Drug & Chemical Company, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

ACID CONDITION
the common cause of pain and discomfort after eating--

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume of acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All druggists—in 25c and 50c bottles.

Here's the reason EVERY CAN OF Hills Bros Coffee has such a matchless flavor

You control the mixing of pie crust when you add the water a little at a time. Hills Bros. control the flavor of their famous coffee blend by roasting it a few pounds at a time.

FRESH from the original vacuum pack. EASILY opened with the key. LOOK for the Arab on the can.

SLOWLY . . . continuously . . . a few pounds at a time, Hills Bros.' exclusive blend of coffee passes through the roasters. Every berry is roasted evenly by this patented process—Controlled Roasting. And the flavor which is developed is deliciously different from that which any bulk-roasting process can produce.

When you open a can of Hills Bros. Coffee it is just as fresh and aromatic as if you took it from the roasters yourself. For the air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is completely removed and kept out of Hills Bros.' vacuum can. In a so-called air-tight tin, coffee will not remain fresh.

Try a can of Hills Bros. Coffee. Grocers everywhere sell it. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab on the can. Then you will get the coffee made famous by Controlled Roasting.

Lovely Hands Are Great Asset to a Woman's Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Providence is kind in its way of endowing every individual with some one outstanding feature by which kind people remember her. Some one beauty quality, as an eye, a profile the turn of an ankle, a row of teeth a smile. It may be anything, but it is more often what we think of as one of the lesser features, such as hands, although I am sure I do no. know why hands were categorized as "lesser" anything.

In the autobiography of a famous woman novelist the memory of the "Aunt Sade's" hands, "the most beautiful and delicate hands I ever saw," was never lost to the chronicler of a most fascinating life story

Hands have that capacity of lingering long in the memory. When I think of several individuals with whom I have had contact a gesture with hands of charming structure arises at once. I don't think one recalls so vividly eyes, hair, or a silhouette. Possibly it is the power of expression that lies in hands that gives them the right to be remembered.

Again, there is this noteworthy fact about a woman with lovely hands as her birthright. She takes a rare pride in them. She never neglects them. It is told of one famous woman, owner of fine hands, that she had a special cream made which contained among other ingredients a pound of fresh butter. Though she died at a ripe old age, her hands were to the last day a pride and glory.

But haven't we all become more and more hand conscious? Aren't nails kept in better shape than they were ten or twelve years ago? And hands generally, are better looked after.

Still, there is yet some work to do to catch up with the skin preservation work that is the lot of the average complexion. I mean working against that middle age so often mitigated by a good complexion, contour, and figure, but never by old, wrinkled hands. That massaging with a rich cream that is granted the facial skin for its greater longevity and beauty is what we should see more of in hand care. Knead your good hand cream or lotion into the skin and massage with the fingers so that you will not be a young woman of the forties with old hands.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

T. C.: HOT BATHS ARE WEAKening, therefore should be of short duration. If taken during the day it is well to follow with a rest, to avoid chilling the body. Usually they are taken at night, before going to bed.

G. S.: DEEP BREATHING should be practiced at all times, as only by this means can the blood be thoroughly oxygenated. To step outside or in front of a window and take fifteen or twenty deep breaths several times a day helps to offset the evils of indoor living.

When Necessary to Limit Playmates, Do So Tactfully

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Short reading references on child management will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The gist of Monday's article was: Let your children see that you like, or, more, even love their friends.

The gist of Tuesday's article was: Don't try to influence your children's attitude toward their playmates by expressing your personal reactions if they are unfavorable. Or, briefly, don't let your children see it if you don't like their friends.

This second article makes a third one on the same subject necessary, because some mothers might think that it implies that we should never concern ourselves with our children's friendships.

Of course, we must, for sometimes it is obvious that a child will like some one who is not good for him, and then we must do something about it. Take, for example, the liking of a high spirited, gay youngster for one who is congenial in tastes but who is excessively nervous and abnormally excitable during all his time out of school. You see, perhaps, that this latter boy's companionship exhausts the first boy.

While you need not say anything, you can gradually give up inviting the nervous child to your house and find valid excuses for your child's doing less visiting there. Some perfectly normal but sensitively organized children are unfavorably affected by wildness or nervous habits.

There are other ways in which a playmate may be really harmful to another child, and if we see that this is so, then we need to control the situation. But even this doesn't mean setting up a dislike in your own child or showing one. With older children it is often possible to talk these situations over quite frankly.

Children are plastic. They're impressionable. They're in the formative period of their lives. We need to select somewhat the influences that life brings to bear on them, though we must do it in a way that will not make them soft and mollycoddled. All we want to do is to give them, as a gardener does his plants, every chance within our power.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Nurse Needs Uniforms.

"During the last year I have been robbed three times and my husband deserted me after using what money I had earned nursing. At present I am without uniforms—in fact, everything required on a case, and I am unable to buy them. My daughter is in school, our rent is past due, and we are almost frantic. Could someone send me some uniforms, size 38, and stockings, size 9½ or 10?

"H. B."

I am sure that another nurse with a good supply of uniforms and caps will come to this woman's rescue and donate one or two. When she is in a position to accept any cases which come her way the end of her troubles will be in sight.

Paralyzed for Three Years.

"A woman who has been paralyzed for the last three years is in need of a wheel chair. She has three children, 3, 4, and 7 years of age, and a wheel chair would be of great help to her. Her husband has been out of work for almost a year. A. H."

New worlds are open to the person who has been a shut-in for several years and at last comes into a wheel chair. Can you provide such happiness for this woman?

5 Lutheran Groups Ready for Merger; Over Million Members

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Delegates representing five general Lutheran groups will convene tomorrow to organize the American Lutheran conference. It will have a total membership of 1,377,000. Those to merge are the Norwegian Lutheran church, the United Danish Lutheran church, the Augustana synod of Swedish origin, the Lutheran Free church of Norwegian origin, and the recently organized American Lutheran church, which itself is a merger of three former general bodies.

The formation of the new conference will combine the Lutherans in America into three great groups, except for 150,000 members in seven small ones of foreign origin. The United Lutheran church in America with 33 constituent synods, and 1,520,000 members heads the list.

The synodical conference, a federation consisting of the Missouri synod, the joint Wisconsin synod, and the three smaller bodies, totaling 1,351,000, and the conference under organization are the other two.

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops.

WITH THIS NEW BEIGE POWDER FROM PRIMROSE HOUSE

If you want more color in your skin, use rouge to get it, but never look for it in your powder box. Light shades leave the skin spotty. Extra dark powders make the face hard and old. Primrose Beige powder is exactly right. So fine in texture it actually becomes a part of the skin, giving that natural finish to the complexion that every woman wants. It will not cake or harden and the way it clings is a perpetual delight. A luxury, of course, but you'll see how important if you'll just try a dollar's worth of this $3 powder.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Woman's Letter Voices Regrets of Stock Speculator

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Three years ago when I married, and up to three weeks ago, I felt that I never wanted to block my husband in anything he might want to do. Whether it might be to change his position, invest our savings, or do anything that might mean progress for him, I stood behind him. I criticized my married friends who wanted to know what their husbands did with that last dime. I never backed down when friend husband suggested going on a party which meant spending from ten to fifteen dollars. I feared a refusal might mean his going out alone the next time.

"So we lived for three years—spending and speculating. My husband earned sixty-five a week. I earned thirty, while I worked. We saved enough to begin speculating. Then I quit my job.

"We had beginner's luck in the market. Then everything flew. I put my foot down when we had only fourteen hundred dollars left and insisted that we clear out of the market for good.

"Three weeks ago my husband came home jobless. I consoled him with the fact that we had fourteen hundred dollars to the good. Then he told me he had lost all of that but $300. I have been fortunate in getting back my job, but the salary will not half cover our present expenses.

"As I look back and think of the immense sums we squandered I wish I had been more of a director of his affairs. I am being criticized now for not having better sense about our money. AMAZED."

"Amazed's" plight is printed at length because there is no question in my mind that similar situations and similar regrets are found in thousands of homes today. Reduced living expenses are a common experience at the moment. "If we only hadn't spent so recklessly" is an oftheard phrase.

But where's the sense of recriminations of self or mate? Every one was foolish. Everybody spent recklessly. And a good time was had in the spending. If the piper has to be paid now why not be a good sport about it? It's the only way that couples can pull themselves out of the depression, mental and financial. No use spending time wishing for what is gone. Constructive work can be conducted for future benefit by keeping faith, economizing, going without, and learning to separate actual needs from superfluous wants.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Good Riddance.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love asked me to loan him some money. I refused. Now he calls me 'cheap.' Please advise. DISAPPOINTED."

You used excellent judgment. You'd best fail to recognize him when you meet.

Love's Plaint.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend and I quit. He still asks me to go out with him, but never to go steady. Please advise. LOVESICK."

He likes you and wants to continue seeing you, so why not go out with him?

White Broadtail Makes These Saucy Accessories

DOROTHY DULIN PARIS

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fur sets have come back into Paris fashions. Patou is showing collarless coats and fur shawls, scarves and muffs that can be worn interchangeably with coat or dress in his ensembles for every time of day. Molyneux, fur trimmed, fabric scarves and muffs are an attractive element of his new revolution silhouette. Lanvin, Lelong, Vionnet and Philippe et Gaston are all featuring muffs paired off with some other fur accessory such as a fur bolero, cape, stole or tippet. Suzanne Talbot prefers fabric barrel muffs to match her costumes.

Germaine Lecomte uses shirred fur and fabric to make one of the most delightful and original accessory ensembles I've seen this season. The round fur bib collar buttoned at the back of the neck has a notch in front to take away a too babyish effect, and it is edged with a shirred ruffle of the white broadtail. The shirred broadtail cuffs belong to the white antelope gloves—not to the frock. The little round muff is made of black broadcloth entirely covered with rows of shirring and is edged with shirred white broadtail ruffles. The bonnet is of white broadtail trimmed with black broadcloth. The black broadcloth frock to be worn with this saucy set is necessarily simple. It has a high, round decolleté, long, plain sleeves and a plain tailored belt. Gored panels curved at the top make the skirt flare from a high hipline.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

PROTECTING FLOWER BEDS.

It is too early to mulch such hardy perennials as tulips and narcissus as this is a job that should wait until after the ground is frozen, advises E. C. Volz, floriculturist of Iowa State college. The primary purpose of mulching is to prevent alternate freezing and thawing and for that reason covering should not be used until quite late depending on the season, he says.

Dry leaves held down by cornstalks make an efficient mulch because this combination eliminates the danger of weed seeds infesting a plant bed.

Roses need little extra attention during the winter, except in the cases of hybrid tea and the baby rambler varieties, according to Mr. Volz. His system for the protection of these is to draw up earth into an 8 to 10 inch hill around the stems and to place a mulch of dry leaves or strawy litter over this.

One sure way which he recommends for wintering tender roses such as hybrid teas is to dig up the entire plant and bury it in a deep trench, covering with soil and a heavy mulch of manure. Most climbing roses are considered very hardy, but they appreciate some attention such as taking them from the trellis, laying them on the ground and covering with dirt or straw. This covering should be removed promptly in the spring before growth has started. Hybrid perpetuals and shrub roses used for border and screen plantings do not require any special protection.

Archbishop Francis Beckman of Dubuque, formerly bishop of Lincoln, consecrated the new prelate. Thursday morning Bishop Kucera will be installed at the Lincoln cathedral.

Million Surplus to Keep Up Foreign Mission Work

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 28.—(AP)—There will be no recall of present missionaries of the Seventh Day Adventist church, according to a decision made today by 500 delegates to the fall conference of the church. Despite the fact that the church is facing what officials describe as "a financial crisis," the world-wide missionary work will go on, supported by a mission reserve fund of more than $1,000,000 which has accumulated in the last 15 years.

Did your child have the Whooping Cough recently?

Whooping Cough requires your doctor's care. Follow his directions carefully. And, after the disease has run its course remember that your child's strength is low. Month's of hacking and discomfort have sapped his vitality.

A half-sick, run-down child is ill-equipped to face winter's dangers. Now is the time to build up health and vigor.

For over 75 years Father John's Medicine has proved its worth as a body builder, as a tonic for weak, run-down children, as an aid to healthy vigor.

It supplies in easily assimilated form the food elements that your child vitally needs and which are missing from so many modern diets. Pale, half-sick children pick right up. Colds become few and far between. Weight is added, strength returns.

Father John's Medicine is a combination of valuable ingredients, none of which could harm an infant. It contains no alcohol or drugs. Because of its scientific preparation it brings to your child all the benefits of cod liver oil in its finest form. It is rich in vitamins. Children thrive on it amazingly. And they love to take it, because it tastes good.

If your child has been sick recently, if it catches cold easily, if it is pale, listless or underweight, try Father John's Medicine. Over 184 hospitals and institutions use it regularly. Countless mothers are never without it. All drug stores have it in stock.

Food Talk.

Do you take advantage of every highly colored vegetable on the market? There is nothing that adds more interest to your meals than color. Red cabbage is attractive because of the color and we need to discover its possibilities, since red color is found in only three or four vegetables.

The quality of red cabbage is no better than that of the more common green or white cabbage. In fact, the flavor is usually stronger or a little more peppery and the texture is coarser. If treated properly, however, red cabbage makes excellent food. Our German friends learned first how to cook it. They like sour cabbage and obtain it by putting vinegar into the cooking water. Fortunately this is just the treatment that suits the red variety, but it is the wrong treatment for the green.

The red coloring matter in any red vegetable is emphasized when an acid is used. That is why the addition of vinegar and lemon juice makes red cabbage and red beets so brilliant. But an alkali [hard water or a little soda] spoils red vegetables, giving them an ugly purplish color. And this is usually the way we see them served. On the other hand hard water and a little alkali [a pinch of soda] emphasizes the color of green vegetables and an acid spoils green color.

Because red cabbage reacts so beautifully it is ideal for the making of slaw. Since its texture is coarse it must be shaved fine but this can easily be done if a sharp slaw cutter is used. Try the following recipes and we believe you will want to use beautiful red cabbage often.

1 tablespoon salt.
3 tablespoons vinegar or
Juice of 1 lemon.
3 tablespoons butter or
3 tablespoons bacon drippings.

Drop cabbage into boiling water to which salt has been added. Cook rapidly in an open kettle for about ten minutes. Then add vinegar or lemon juice. Continue rapid cooking until vegetable is tender. When tender the cooking water should be almost evaporated. Add butter or bacon drippings and serve at once.

⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Select nice, firm red and white cabbage. Wash, cut off wilted leaves, quarter and soak in cold water. Drain, cut into thin slices and chop fine, each kind separately. Make salad dressing by mixing sugar, salt, mustard and pepper and stirring in the vinegar. Boil all together. Rub the butter and flour to a cream and pour on the boiling vinegar. Cook 5 minutes and then pour it gradually over the well beaten yolk or the whole egg Divide the hot dressing into two parts, mix with the red and white cabbage separately. Take ¾ of the white mixture, pack it smoothly on platter 1 inch from the edge. Make a wreath of the red all around the white, keeping lines distinct and smooth. Reserve ¼ of the red, place in center on top of white and have the remaining white top the whole.

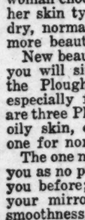
STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

FACE POWDER STYLES LIKE CLOTHING STYLES ..... HAVE CHANGED!



A short time ago.... knee length dresses, long waist lines. Now....the romantic frock, long, ruffled, flowing. And just as styles have changed in clothes, they have changed in face powder, also. Today, the smart woman chooses a powder that suits her skin type, whether it be oily, dry, normal. As a result she is more beautiful than ever before.

New beauty can be yours, too, if you will simply do this: Choose the Plough Face Powder made especially for your type. There are three Plough powders—one for oily skin, one for dry skin, and one for normal skin.

The one made just for you thrills you as no powder has ever thrilled you before; for never before has your mirror reflected the satin-smoothness, the silken texture, the glowing beauty that your own Plough Face Powder lends to your skin. Try it!
